Back at School Again

Once again into the crowded halls and classrooms, it seems as though you never left. It is always so good to see old friends that you lost touch with over the summer.

After spending the first few days in homeroom and endless hours just sitting in class doing nothing, you know that sooner or later you must find time for new old books and old new teachers. The first day you get your schedule, but it won't be the one you keep. By the time you get your schedule changed for the tenth time, you realize that school is back to stay, so you settle back and prepare yourself for another year at Carter.

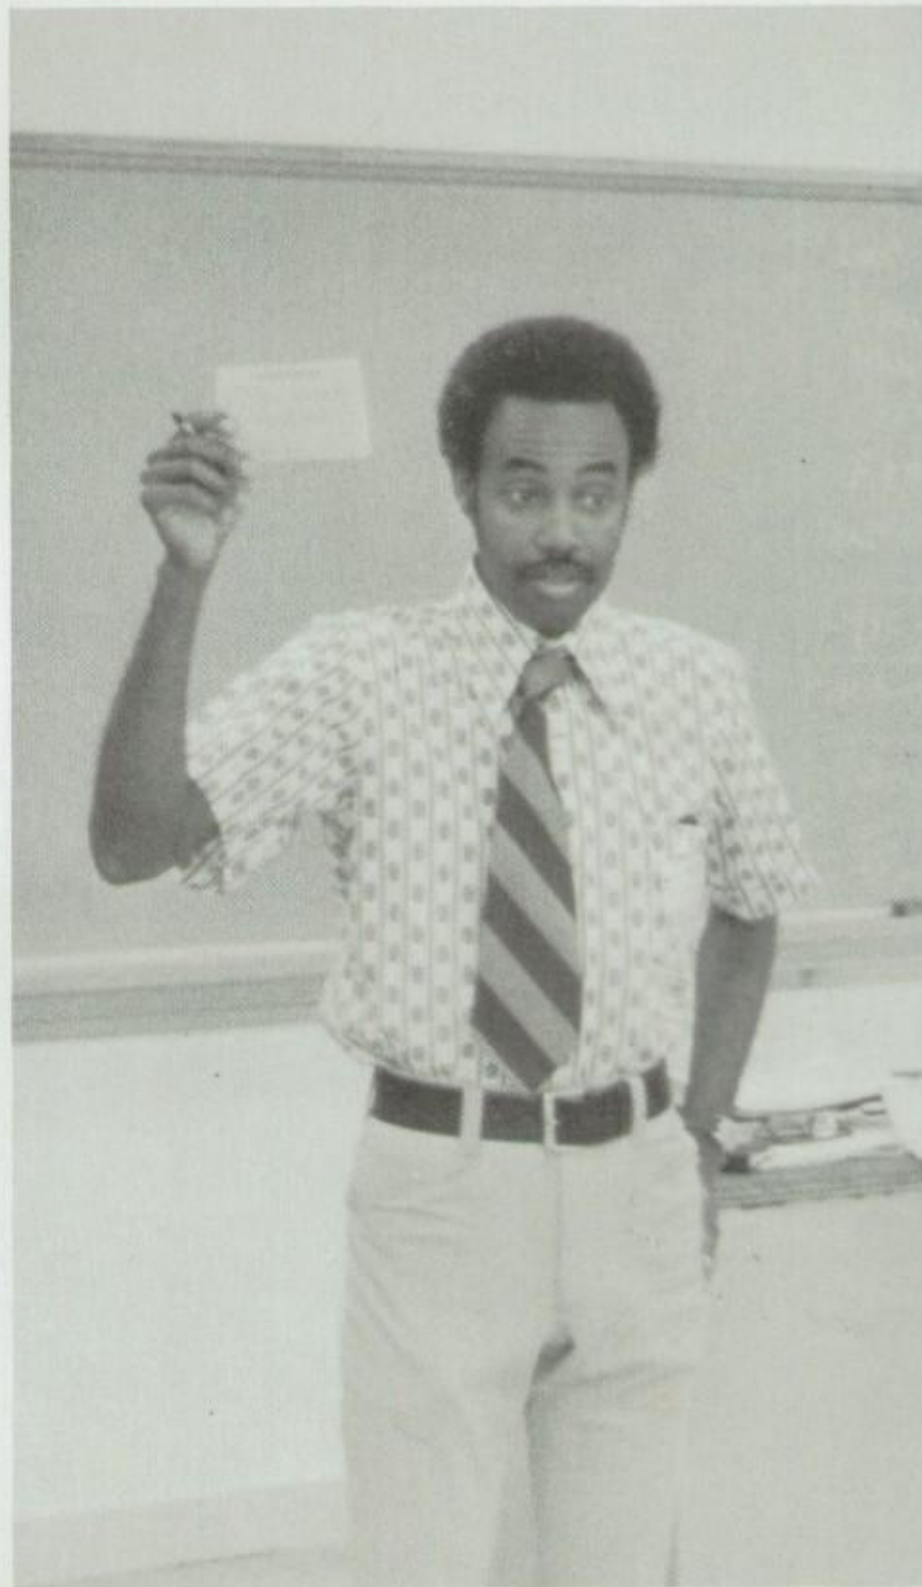

"Spent all last year putting in the air conditioner and now they can't even get it to work."

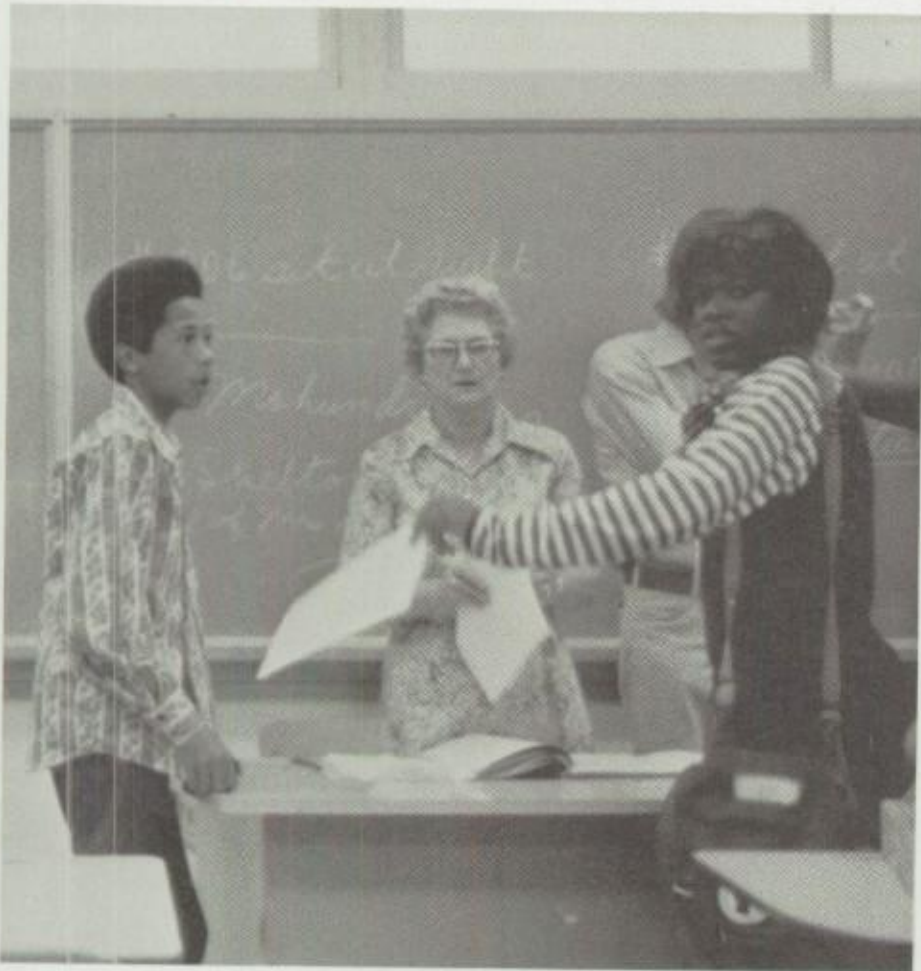

Now did you say, first name last, last name second, and second name first, or . . .

Early morning beauties try

Sha-zaamm!

There's nothing like waking to the ring of an alarm clock for the start of a day at school. You lie in bed thinking that you will get up in five minutes, but somehow when the five minutes are up, you can't muster enough energy to climb out of the bed. As the blinding light from your lamp shines in your eyes, you stare at your reflection in the mirror, wondering if you'll be able to make it to school. Once over the initial shock of waking up, it becomes easier to take care of all those little things that must be done to get ready for school. And its off to band practice, drill practice, a French club meeting, or maybe first period.

I'm afraid to eat the whole thing.

. . . Oooh, this G*!@ typewriter!!

All right, who put Tinkerbell's IBM card in here? You know he goes to Kimball!

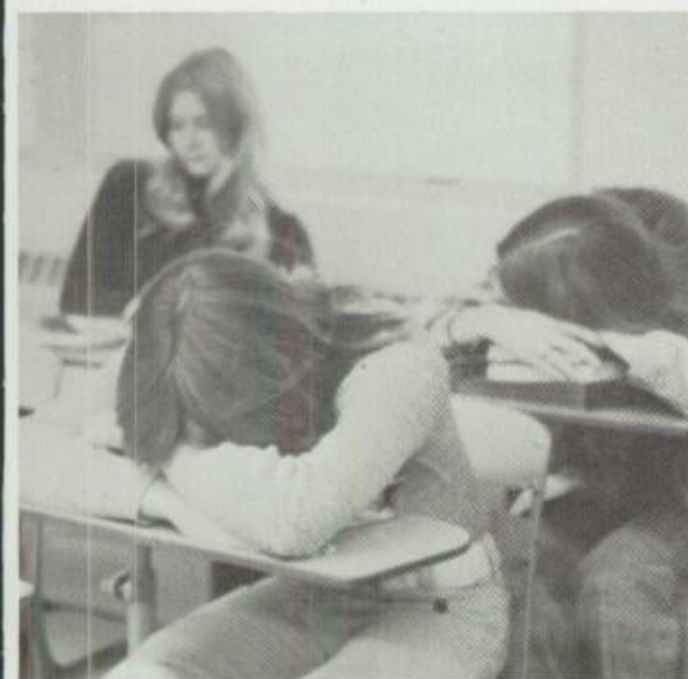

How dare you ask me that so early in the morning.

What a way to start the morning.

The Art of Pretending to Participate

How often have you found yourself gazing out the window during class, floating a hundred miles away? Somehow, you just slipped out of the classroom without meaning to, and without even realizing that you were doing it. The teacher never stopped talking, but her words were drowned out and lost by your own interesting thoughts. When you snap back into reality, you wonder how long you were gone and what you missed while you were away. Thankful that you are able to daydream during at least some of the lecture, you settle back into the daily routine of classroom procedures.

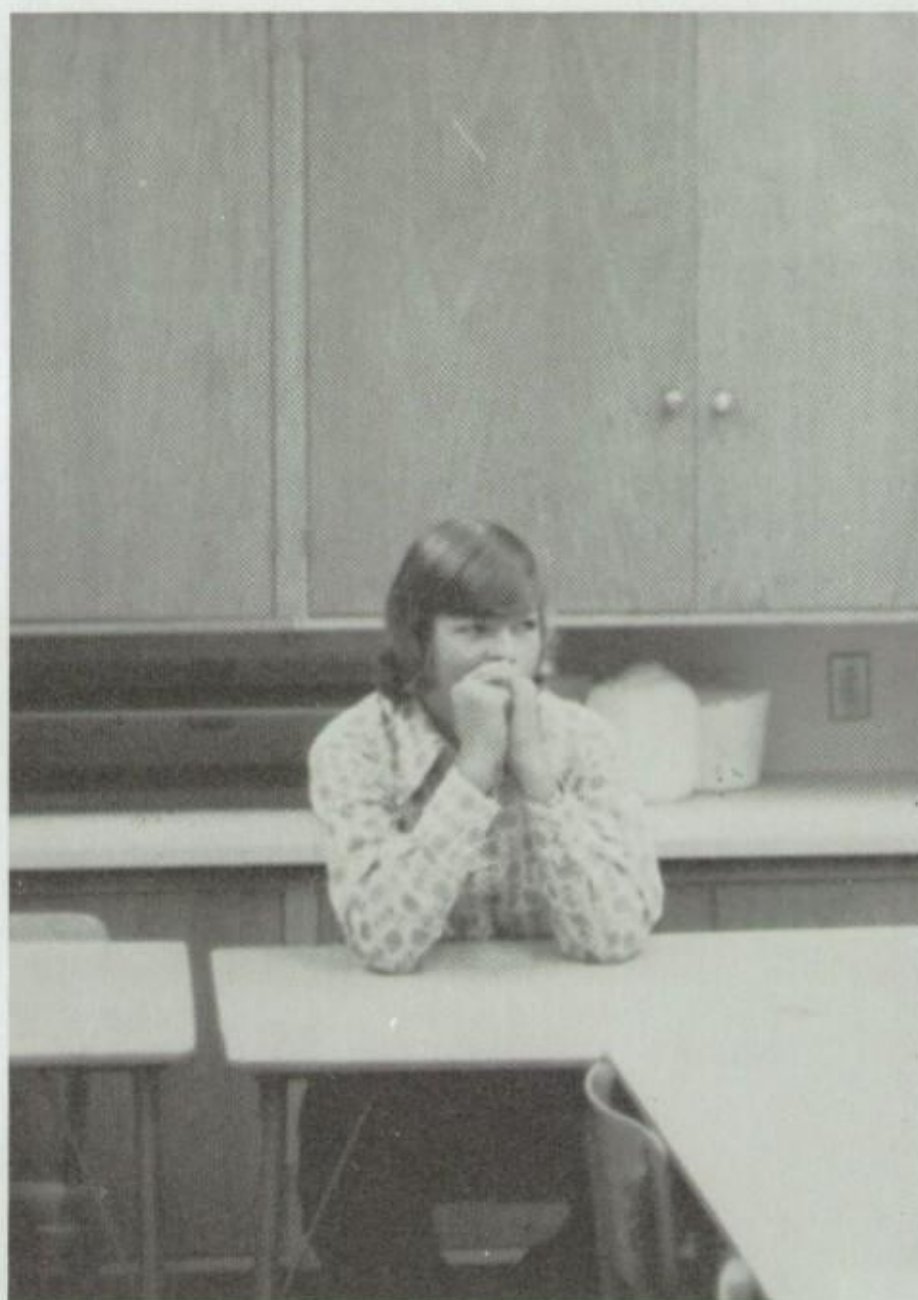

(Sigh) "I hate to do book reports."

Lazy, Listless, and Lackadaisical

Afternoon can be the longest part of the day but also the best part. It's the longest because periods 5 and 6 last forever, and the best because after 7th, there's not an 8th! After school, the parking lots look like an afternoon at Dallas International with cars streaming away at little less than neck-breaking speeds. It then becomes a mass exodus — everyone to a different destination! Jobs are calling, books at the library are just waiting for poor souls to come study from them, store cash registers are ready for your money, and for those lucky enough to go home and collapse, "Leave It to Beaver" comes on at 5:00 . . .

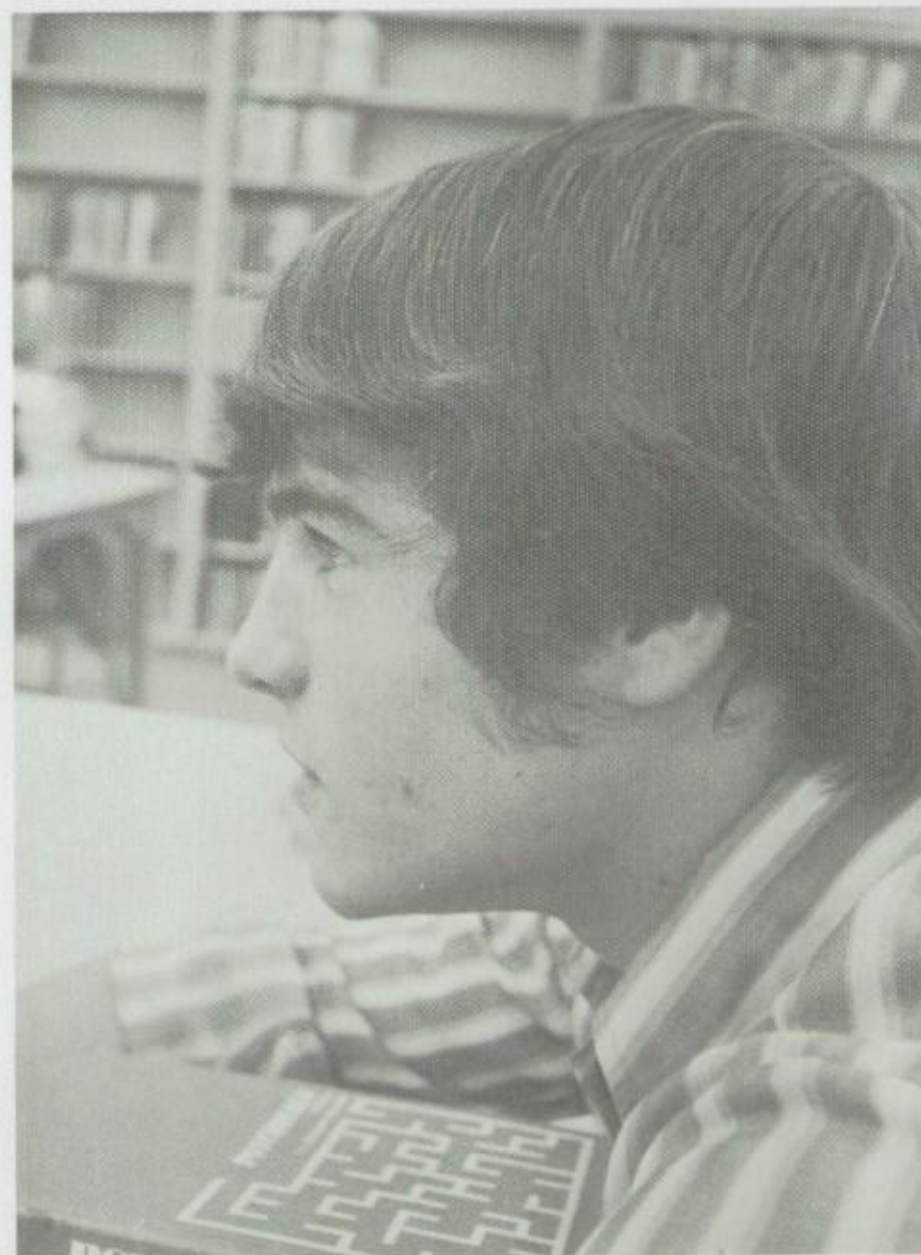

Hey, I didn't know you could get KAFM on these ear phones!

It's Friday afternoon, the bell has rung, and you're free with two whole days ahead of you. After five days of waiting, the weekend is here, and you're not going to waste a minute of it, so grab your date and get started on one of the hundreds of ways to spend your weekend.

"Deliverance" is showing at the Medallion tonight, if you don't mind the drive, and afterwards you might take in a hamburger at Jamie's. You can head out to Louann's if you're in the mood to rock and roll, or if it's a special night, you can have a quiet dinner alone.

If your budget has been stretched a little too much lately, that still doesn't mean you have to sit at home! There's always a show to choose from at the Triangle or Aquarius, and Pizza Inn is still as good as it ever was. You can get in on the action up at the Jack; there will always be somebody there you know. Somehow, it never gets too cold for the Astro and there's always the possibility of going to watch rabbits on Kirnwood . . .

Whether you go dancing or just spend your weekend taking it easy, it's always good to be with someone special. When you're with someone you care about, anyplace is fantastic!

SPIRIT

*enthusiasm for participation
in the game*

Spurs

1, 2, 3, up! Heads pop up with cards in front of their faces and a lot of the time it's the wrong card. After practicing this stunt 110 times something always seems to go wrong at halftime. Of course, card-stunts aren't the only reason for having the Spurs at football games. Their enthusiastic support and spirit is what stirs excitement in the bleachers. You wouldn't think the Spurs would still have so much spirit after demerits, cold rainy nights, and practices at 7:00 A.M. (lock the doors, it's 7:00!) Football games just wouldn't be the same without them! 1, 2, 3, down!

Calicos 1972-73

Being a member of the Calico drill team entails many exciting and fun experiences, such as: marching in parades to the point of near physical exhaustion, shivering in the rain on the sidelines as you try to dodge the football guys coming toward you, staying up half the night baking cookies for the spirit committee, staggering from the parking lot to the girl's gym at seven o'clock in the morning with three changes of clothes, hats, boots, and a 9X13 sheath cake, and finally, seeing your officers gradually disappear one by one.

You are probably thinking that every Calico member must be absolutely crazy to go through all this for their school. And what's more, you're probably right!!!

Once you're out on the field and moving, the shivering doesn't show up as much.

Yep, yep, they're not in step.

"Ashmore, if you and Eleita aren't going to take try-outs seriously, then we just won't perform this week."

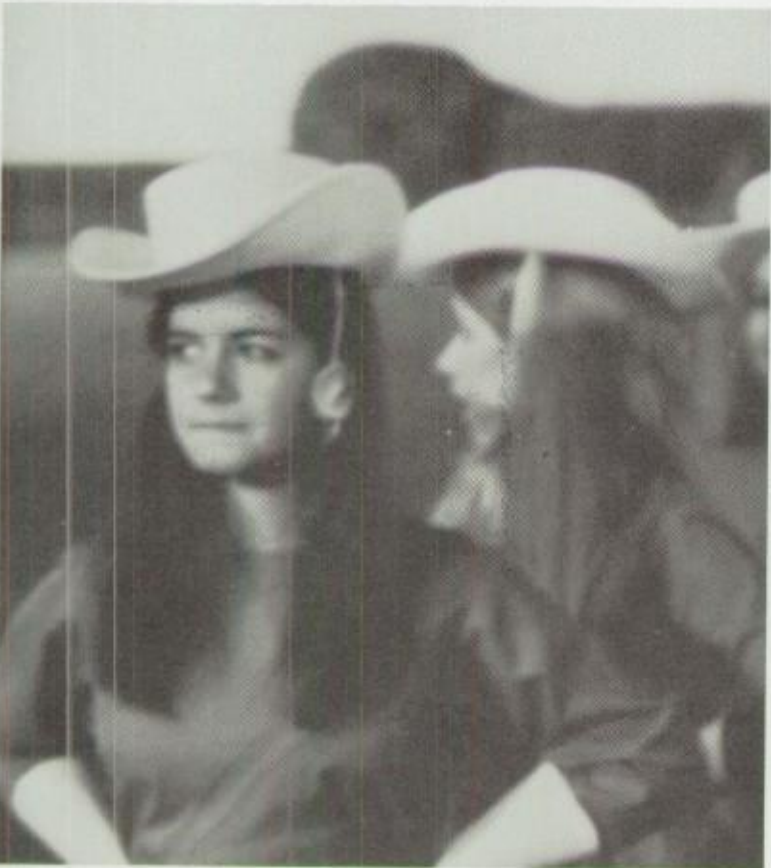

Calicos entertain at half-time to "Shaft."

"My girdle is killing me!"

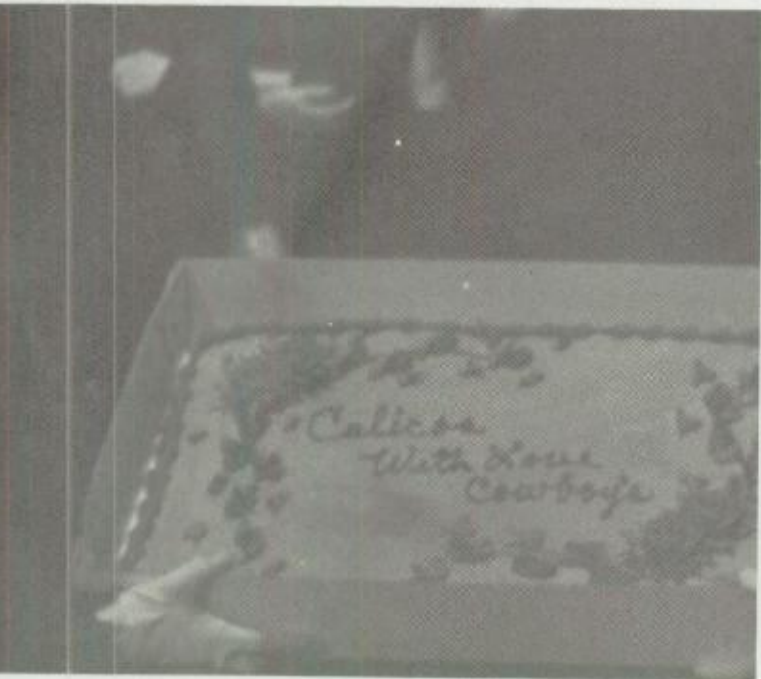

While the rest of the Calicos are involved in the game, Debbie Lindsey wonders "Now do I march out on 2-1, 5-4, or 10-6?"

"Psst! Swenson, turn around, I think we're about to get creamed."

Cowboy Band

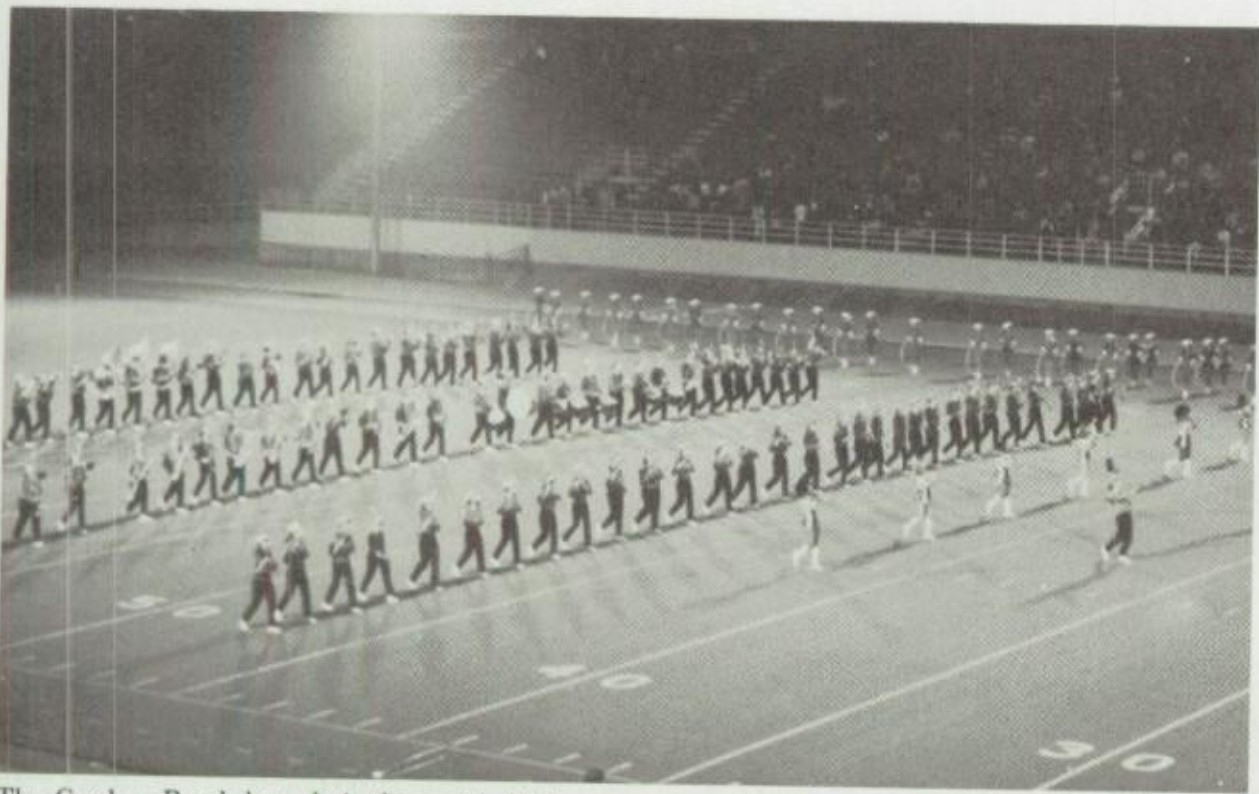

Every morning at approximately 7:00, you can see the band on the parking lot or practice field. A student can get a preview of the weeks halftime show as the Cowboy marching Band rehearses.

In every performance the band has a surprising new touch. The band takes an active part in our pep assemblies to promote even more school spirit. They play music so that the majorettes, Calicos', and students may perform. The band, with the Concert Choir, made a beautiful Christmas program this year. The band had a few solos and ensembles during the program.

The band and majorettes with other area bands march in four big parades during the year. They also enter many outstanding solos and ensembles in city wide contests and have several members qualify for the all-city and regional band.

SPIRIT, SPIRIT . . .

The auditorium always looks its best when decorated for a pep assembly. Balloons, crepe paper, and posters upon posters all go up the afternoon before the game. But it's the enthusiasm and the electric excitement running through the student body that makes Carter's pep assemblies so great! The band, Calicos, pep squad, and those Seniors of '75, '74, and of course '73 join with the cheerleaders, and sometimes without them, in crazy, chaotic, fun-filled, but many times too short pep assemblies.

Fans show different expressions while the players work for achievements in the game.

Some get deeply involved in the game.

There is nothing like being in a crowd. Feelings, moods, and excited emotions, travel like electricity through a crowd. Individuals suddenly become blended together and the crowd takes on one huge personality of combined spirit and mind. Crowds can be the most exciting place to be. They're full of movement and anticipation. They hold security; a feeling of belonging; of being a part of something great. In a crowd, it's never really possible to feel alone.

Homecoming Coronation '72

The evening of excitement begins with a joyous Cowboy victory over the Kimball Knights. People are seen slipping away from the rainy game early so that they might have a few extra moments to get themselves together before the dance.

Once at school, the familiar sound of music mixed with the excitement of the victory fills the girls gym. While trying to greet friends above the music, you hesitate, and strain to see in the darkness until your eyes have a chance to adjust. At promptly 11:00 p.m. everyone files into the auditorium for the coronation. After the announcement of the Queen and her court everyone is anxious to get back to dance, stand around, talk, drink cokes, or to do whatever hits you at that particular moment. As the dance eventually comes to an end, looking out around the school, there are hot, exhausted people — boys with coats slung over their shoulders, and girls with corsages gradually wilting, but still there is that air of a very special evening.

Nominees await the announcement of the 1972 Homecoming Queen and her court.

1973 Military Ball

The annual military ball is always an elegant affair filled with pomp and pageantry. Forest Oaks Country Club serves as an appropriate setting for the ball with its traditional honoring of the corps, crowning of the queen and her court by an honor guard, and the selection of Miss ROTC. Commencement of the Grand March, led by the queen and her court and Battalion officers, climaxes the evening of excitement. Dancing is enjoyed by all as the 328th Military Band provides entertainment.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps program has many goals with the primary aspect to allow a young man to acquire pride and confidence in himself and his country, and to attain the level of leadership necessary to become a leader in his community. The program is not designed to produce soldiers, but only to provide young men with the fundamental knowledge of basic military subjects if and when they enter service.

The Carter ROTC is extremely active, and performs in the many activities of the school. The cadets work harder to better themselves, but they also enjoy the corps social activities, the Drill Team, and the Rifle Team competitions.

GEORGE

He's always there. Every morning, standing on the corner in his Carter letter jacket, watching cars streaming down Indian Ridge on their way to school. Many times during football season, he can be seen leaning on the fence watching afternoon workout. He never misses a pep assembly, enthusiastically supporting the Cowboys from his inconspicuous place in the back of the auditorium. Sometimes he gains the spotlight when the auditorium resounds with the cry of "We want George!" He always lets everyone know he thinks Carter's No. 1 — in more ways than one. You can see him at every game, walking along the sidelines, his hand held high in the "No. 1" sign.

This years Round-Up staff would like to pay special honor to Carter's most faithful supporter. Because of his outstanding loyalty and enthusiastic spirit, we dedicate this year's sports section, "Sweat", to George Emerson.

Cowboys Start With Victory

Pierce 3-0

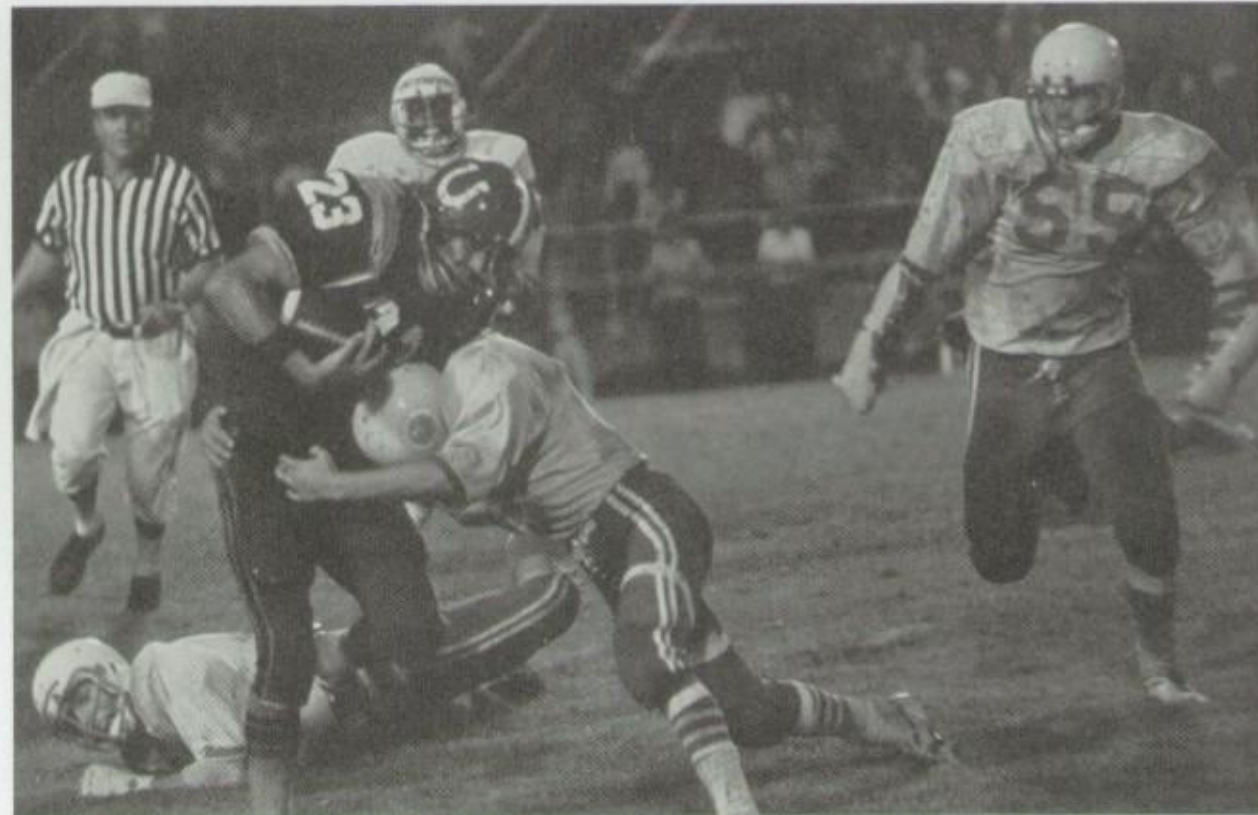

The first game of the season, against the Richardson Pierce Mustangs serves as a chance for the 72-73 Cowboys to prove themselves. After such a great season last year, the student body is hoping that the team hasn't lost its sparkle. A final score of Carter 3, Pierce 0, is really no indication of how the game is played. The game is led by Skip Jefferson, Gabby Ogilvie, and Patrick Martin. Carter rushed for over 300 yards but never makes it near the end zone. Price's field goal is the only score of the game, but thanks to the Cowboy's outstanding defense, the Mustangs are held scoreless. Everyone left the game still wondering about that winning sparkle but happy for a Cowboy victory.

Arlington 9-9

With the Carter offense still unproven, the Pokes meet district 7-A AAAA favorite, Arlington. The Cowboys show they don't consider themselves an underdog to the Colts, as the Arlington quarterback is dropped in the end zone on Arlington's first possession. Later Carter scores its first touchdown of the year as Alvin Robertson romps in to make the score 9-0, then the defense takes over, as Arlington drives for a touchdown and a field goal following a Carter mistake. However the extra point and an other attempted field goal are blocked, with the score remaining tied 9-9. Reid Hansen and John Knochel are sited as outstanding defensive players for their performance in the game.

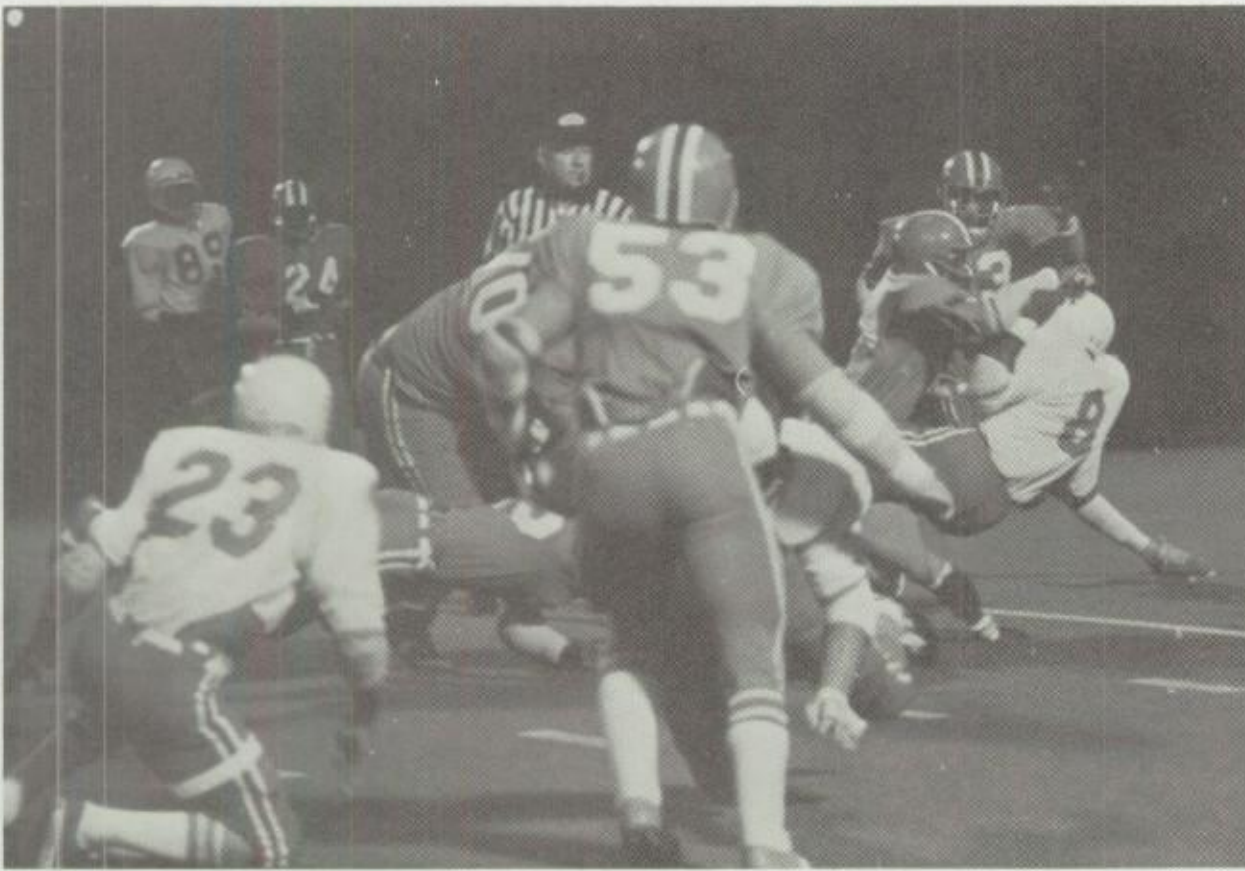

Harp, Hansen, Price, and Bailey contain the offense.

Bailey shows his All-District form against Arlington as Poindexter moves in.

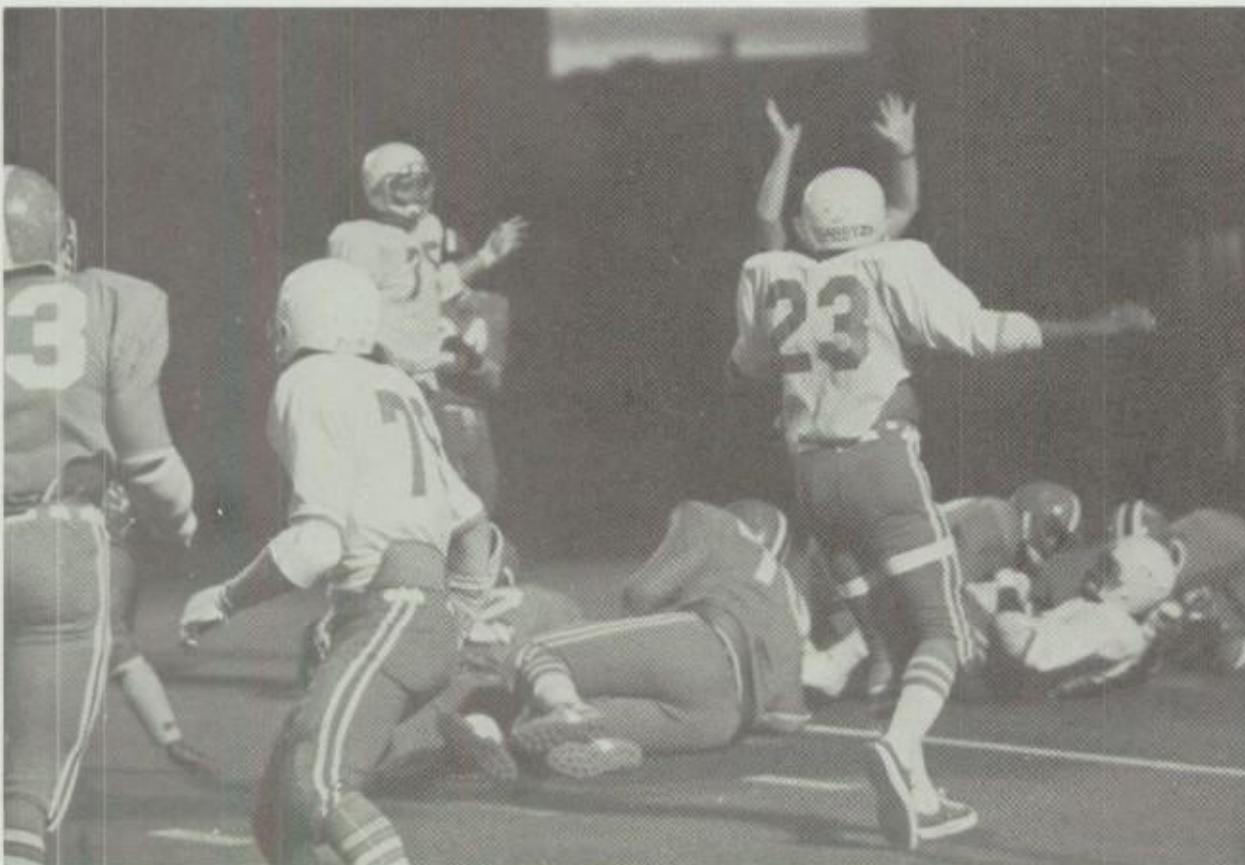

Jefferson busts it over against Roosevelt.

Higgins runs to help block a defender.

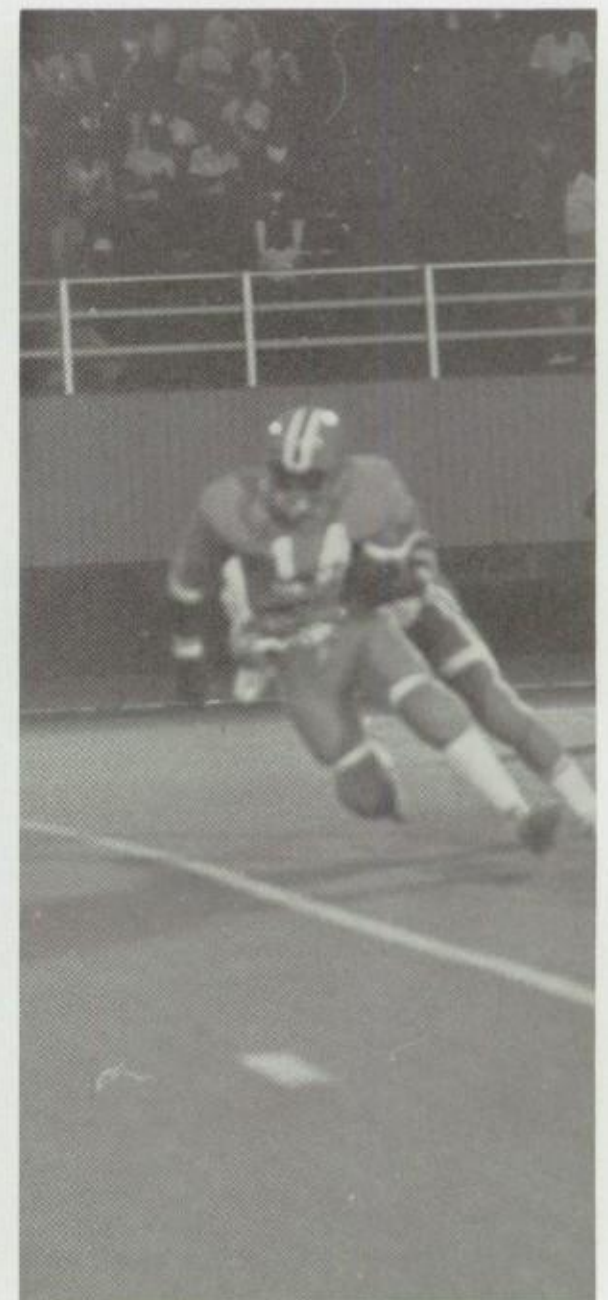

Hansen, Spradlin, and Ogilvie watch as Skip Jefferson scores against Roosevelt.

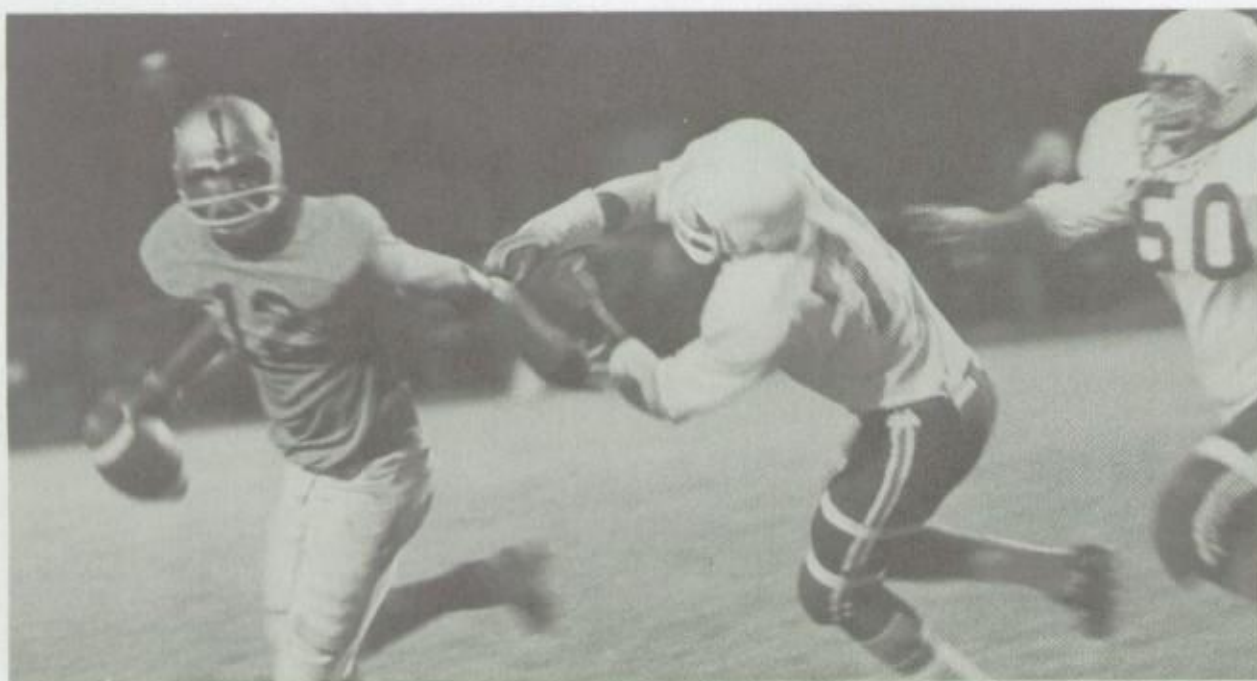

Roosevelt 13-13

The first district appointment is with the Roosevelt Mustangs. The crowd cheering and chanting to no avail for a second consecutive week, as the Carter Cowboys find themselves in a deadlock game, tying Roosevelt 13-13.

Passing for only 36 yards and rushing for 136, the Cowboys have a hard time offensively. Larry Reeves intercepts a Mustang pass and sets up a Skip Jefferson touchdown from the 8 yard line. Carter scores again when Hollis Mayberry recovers a Mustang fumble, and Jefferson takes it in from the five. Coming right back with complete domination of the fourth quarter, the Mustangs score, and Dixon blocks the extra point attempt. Carter has to settle for a tie game, but actually win on the basis of penetrations.

Unknown Cowboy sacks Roosevelt quarterback for a loss.

Cummings and Thompson pursue the Pinkston quarterback.

Pinkston and Carter butt heads.

Cowboys score another one!!!

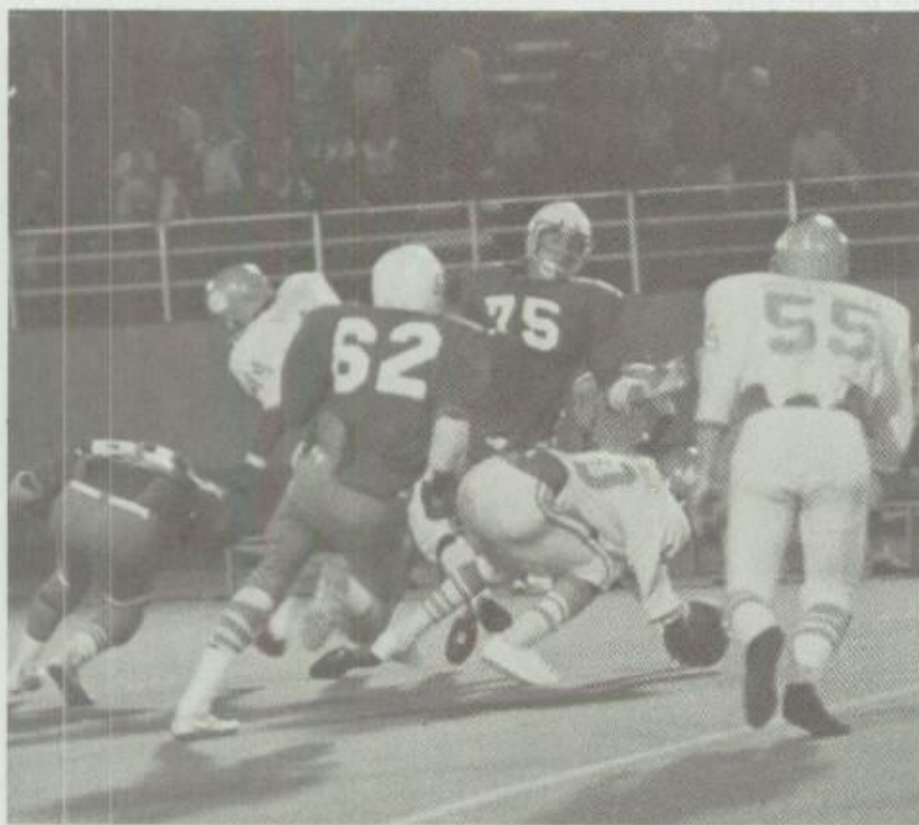

A Pinkston defender puts the arm on Gabby.

Pinkston 41-0

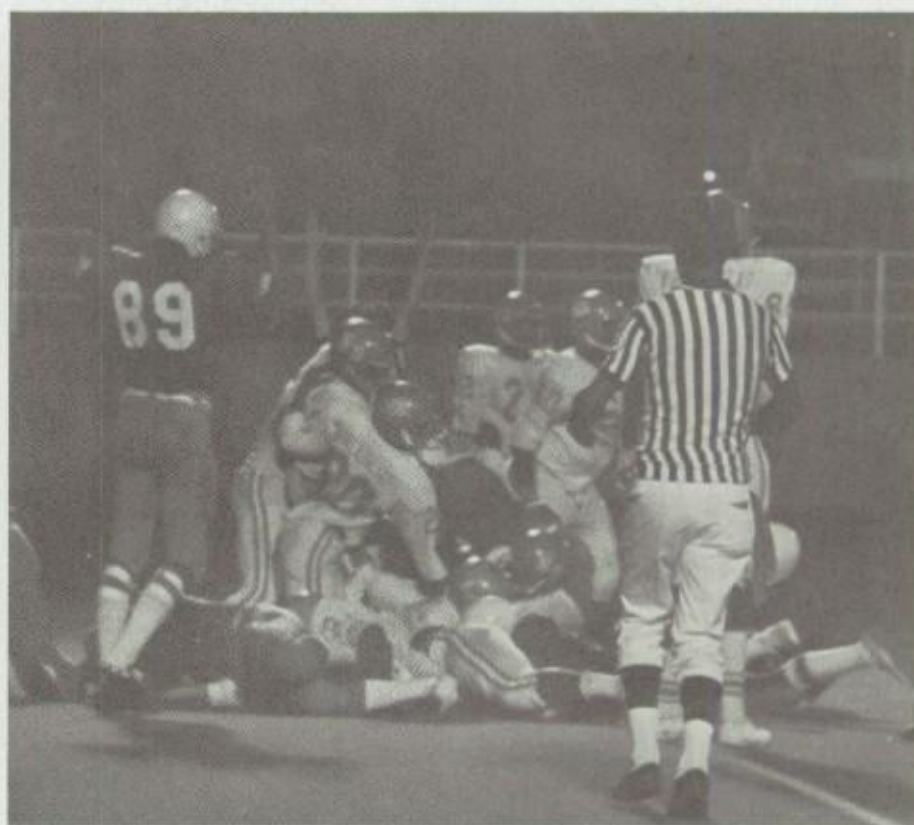

Offense is the key factor but, as always, the defense does its job. Capitalizing on Viking mistakes and turnovers, there is no way out for Pinkston. Gabby Ogilvie leads the Cowboys rushing game with 79 yards in 13 carries. Carter scores its first touchdown as Alvin Robertson rolls over the line for a touchdown. Skip Jefferson, Gabby Ogilvie, Patrick Martin, and O. C. Jackson provide the remainder of the scores with Ed Price completing three of four conversion attempts. The Cowboys now have their first decisive victory by a score of 41-0 over the Pinkston Vikings.

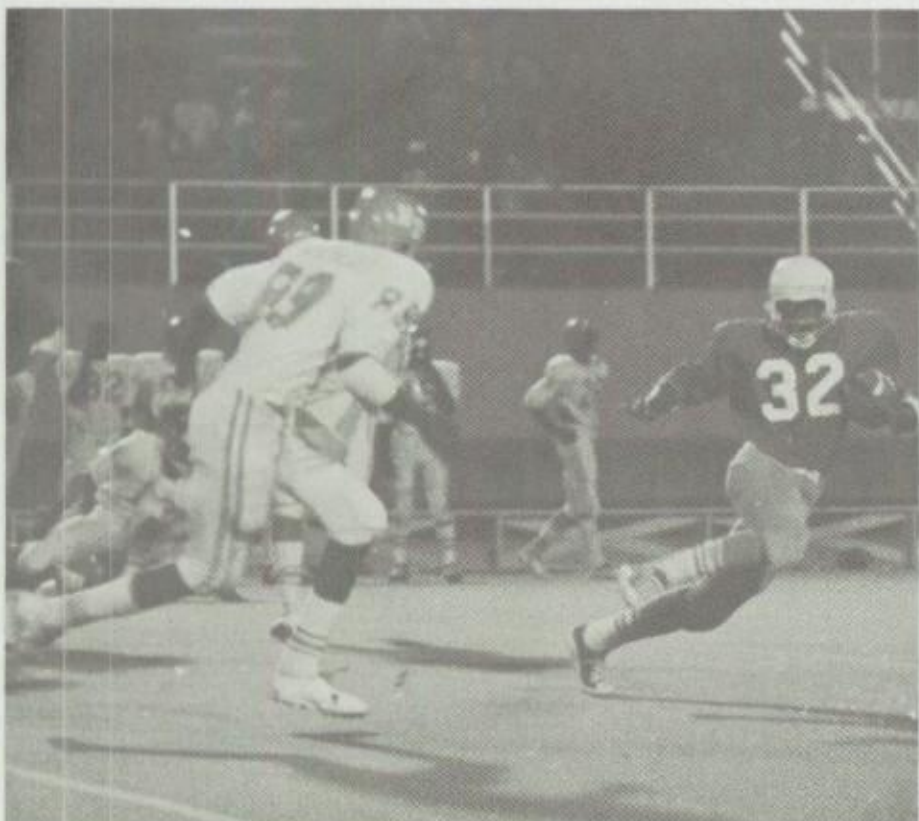

Don Gray makes a tackle against Pinkston.

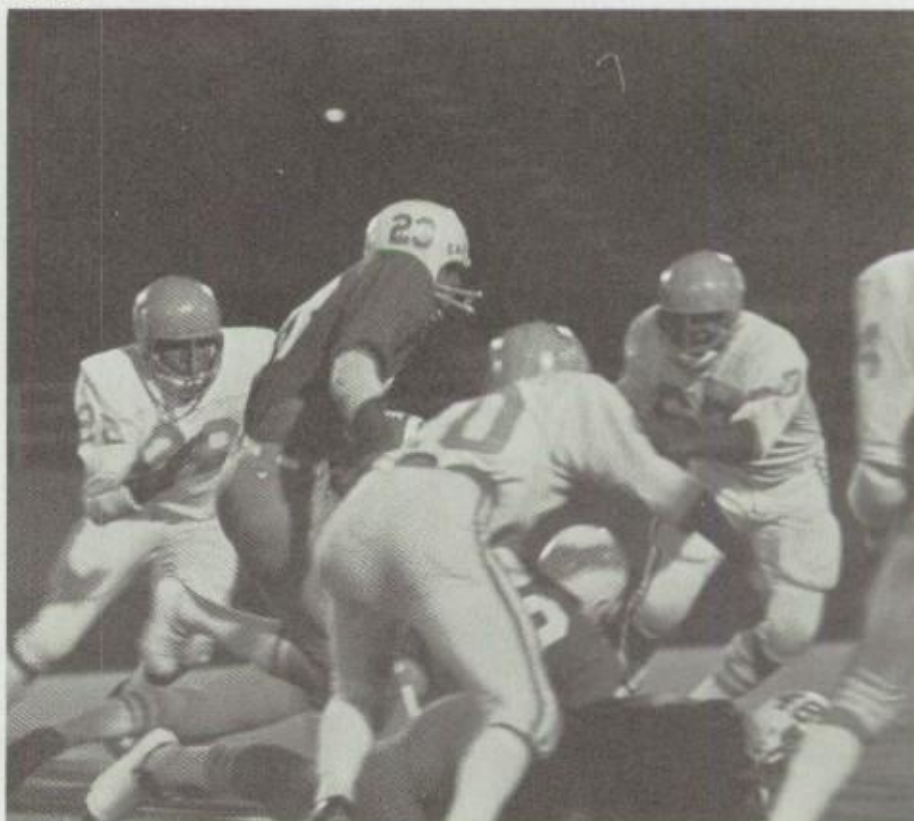

Hansel and Dixon come together on a North Dallas ball carrier.

Dwayne Staten signals a touchdown that one referee doesn't seem to notice.

O. C. Jackson accelerates past a North Dallas defender.

Gabby runs into a little trouble, North Dallas style.

Staehs keeps it as Gabby does a little blocking.

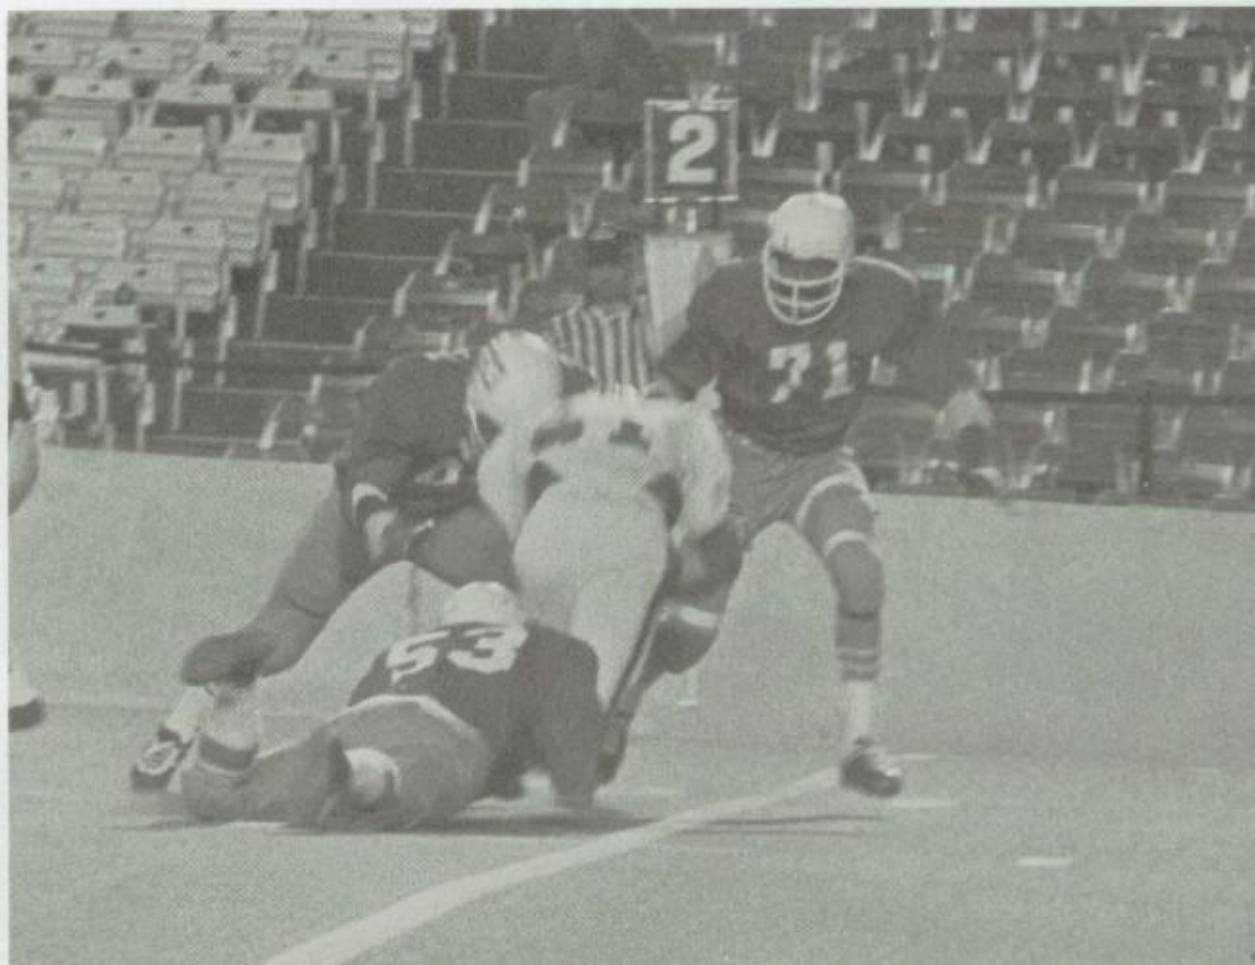

North Dallas 28-6

Former Carter Coach Bill Russell has his team well prepared but the Cowboys are just too much for the Bulldogs to handle.

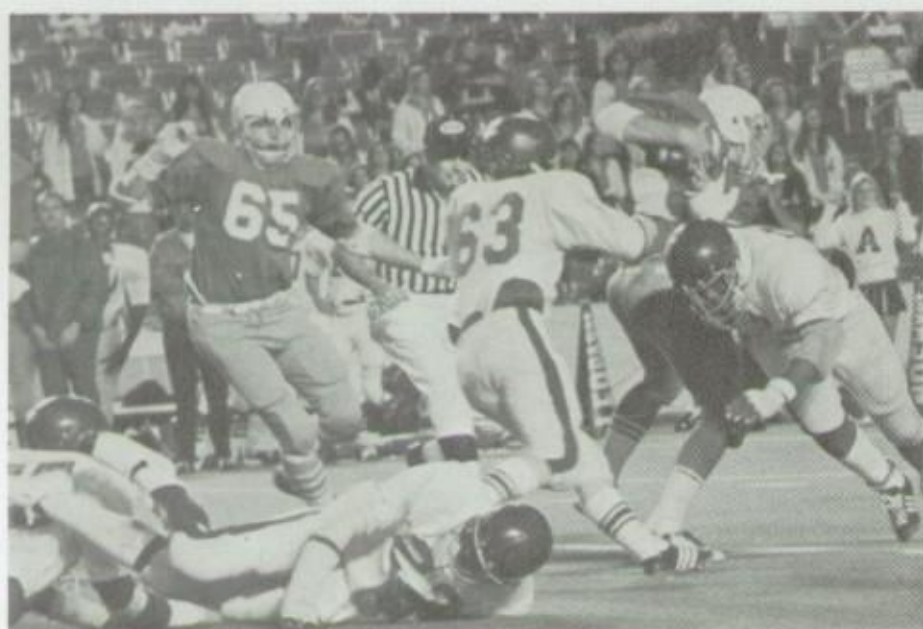

The game against North Dallas gets off to a great start as Quarterback Bill Staehs scores to give the Cowboys an 8-0 lead. The Bulldogs score, narrowing the lead to 8-6 by halftime. In the second half the Pokes come out to score two quick touchdowns runs by Patrick Martin. Skip Jefferson scores the last tally bringing the final score to 28-6.

Carter 37 — Adamson 8

In the first quarter of the game, quarterback Bill Staehs plunges for two Cowboy touchdowns igniting an explosive Carter attack that smothers the Adamson Leopards 37-8. The Cowboys add a Reginald Ogilvie touchdown in the second quarter, two more touchdowns in the third quarter to go with Tony Biasatti's 40 yard field goal, and then send in the reserves for the final period. While offense is busy burning up the field the defense does its usual outstanding job, limiting the Leopards to a mere 46 yards and only 8 points. Arthur Cummings and Roy Poindexter repeatedly dump Adamsons carries for costly losses as the Cowboys win another one, 37-8.

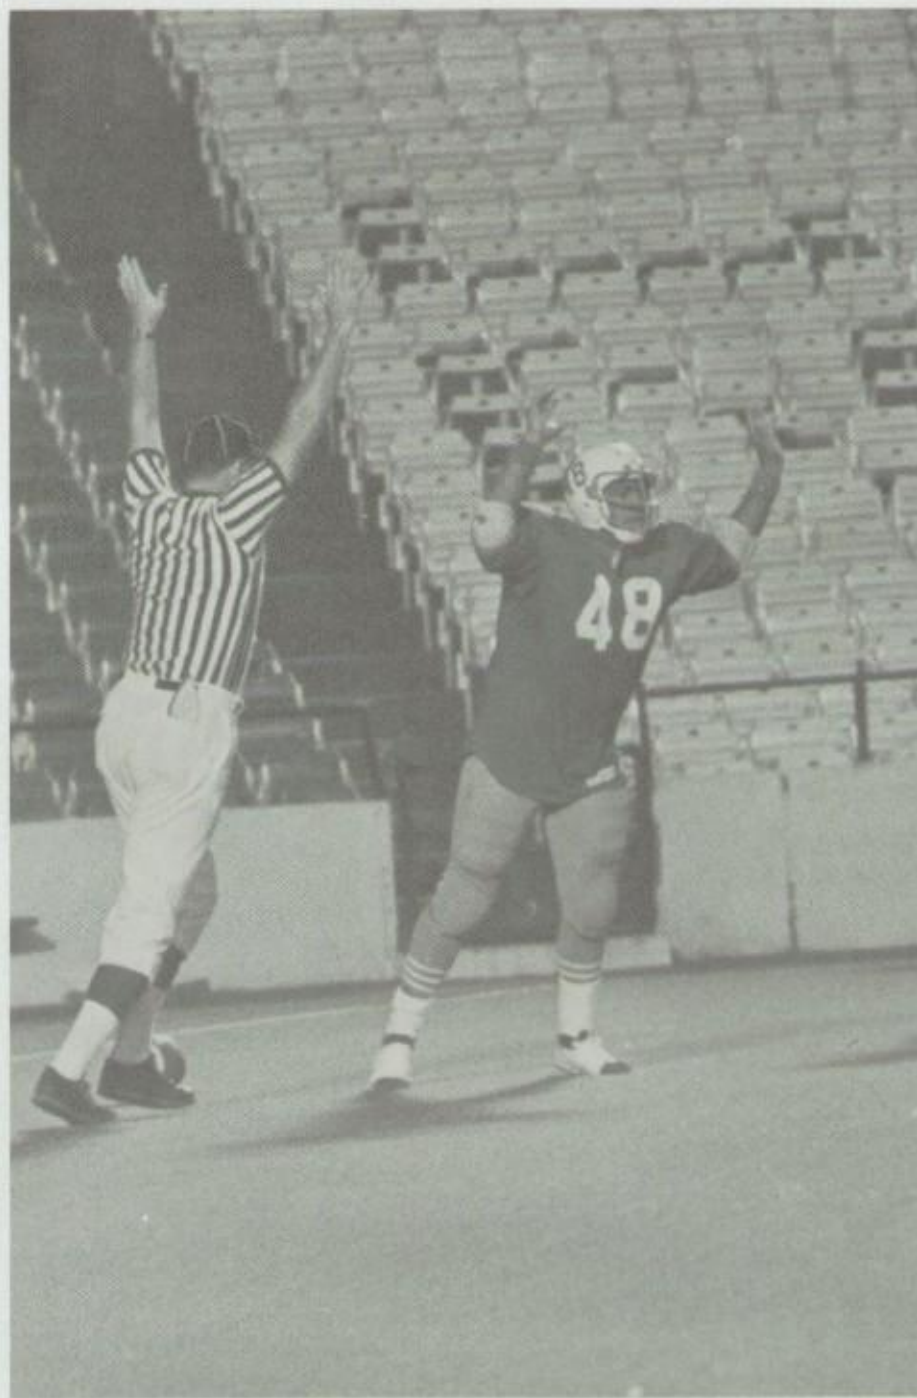

Arthur Cummings, Ronnie Brady, and Roy Brown, wallop Adamson's number 41.

Bourquin pursues a Leopard as "The Kid" takes it up the middle.

Gabby grits and picks up yardage against Adamson.

Alvin helps the ref with his signals.

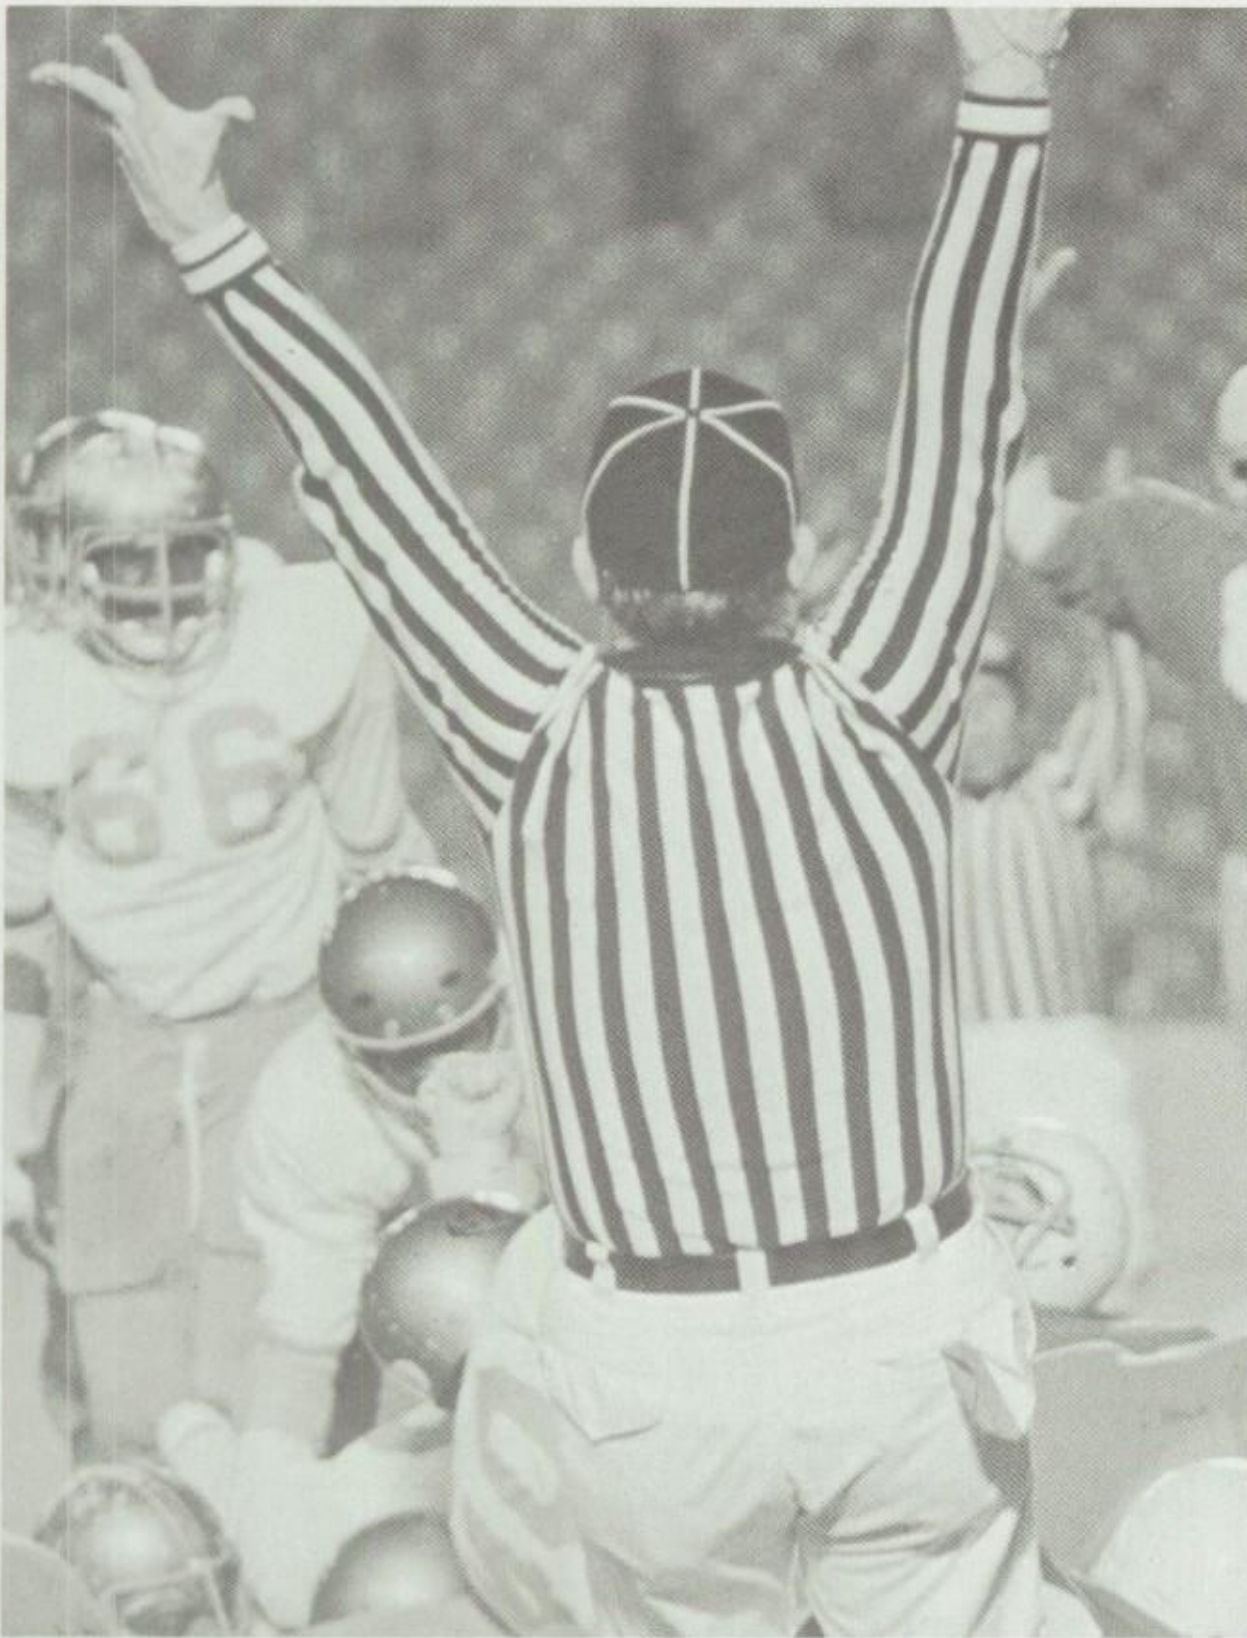

South Oak Cliff 21-0

Even though the SOC Bears have already been defeated in district play, the question is "Will rivalry carried over from last year have any bearing on the '72 match between Carter and SOC?" Evidently not!

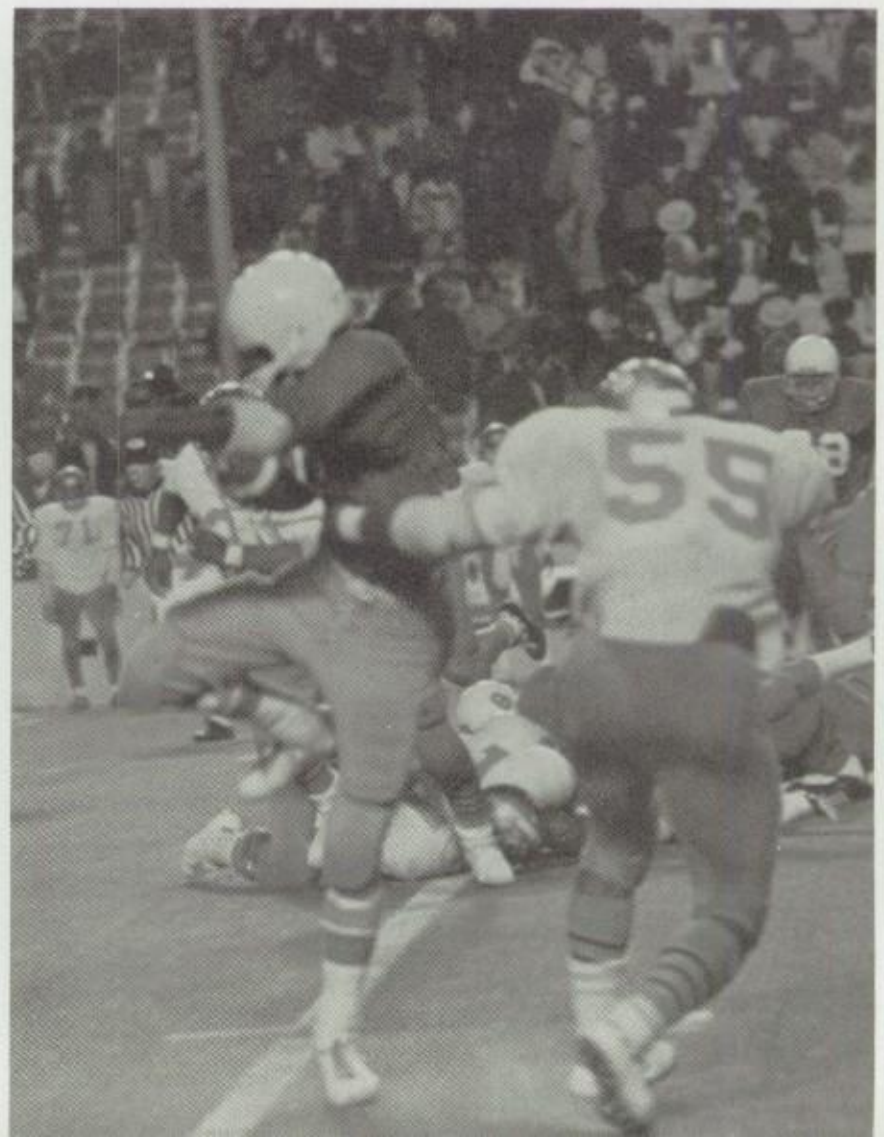

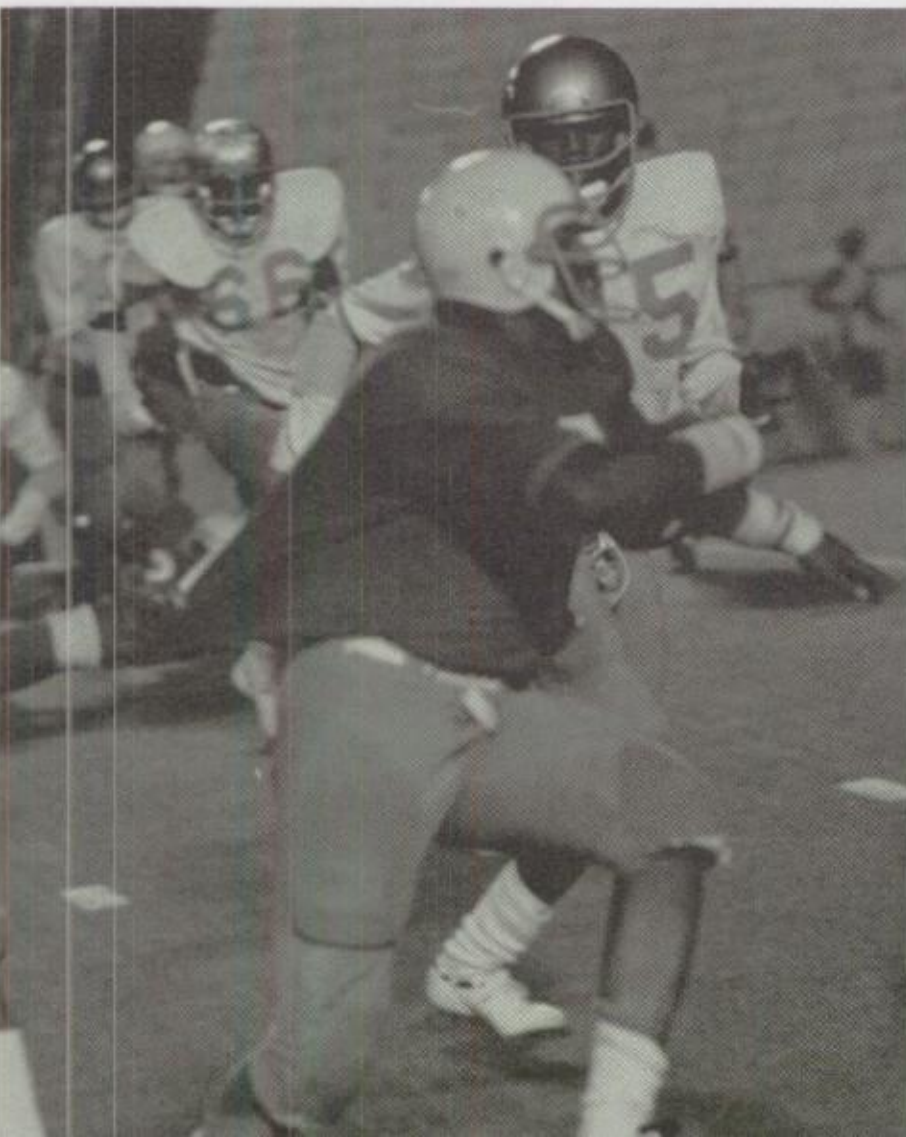

Capitalizing on three Bear fumbles and an intercepted pass, the Pokes have a 14-0 lead at the half. Clifford Jefferson scores first on a one yard plunge on fourth and one. Later, in the second quarter, Jefferson again goes in from one yard out, as Ed Price tacks on the extra points after each touchdown.

The Bears closest threat comes in the third quarter, but all hopes for a touchdown are diminished when Tim Bailey intercepts a Ricky Weson pass. Recovering a fumble, Reid Hansen sets the pace for Carter's final score. Staehs dives over from the one and Price again adds a conversion.

The Cowboy defense is all over the field the entire night. Hansen intercepts a pass to go along with his fumble recovery. Preventing Bear runners from breaking up field for large gains, Bailey makes numerous open field tackles while Dixon and Poindexter play their usual exceptional game.

There's no question about this Carter score.

Sunset 24-0

The Cowboys corral the Sunset Bisons by scoring in every quarter and playing a flawless defense as they take a 24-0 victory.

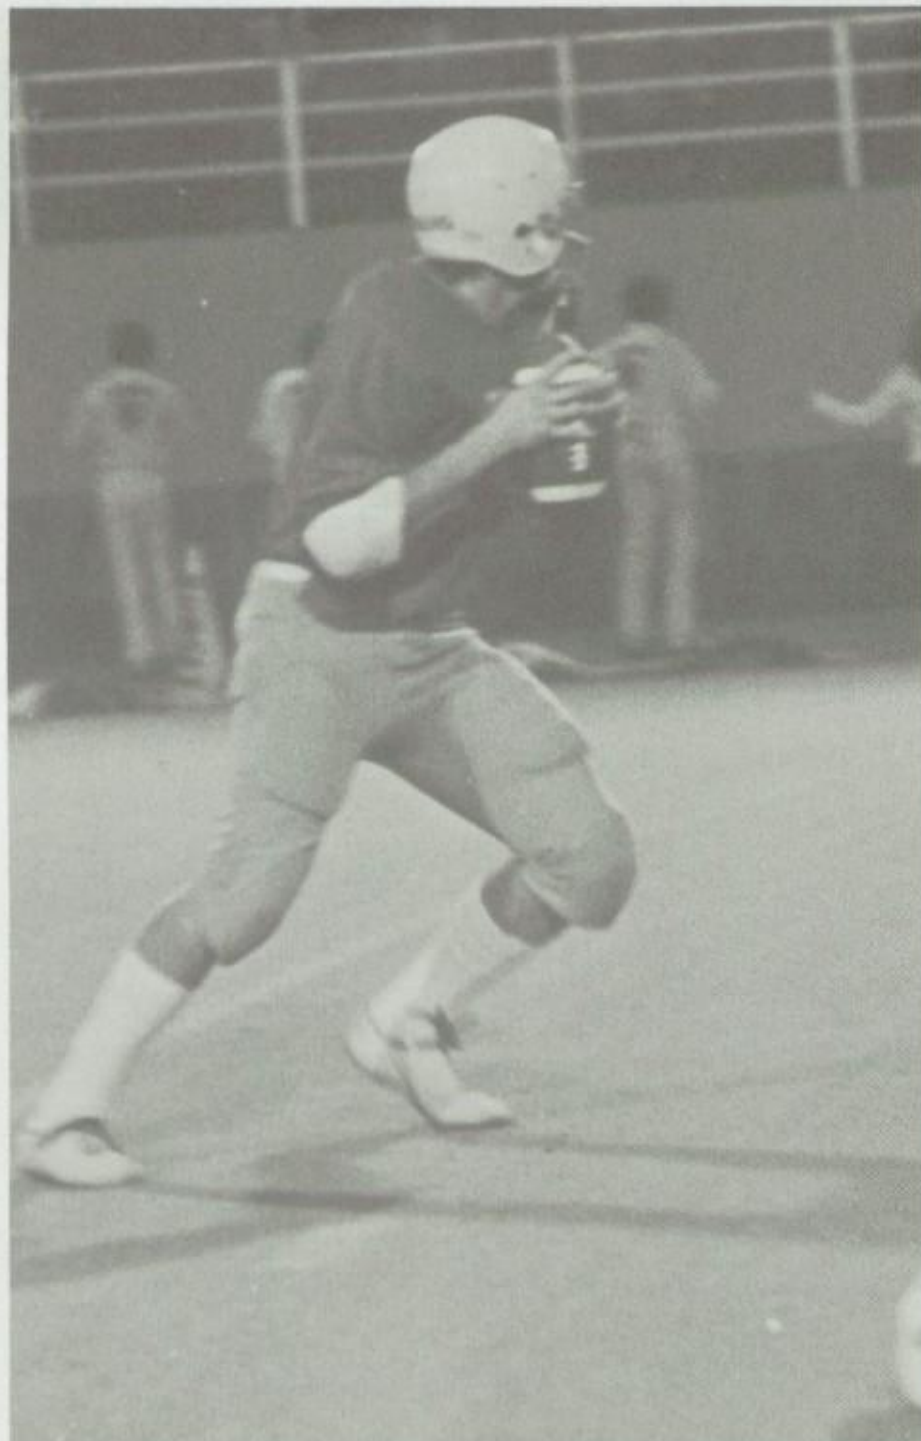

Clifford Jefferson scores all three touchdowns for the Cowboys on runs of four and seven yards, and a pass reception for 19 yards. Toni Biasatti has a good night scoring 3 extra points and a 33 yard field goal.

Sunset's deepest penetration comes in the second quarter when the Bisons recover a fumbled punt at the Carter 34 yard line. However, two plays later, quarterback Dan Wade fumbles and the Cowboys take over once again at the 48.

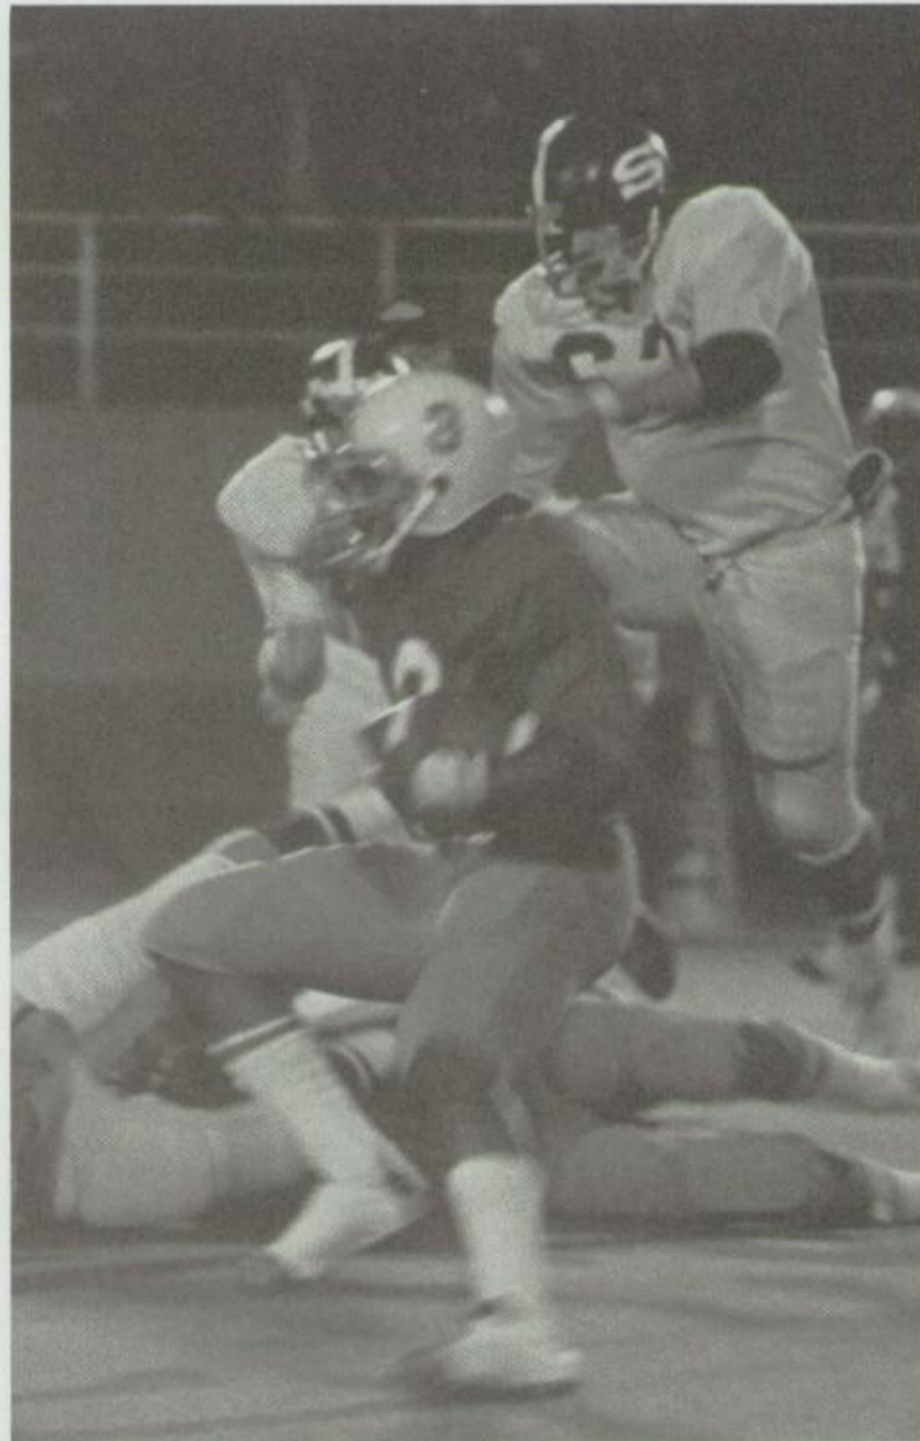

The victory gives the Cowboys a tie for the lead in District 12AAAA with Roosevelt as they pass their fifth victory in six games including one tie.

Skip is dragged down by the Bison defense.

Staehs gets time to get this pass off to Jefferson.

Skip looks for a hole in the Sunset defense.

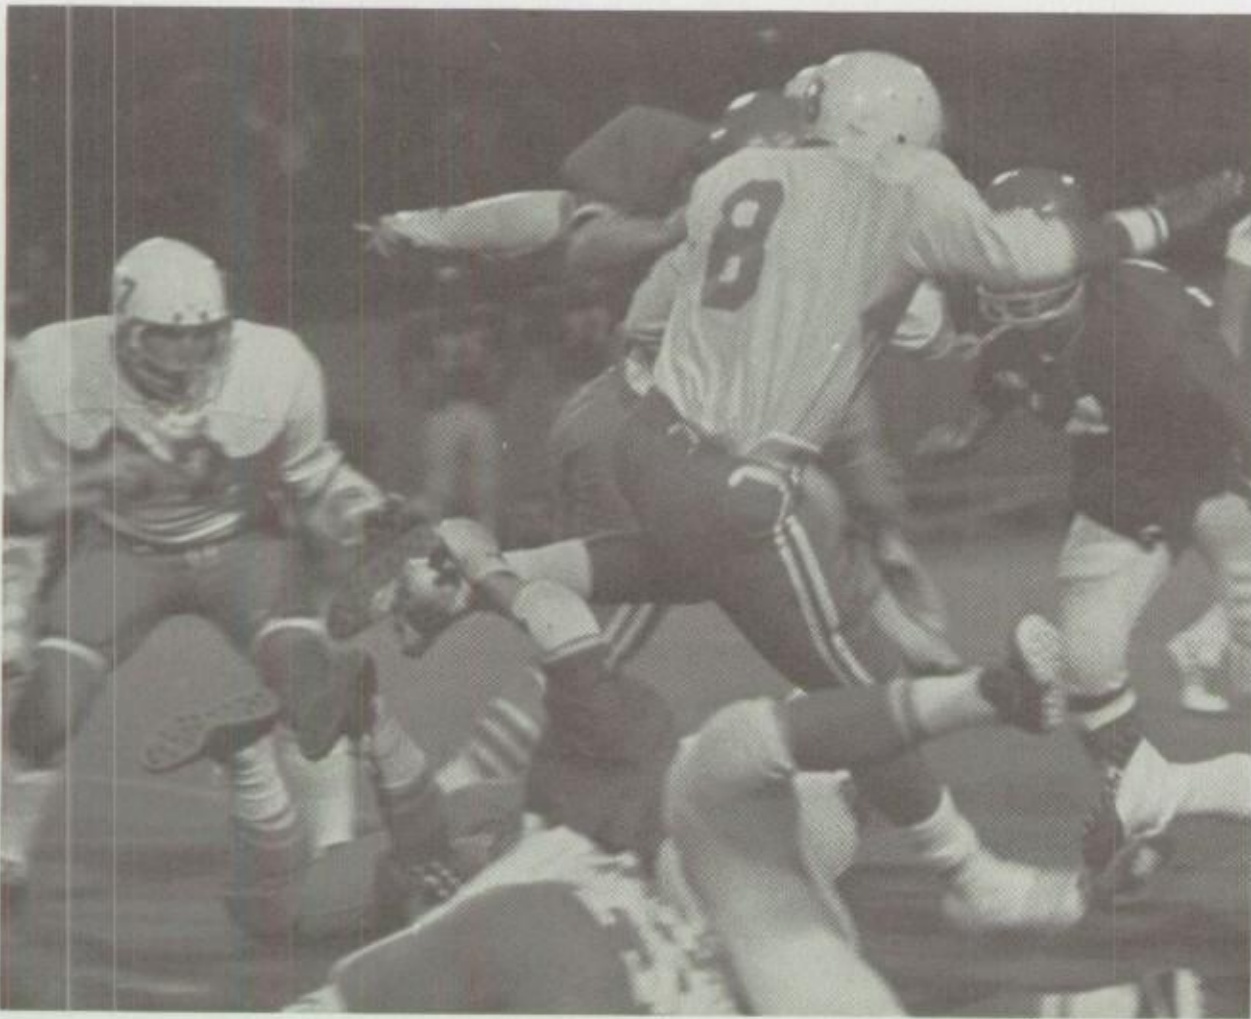

Woodrow Wilson 14-0

Although Woodrow Wilson tries about every kind of frill and stunt on the Cowboys, Carter walks away from Forrester Field with a 14-0 victory.

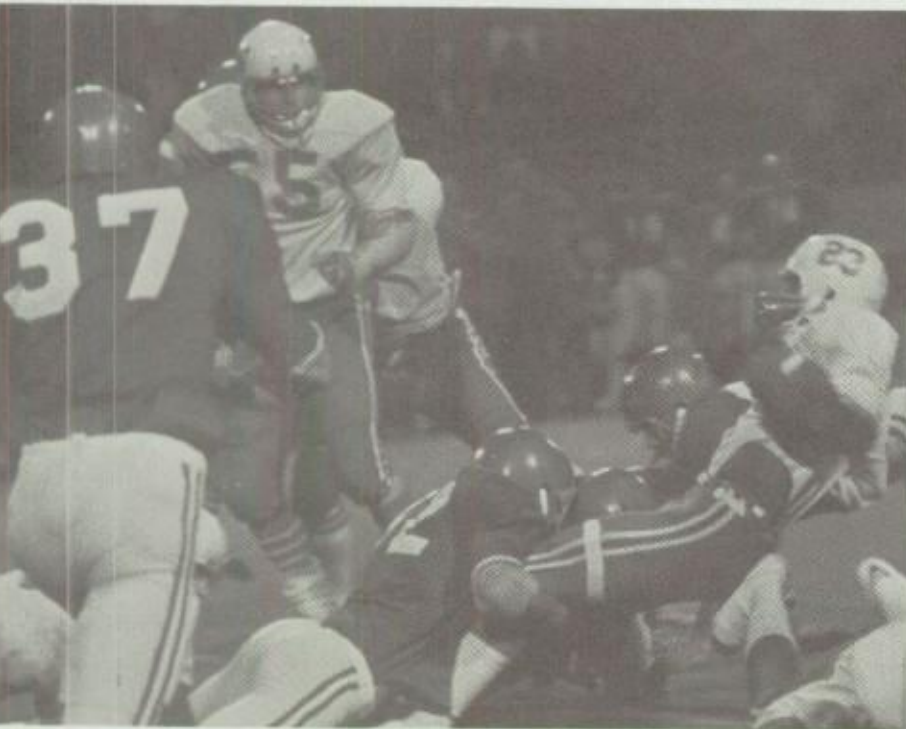

The Cowboys are unable to break the fired-up Wildcat defense when deep receiver Danny Jones provides the gamebreaker. Jones fields a Wildcat punt at the Carter 46 yard line and breaks down the left side as Virgil Dixon provides the cleaning block.

Quarterback Bill Staehs then takes over at the 33, scoring four plays later.

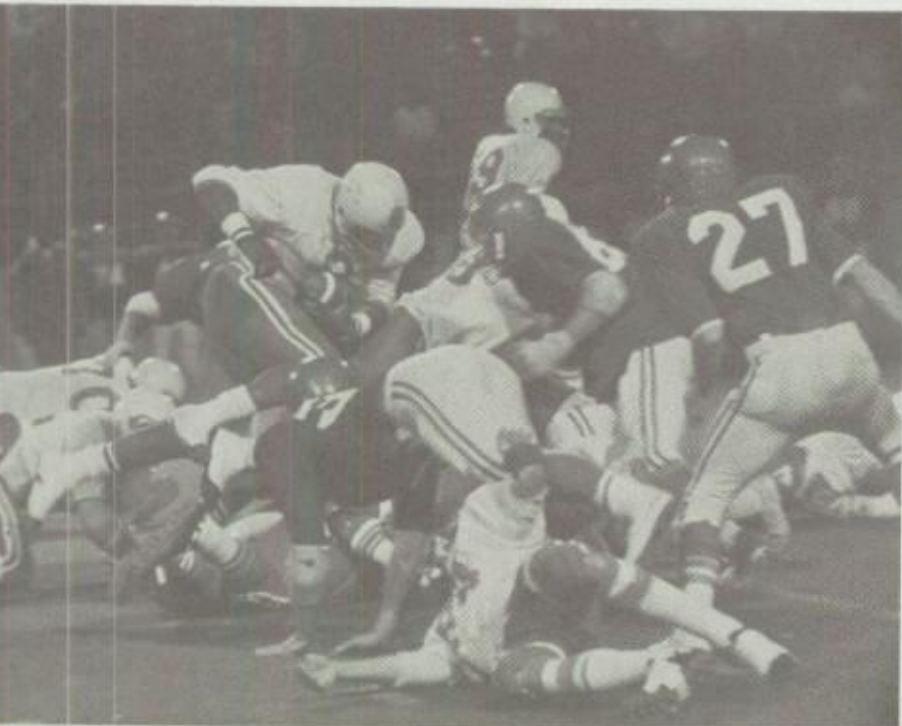

A Hollis Mayberry interception is returned to the Wildcat 18, setting up the final Carter score four plays later when Skip Jefferson rams the ball in from 9 yards out.

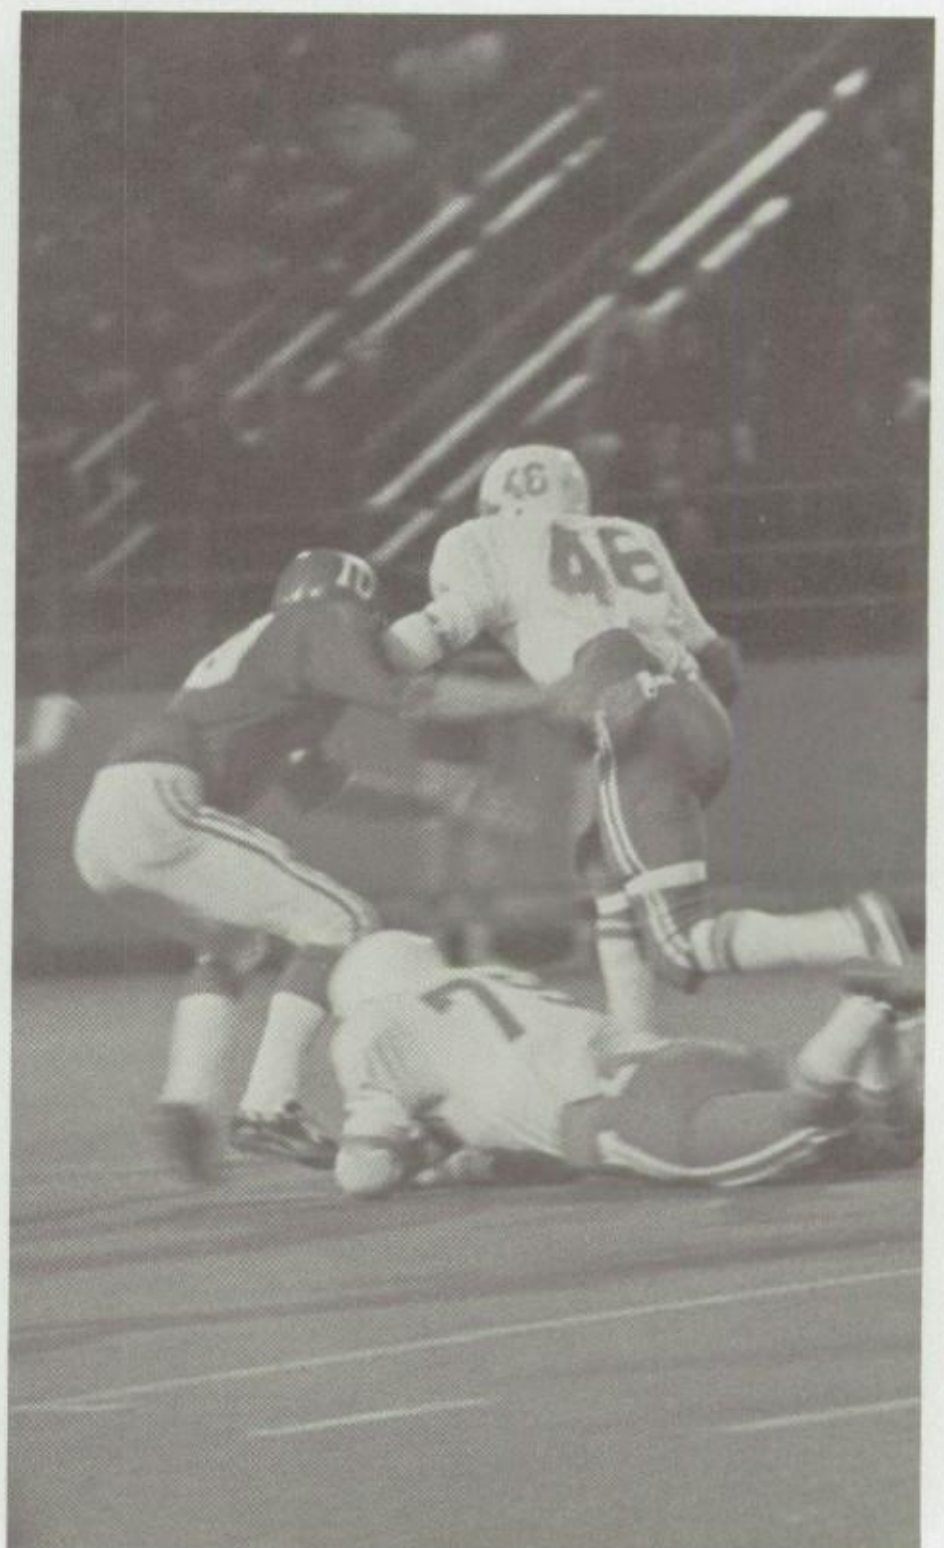

Skip leaps a few bodies and turns it on upfield.

Gabby stretches for extra yardage.

Sometimes football is a little confusing.

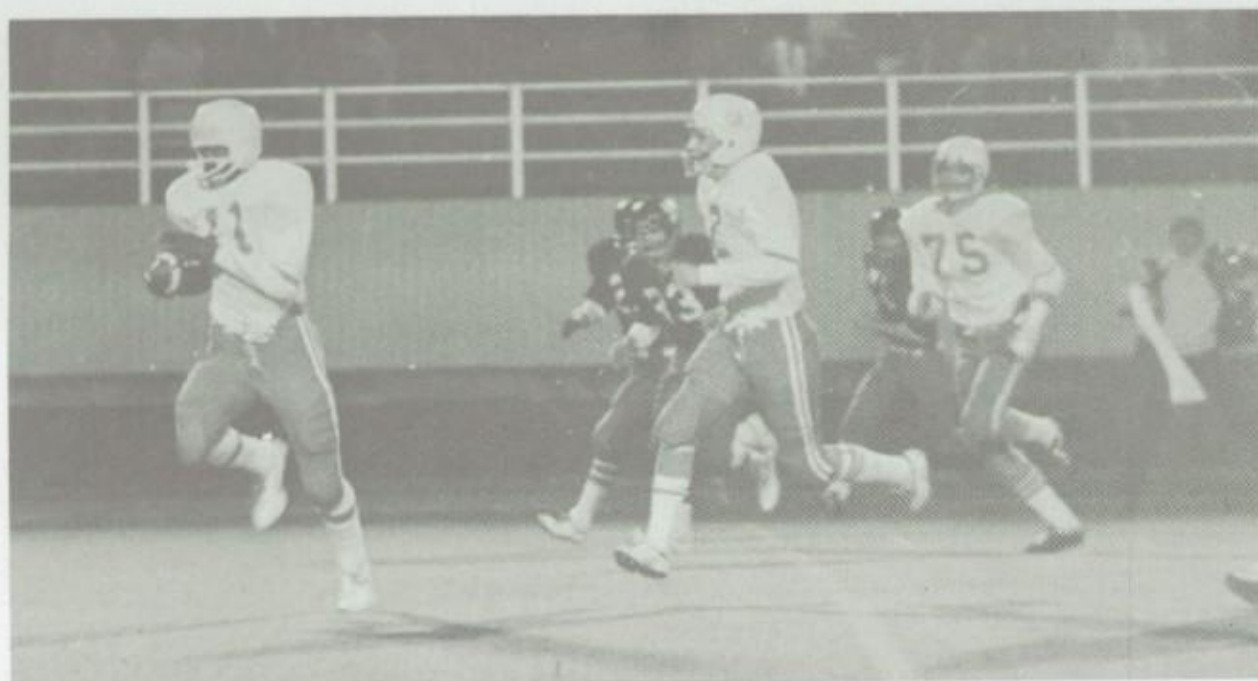

Patrick Martin elbows a Woodrow defender on his chin and sprints towards the open field.

Knights Fall to Pokes . . . Again

Rollwage, Wilhelm, and a "kanned knight" look on as Carter stings Kimball once again.

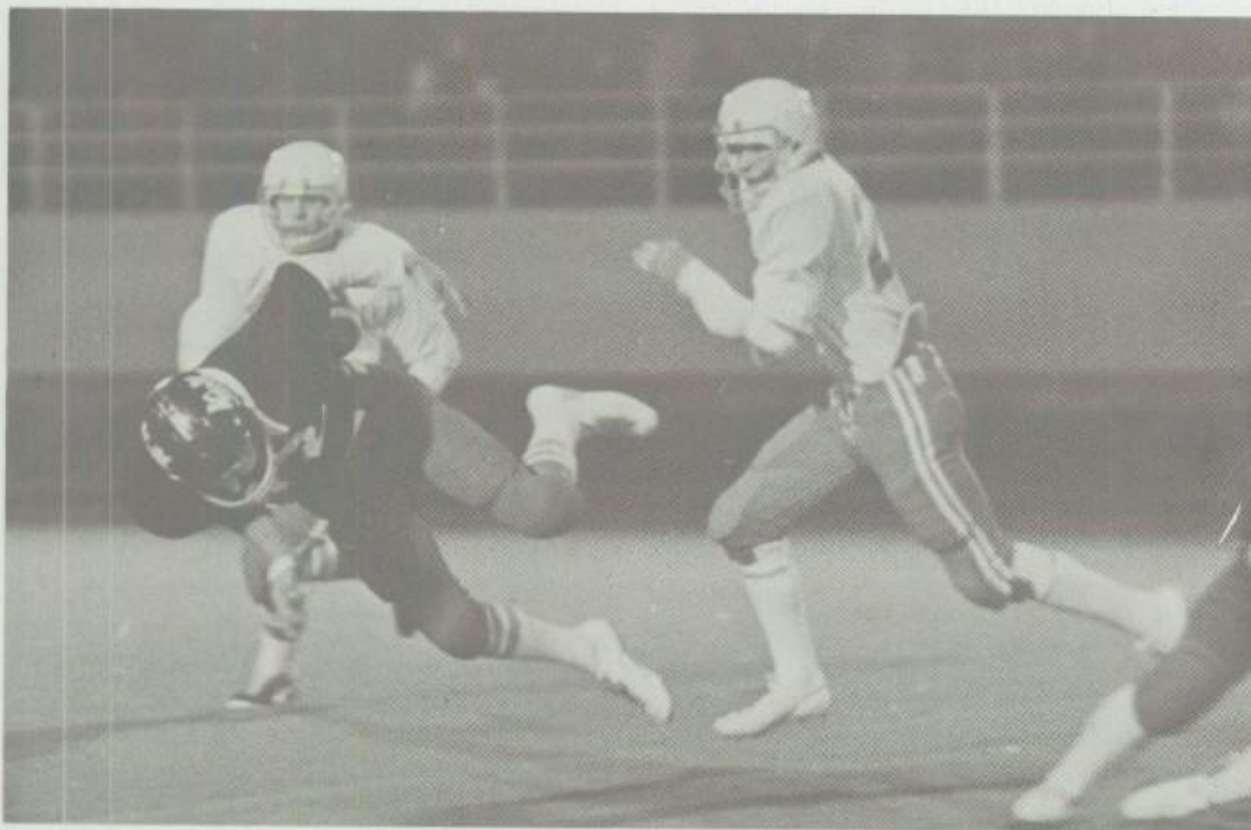

Danny Jones ran this one all the way in the Kimball game, remember?

Ed Price tacks on another point.

Kimball keeps the Carter defense on their toes.

Kimball player not only loses his balance, but the ball too, as Knochel and Bailey close in for the kill.

Bailey and the Demon Defense crush another Kimball ball carrier.

Kimball 32-7

Kimball, the last stumbling block between Carter and the district championship, falls to the Carter Cowboys 32-7 at the annual Homecoming game.

The fired up Cowboys jump off with the game only 5 minutes old to return a Kimball punt 55 yards. Deep receiver Danny Jones takes it at the Carter 46, returning it to score making it 6-0 early in the first quarter.

Virgil Dixon does his outstanding job of blocking punts, and with only 1:24 left in the fourth quarter he manages to slap down a Kimball punt, putting the Cowboys in good field position at the 29. Five plays later, Staehs dives in for the touchdown.

Jefferson rushes for 156 yards and scores 2 touchdowns on the ground. Staehs next takes to the air, hitting Ogilvie, who takes it at his own 45 and scampers to the Knights 32.

Kimball marches in touchdown range several times but are unable to render a score. Only in the last four minutes does Kimball score, making the final scoreboard read 32-7.

Jefferson "skips" in for another touchdown.

Skyline 14-12

A frozen, rain soaked crowd sits and awaits the final outcome of the City Championship game. No one can exactly pin point what's wrong with the Pokes but numerous fumbles, a high snap from center, and a Skyline touchdown on the opening kick off of the second half, prove that all is not well with the Cowboys. A heartbreaking score of 14-12 ends the game as the former defending City Champs surrender their crown.

Action on the Sidelines

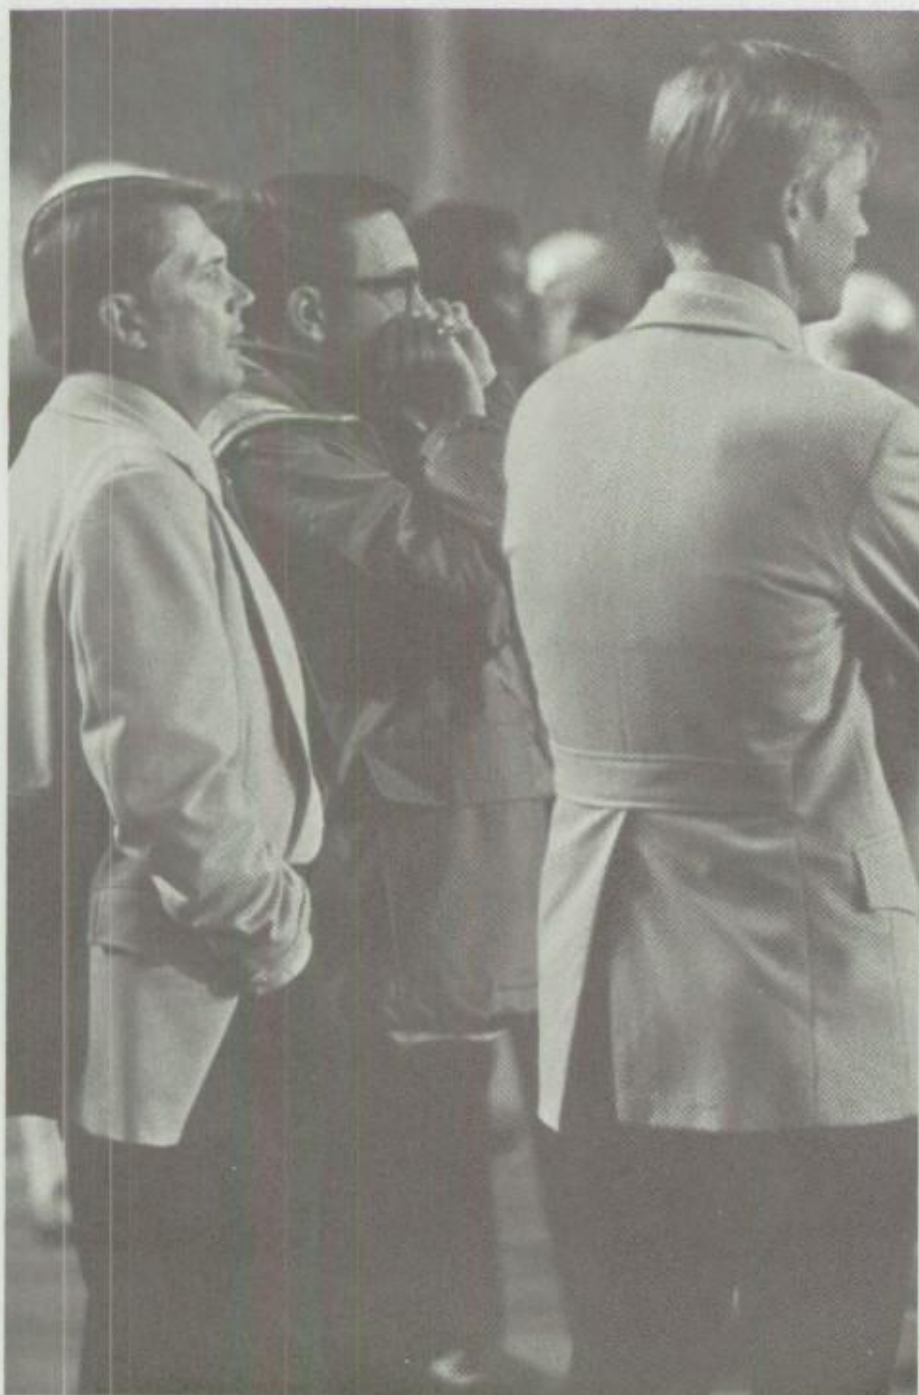

Tony Biasatti, Tim Bailey, and Gerald Thomas watch the game from the bench.

The bench is an important part of the football game that is often overlooked by the fans. There is always action on and around the bench. This is where coaches plan strategy, players watch intently, and become absorbed in the game, and where injured team mates sometimes yearn to go onto the field, but must calmly suppress their penned-up energies.

Coach James appears to be a bit unhappy during the Skyline game.

Junior Varsity and

When you're on Junior Varsity, you know it won't be much longer before you're a Varsity player. Junior Varsity prepares you for that by being its own team. You play regular weekly games against other Junior Varsity teams and Varsity teams from out of town schools around Dallas.

Practice for Junior Varsity is no different from Varsity though. Under Coach Crumb's directing, you work out just as long and hard as any other Carter team. It's an important part in the game of physical endeavor. Being on Junior Varsity encourages you to play to be a winner.

"On your mark . . . get set . . . go!"

"I'll huff and puff and blow your house down."

"Well see guys, you just can't do that in a football game."

Hi'ya fellas.

"B" Team

"Hey guys look at those legs."

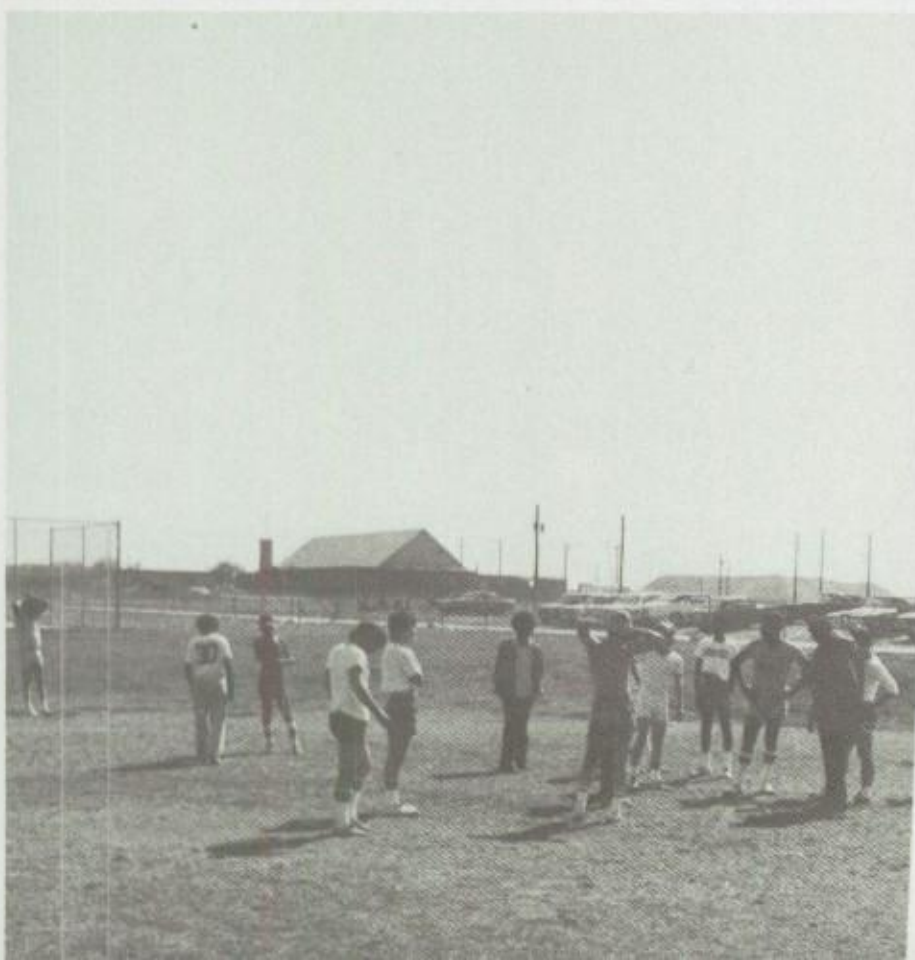

"I don't think the coach knows what he is talking about."

"Last one there is a rotten egg."

"And away we go!"

Coming off a varsity team the year before and having to go back to being a B-Teamer might be a let down to some players, but not those on the Carter B-Team. They know that making advancements in the game require more learning and more practice. There are new plays to learn, new techniques to master, and new coaches to get to know (and to get to know how to get on their good side . . .) B-Team is fun; playing games with other Dallas B-Teams; getting to know how these other teams work since you'll be playing them as Varsity members in not too long a time. It's the first step to winning in the game of physical endeavor.

Cowboy Basketball Dribbles Into Another Season

Lodis Young takes a free throw.

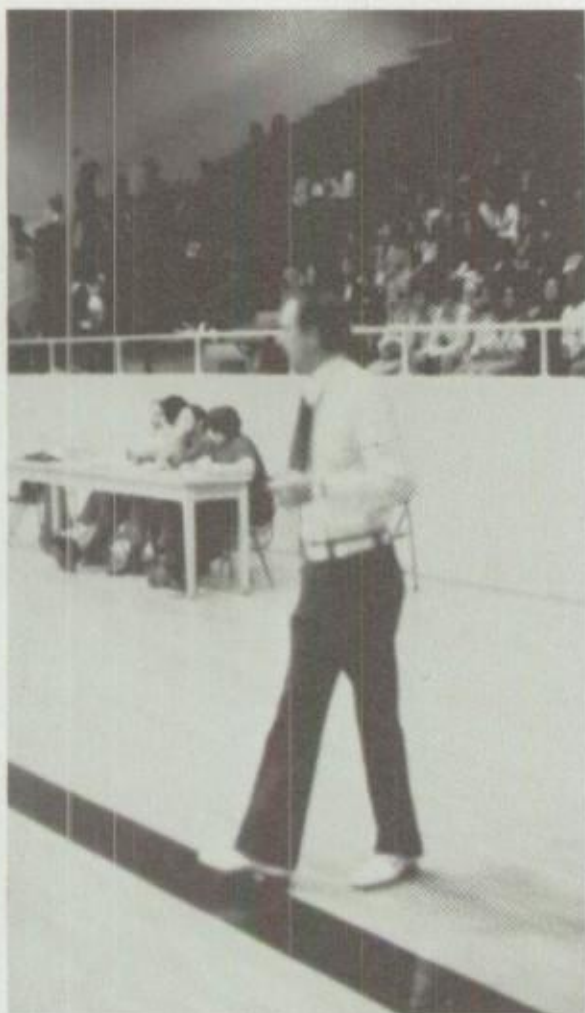

As football season comes to a close, Carter sports fans turn to basketball. While fans look forward to fast moving action on the court, team members work out from 3:00 to 5:30 each afternoon they don't have a game. Coach Dickens spends many long, hard hours with the team so that each member may fulfill his potential playing power. The basketball team, made up of 12 to 15 players each year, plays a 14 game district season and 7 pre-season games.

Battee puts his free throw up.

"Alright, Robinson, what have you done with Coach Dickens and the rest of the team?"

Coach Dickens heads for the sidelines to do a little talking to the refs.

Carter's ball!

Sr. Curtis Thompson goes up for a rebound.

Lawrence Walker guns from the corner.

Track; A Game of Individual Talents.

There's never a dull moment at a Carter track and field meet. Everything always seems to happen at once; somewhat like a three ring circus. Pole vaulters fly up and over the bar, while in another ring, the shot-put and discus are hurled. Just as the high jump catches your eye, the 440 relay begins around the track and immediately draws your attention away. There's always the hurdles, broad jump, and any number of foot races to keep you interested. Track is different from other sports in a most important way. Rather than competing with another team or player, track members struggle against height, distance and the clock.

The three ring circus is about to begin.

Carter coming up in the lead in the District meet.

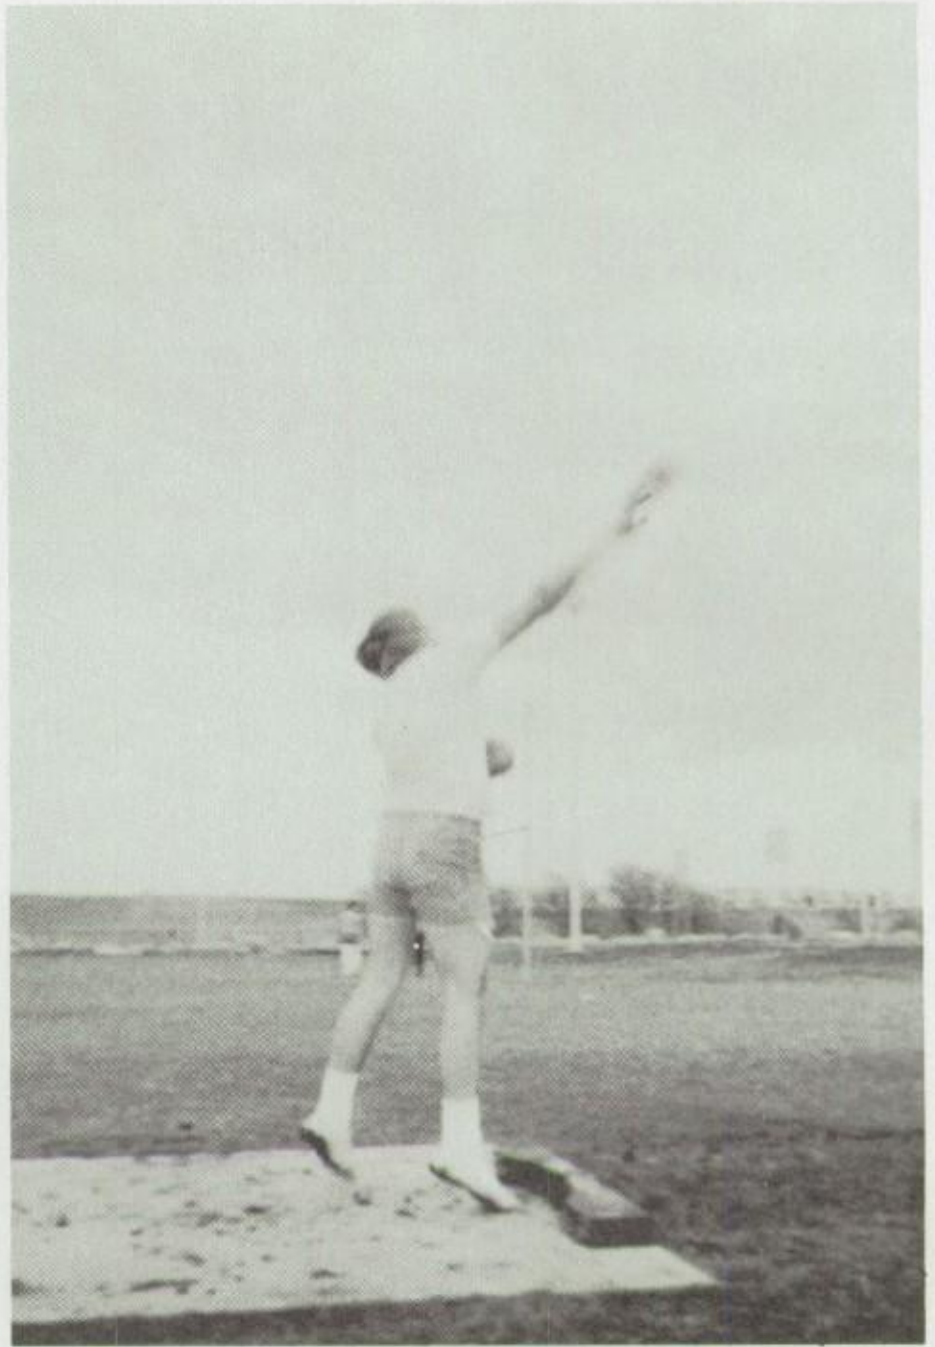

Coach Neely excitedly watches this track team run the mile.

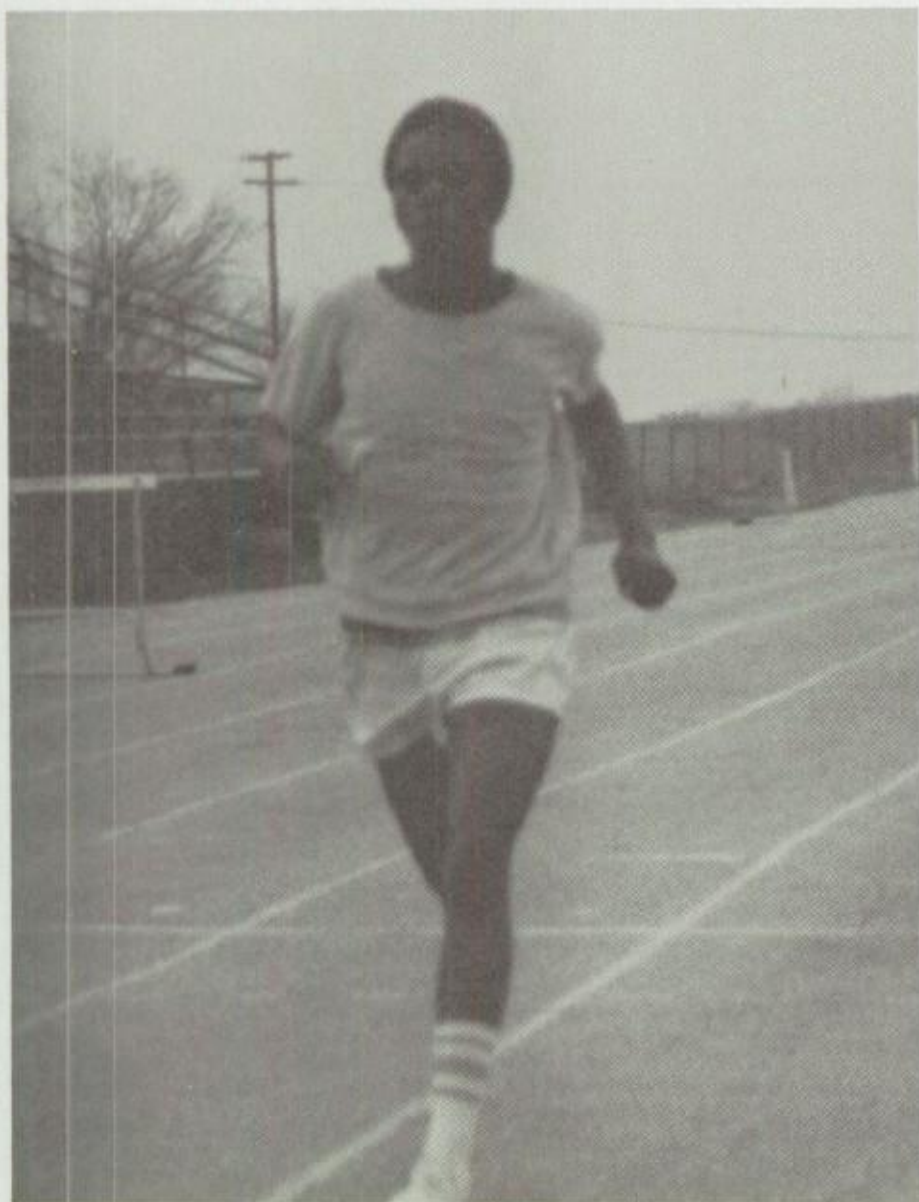

"Choo — Chooo!"

Shot-put throwing is one of the rings in the circus.

It's not easy running the mile on one leg.

TENNIS TEAM: A BIG RACKET

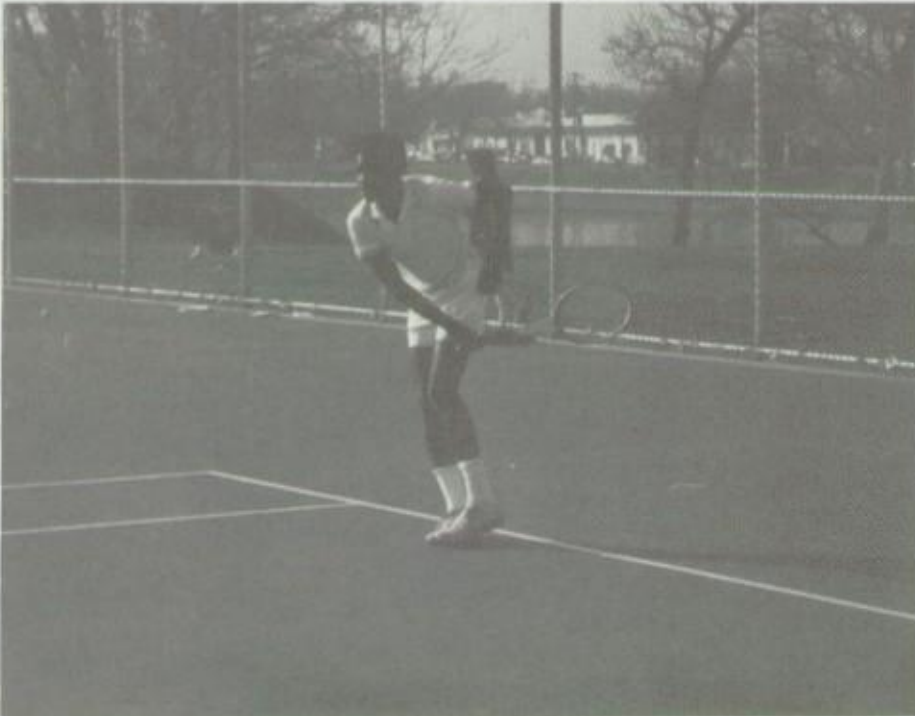

"I think it went up into the clouds."

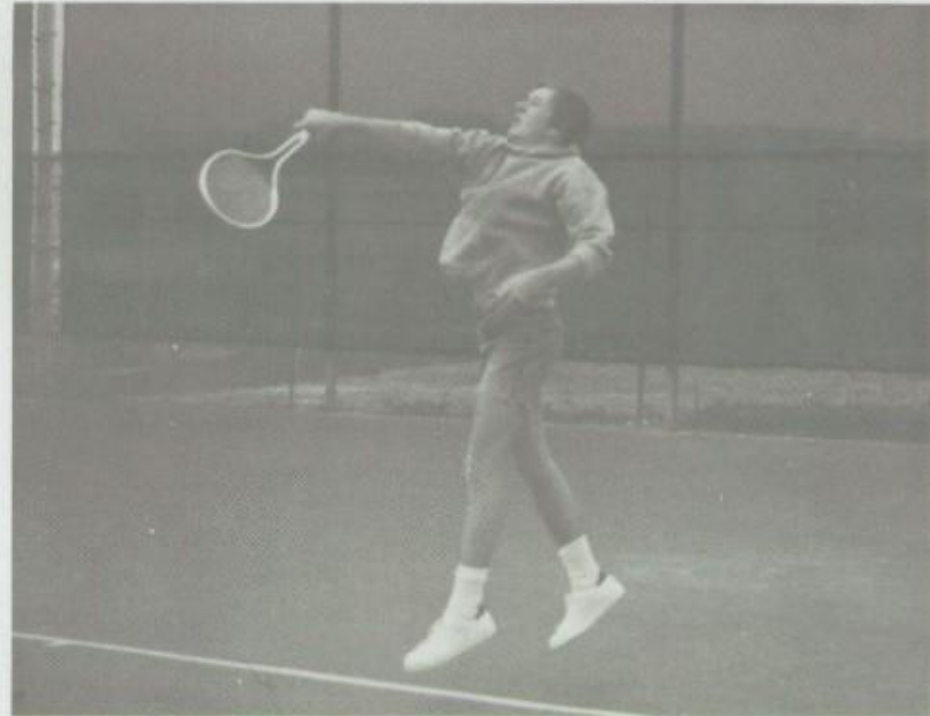

I'm ready for you.

OK you guys, which one of you served the orange instead of the tennis ball?

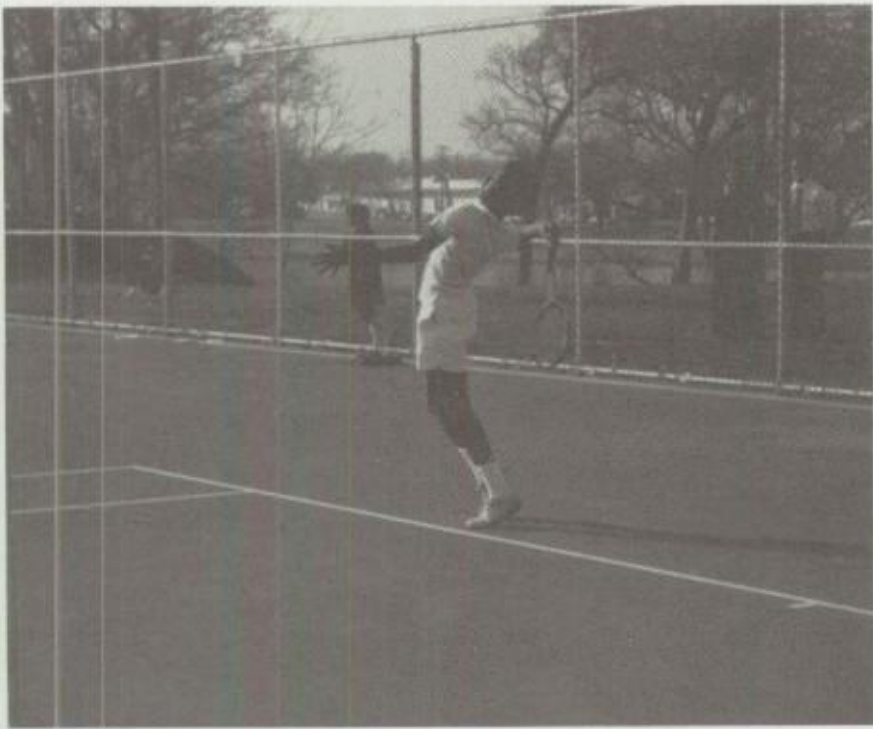

"When we play these girl's teams I like the score to be love-love."

Twinkle toes has returned.

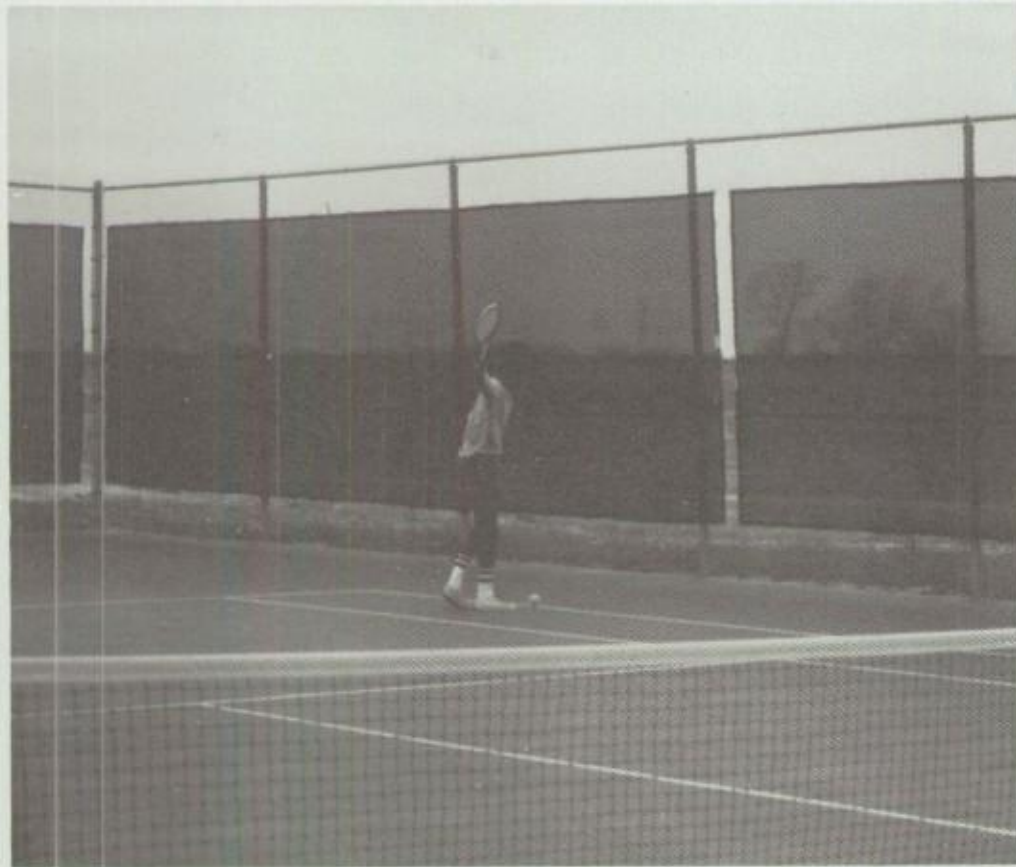

Sylvia practices her new down-stroke.

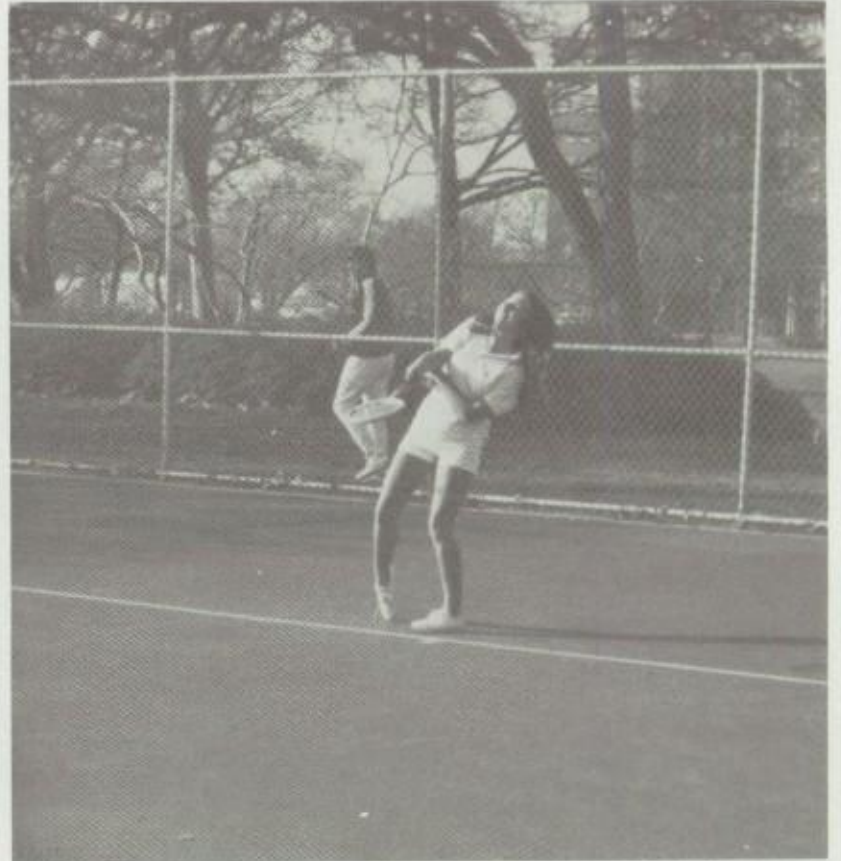

I knew I shoudn't have drunk those oozoos before the match.

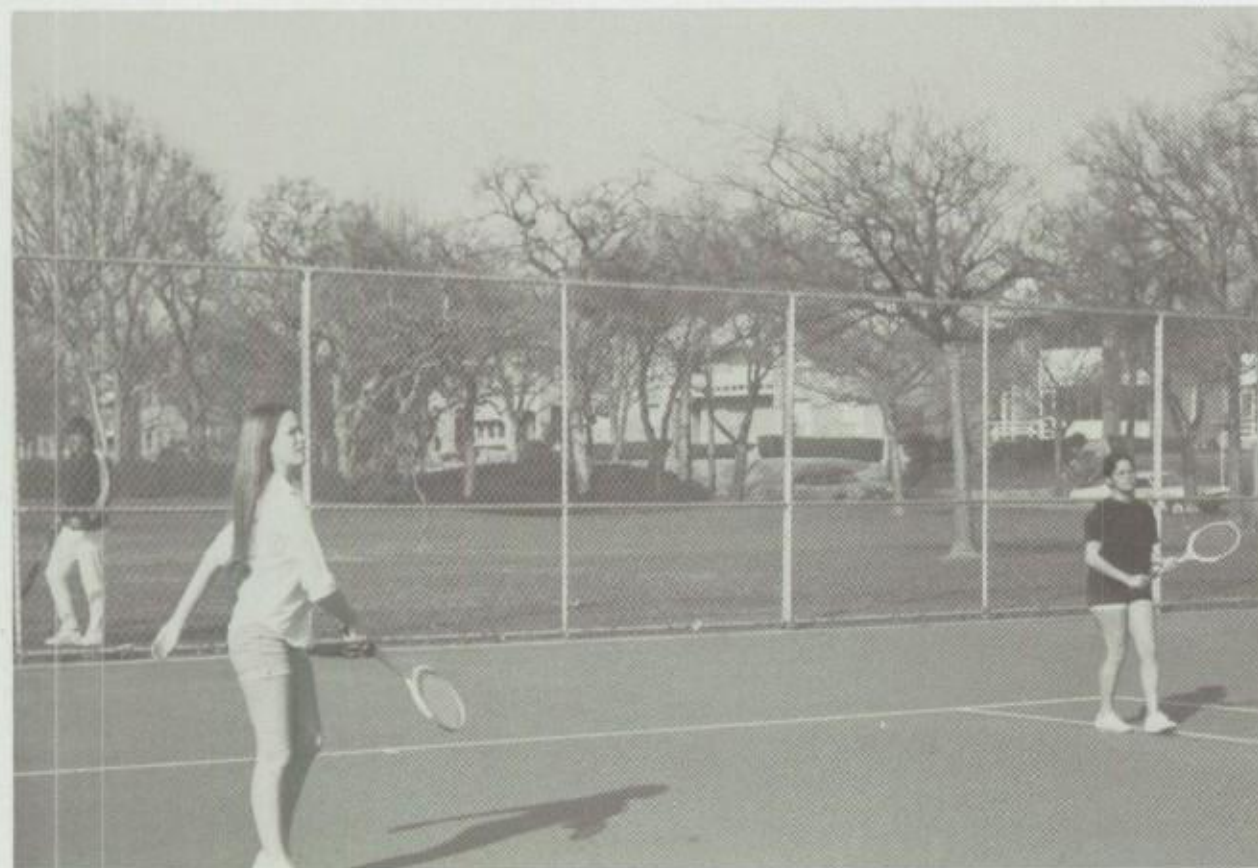

I want the ball right here!

Madison, you're supposed to hit the ball before it hits the ground.

"I'd bend over backwards to . . ."

You know, these players haven't returned one ball. I bet they're thieves.

"Take Me Out to the Ballgame"

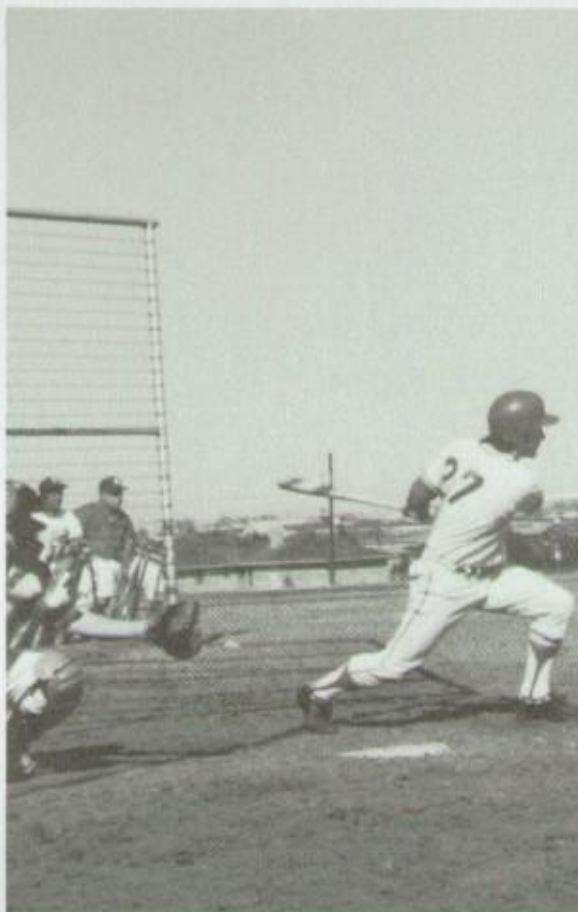

Number 22 is running for a homerun after catching a 20 yard pass.

"Alright, who stole second base?"

I can't believe the umpire called him out.

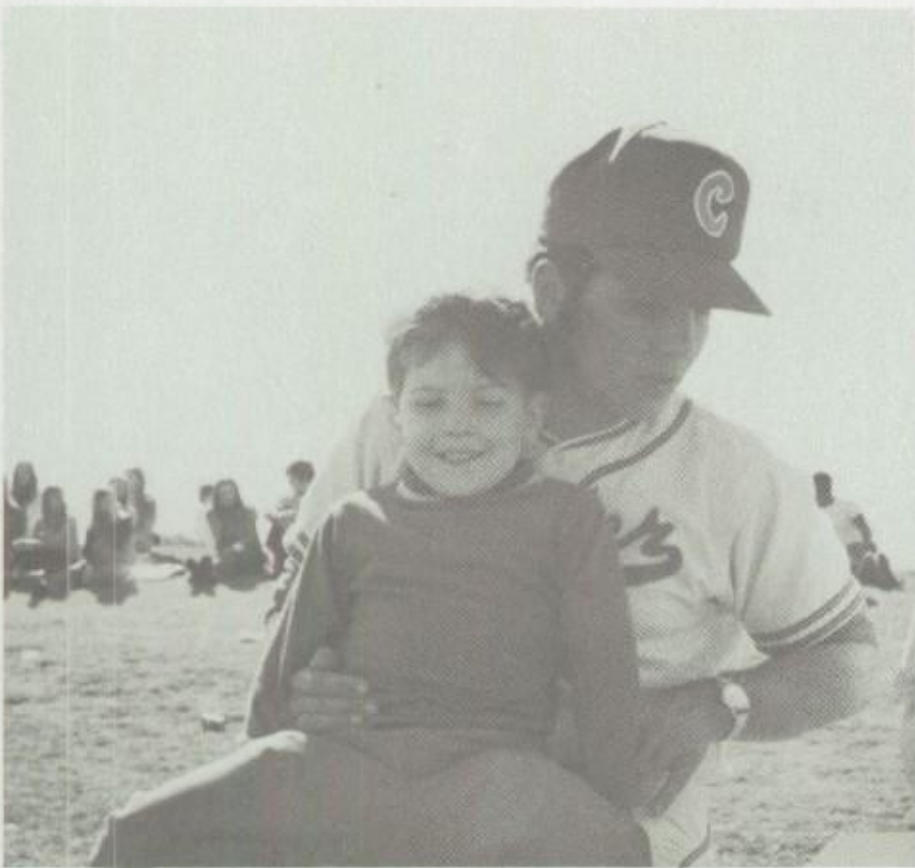

Wait till he throws the ball before you swing.

Gee fellas, I'm glad you like my hat.

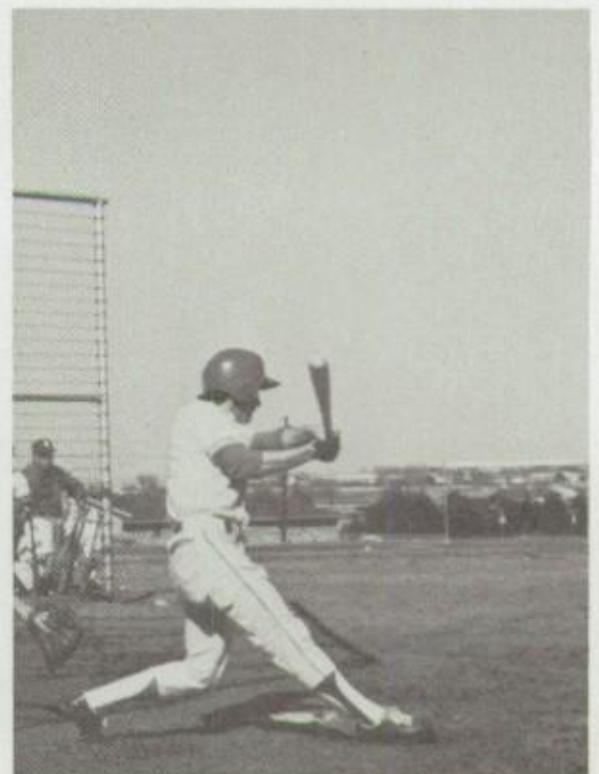

The youngest member of the team Bobby Don's son.

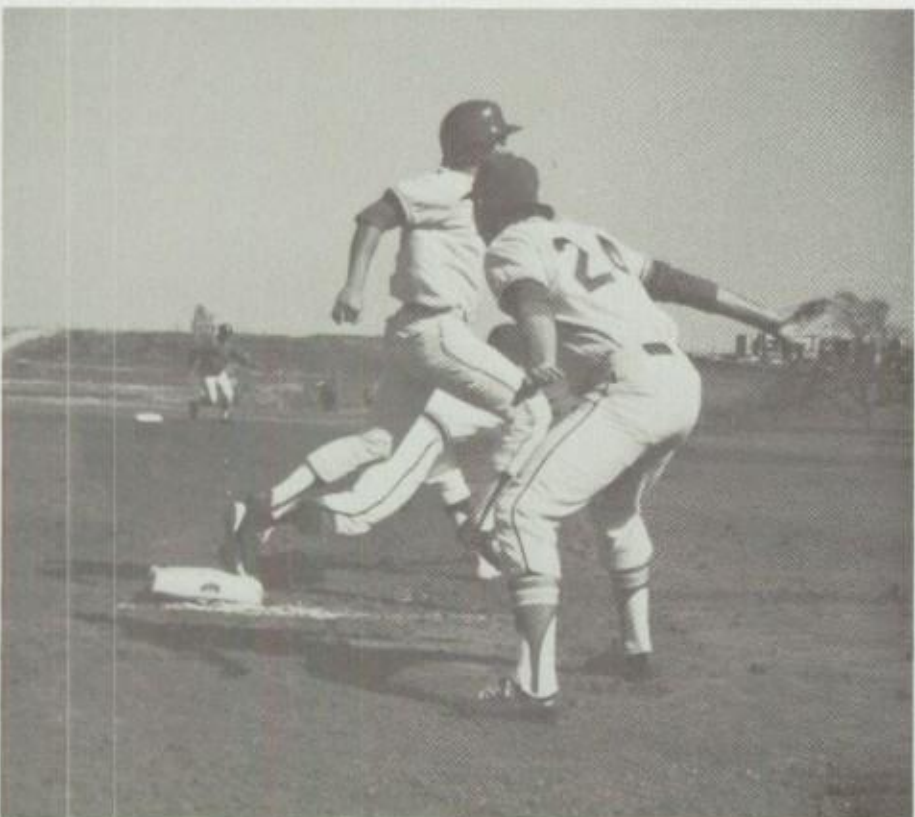

"Skip, skip, skip to my Lou"

Hey kid you're a little short besides you're running the wrong way.

"It's a homerun."

"Safe"

The game is tied up now, 6-6. The last batter up hit a single and had to slide into the base, barely missing the out that would be Carter's third. As the dust clears from around the base, you can see the umpire signaling "He's safe!" and the fans breathe a sigh of excited relief. The bases are loaded. Tension is in the air as the next batter steps up to bat. He takes a few practice swings, bends down to rub some hot, red sand on his hands, then after a few more swings of the bat, he gets set, oblivious of the yells and jeers from the opposing team. The pitcher winds up and throws! "Steerike!" shouts the umpire. You can feel the tension mounting in the stands as the batter steps back swinging his arms to loosen up a bit. Set again, the pitcher lets loose a fast ball. WHACK! Suddenly the field is in motion, players sliding into home base as the opponents scramble for a ball that is long gone. It's a home run!

"Brian tags another out."

"B" gets ready for another inning against Skyline.

Bobby Morrison warms up for the game.

"Jimmy Grimm tries another bunt."

"B" Team Baseball

"How would you like one across your lip?"

"Good throw . . ."

". . . bad catch,"

Golf Team Putts On

"Watch this one."

"Now, Stevie watch the ball."

Paul putts perfectly with his putter on the putting green.

"I think I can hit it this time."

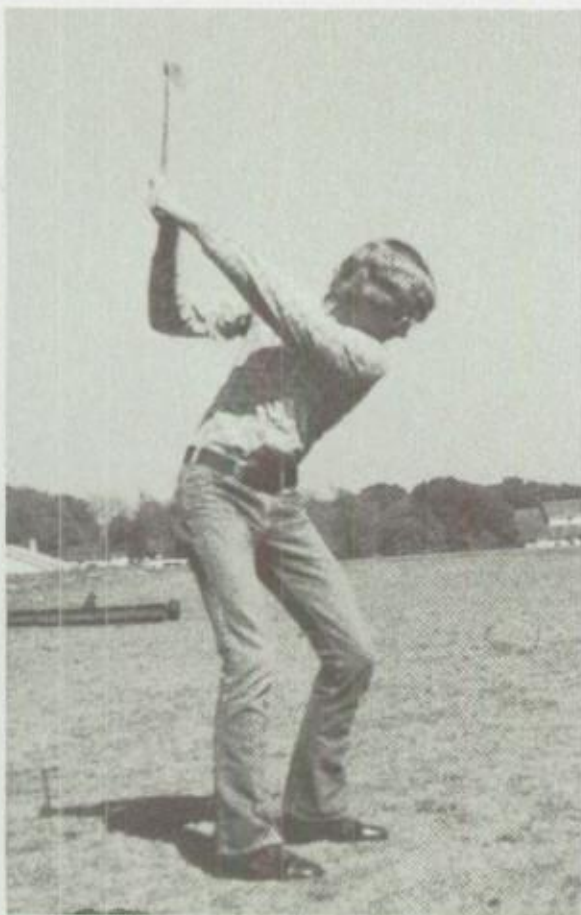

"Mother may I take one stroke?"

"Are you sure the ball came up here?"

"All right who moved the hole!"

Swing that club, Jimmy.

Jimmy Richardson tries his luck.

"Look at David, he thinks he knows how to play golf."

"Steve, we hate to tell you this but you're holding the club at the wrong end."

Ever wonder how Arnold Palmer or Lee Trevino got into the professional golfing business? Maybe they had their beginnings on a team like the Carter golf team. What better practice could you have than being on a team that brings back trophies and wins tournaments and high rankings in competitions? Along with Coach Murrey, they capture all the titles, including the 12-AAAA District Championship. Palmer and Trevino couldn't have it as good.

"A future Arnold Palmer?"

Soccer — a Growing Sport

The second most physically demanding sport, soccer, is played by ten Carter students, four ex-Carter students and four Bishop Dunne students who together make up the Hotspurs. Most every Sunday afternoon these boys can be seen playing one of the fastest rising sports in America. The key to the game is physical ability, along with speed, coordination and fast thinking ability. There are no time-outs for this constant running game up and down the 120 yard field. Only one, 10 minute break period between two forty minute halves. Because there are no time outs the players are on their own as far as plays are concerned, and since the game is so fast and the ball changes possession so much there is no way to preplan plays. Each player knows his position and knows where, when, and to whom to pass.

Most all physical sports can be dangerous in some way, but the fact that soccer players wear no padding or protection equipment, except for shin or elbow guards, increases physical danger.

The Hotspurs get up their offense.

Coach Warner talks to the Hotspurs before a game.

"Stay back, dude. I was here first!"

Some Hotspurs watch the game from the sidelines.

Ronny Morgan and others hotfoot it towards the ball.

"Alright, which one of you jerks stepped on Clemmon's toe?"

Hotspurs anticipate their next play.

"I double dare you to come over here and say that!"

Pokes Take to the Water

"Glory, Glory for Sprague pool — ya
Think the water's warm but it'll fool ya.
You swim and sweat and heave
And sometimes forget to breathe
While Ingram still shouts on!"
(sung to "Glory Hallelujah")

So it goes during workouts of the Carter swim team. Knowing some of the swimmers around Carter, you wonder how they keep from drowning! But at a meet, they turn off their humor long enough to get really serious about winning another one for Carter. They work hard to get high rankings, many of them qualifying this year for the Regional Meet. One of the swimmers is an All-American, and others always grab the 1st place titles in diving and races. With one of the Carter swim team around, you'll never have to worry about drowning!

Oh no! I've lost my swim suit.

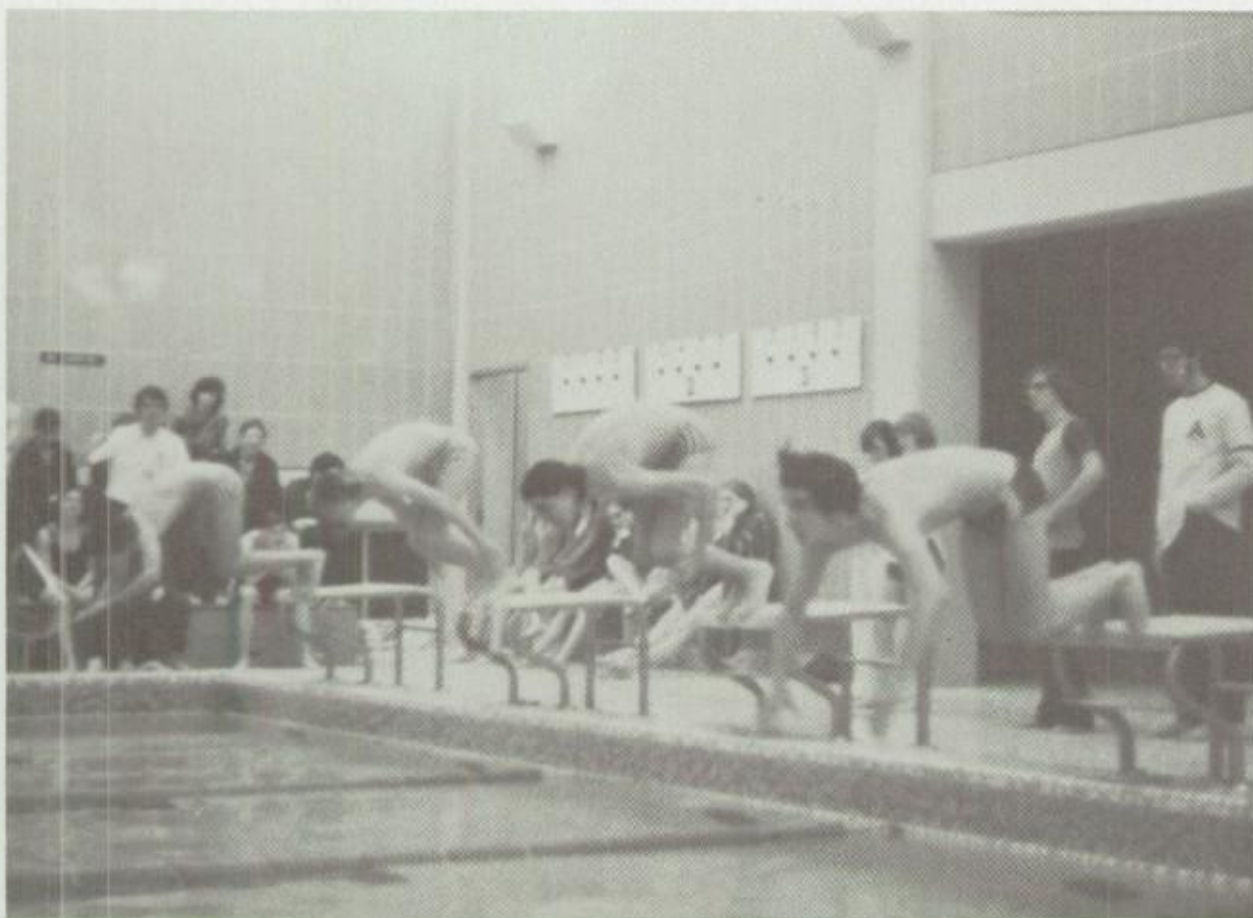

"Jerome you're suppose to swim, not fly!"

Far out. That chlorine gives me the greatest pucker power!

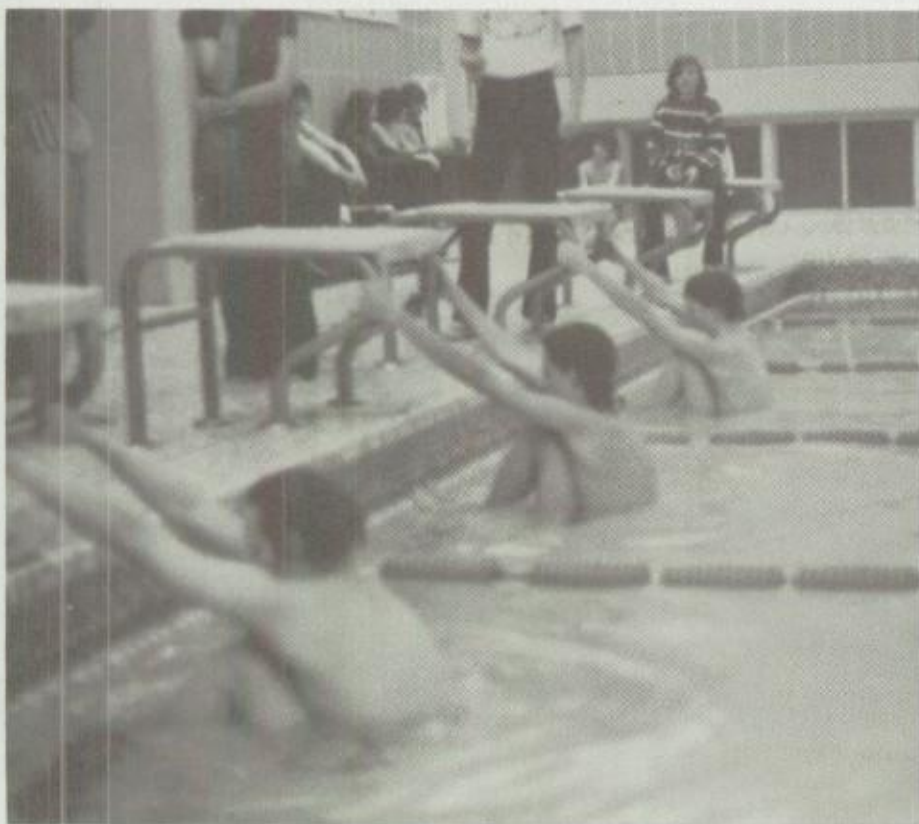

"Oh no! Is it take a breath and go under, or go under and then take a breath?"

I bet superman can't even fly backwards.

Carter swim team members start the competition for the back stroke.

"I think I swallowed too much water."

Brad wears the new Japanese afro.

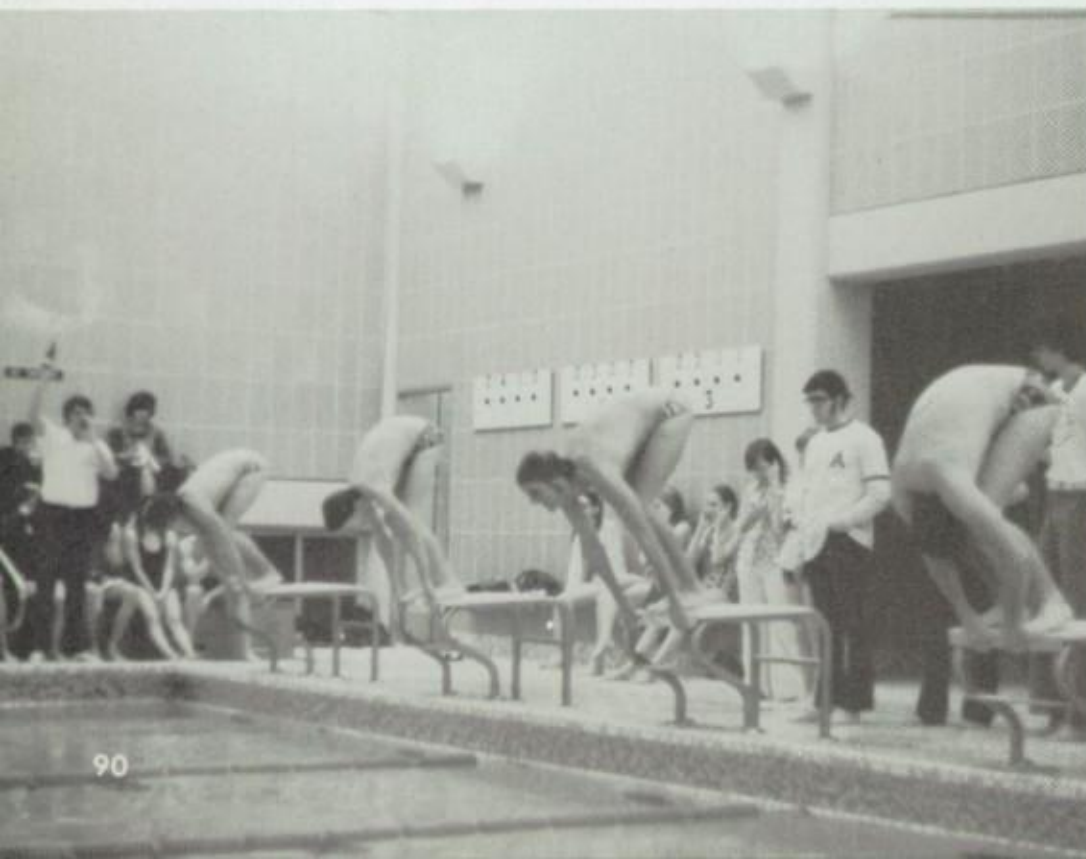

Coach Ingram does some coaching on the sidelines.

I see you 2 and raise you 5.

"Bye, Bye Birdie — The Army has got you now"

The musical is a product of a few seemingly endless weeks of memorizing lines, music, and dances, designing costumes, improvising scenery and people, and rehearsals till all hours of the night: After all the rushing around, building scenery, selling tickets and producing programs, to get everything perfect for the big night. But somehow, when the big night of the performance comes with all of its excitement, flowers, curtain calls and tears, everyone is sad that its all over in just a few hours.

This years musical is a spoof of the "fifties." When uncle Sam invites Conrad Birdie (John Hall) to join the Army, millions of American female teenagers are ready to secede from the Union. It's rough for Birdie's song-writing manager, Albert Peterson (Mike Weatherford), who survives on ten percent of Birdie's royalties. Albert has hopes of marrying his devoted secretary, Rosie Alvarez (Sandi Daneil). Like a good secretary she plots to save her boss by arranging a farewell "kiss" to Kim MacAffee (Anne Bowles). Her parents (Richard Roberts and Debbie Lindsey) along with Hugo (Wayne Lambert) are not too happy about the "One Last Kiss," but everything seems to work out for everybody.

"Nobody told me you had to sing to be in a musical."

Mr. Goldfaden choreographer and director from State Fair Music Hall.

Conrad reduces Mrs. Merkle (Phyllis Cowan) to a snarling, raging, panting beast.

"I do other things besides type."

Mr. Dodd, looks over the rehearsal schedule.

"I wonder if Beethoven ever had to play for his high school musical?"

"I want more than one spotlight."

"I know you're shy Richard but come out from behind the curtain."

"O, give me One Last Kiss."

"I'll have a double rocks on the scotch. And put some rocks in it this time . . ."

"I think I have a tummy ache Mommy."

"I'm the lead — I can order you around if I want."

"A Spoof of the Fifties"

"Gee, I thought we were doing My Fair Lady."

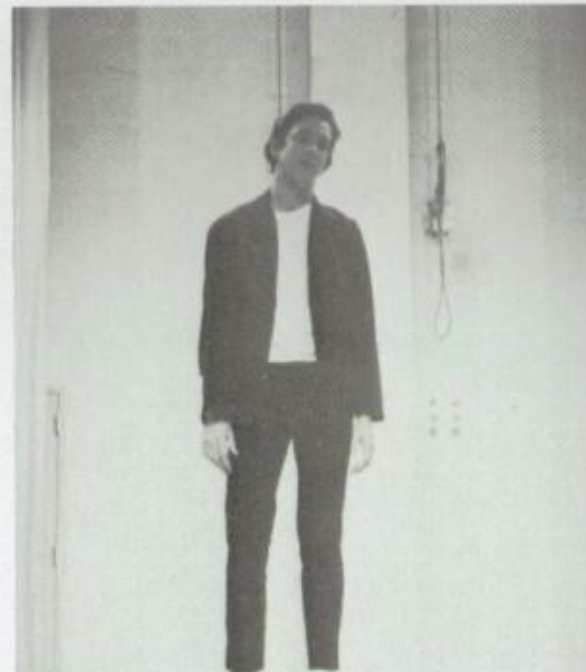

"No, Mr. Dodd you don't have to wear make up."

"This is Spanish Rose's coming out party and I do mean coming out!"

"Just because your part is bigger doesn't mean you can order me around."

"If I have to do my one line over again I'm going to hang myself."

"Just throw me out in the garbage and let thousands of little pussy cats walk all over a poor mother."

I am...
 Well, here it is the end of School! We've had so much fun in Sherman this year, that it's almost unreal. I don't know how I would have lasted in Sherman if it hadn't been for you. We had a riot.
 But, how, the time has come to say up- it- is- the bud, so to speak, the party's over... I'll come back to see you next year. Sniff!
 Sniff! Good luck with —. Don't do anything I wouldn't do. Okay...
 Take care & God bless you. Lots of love,
 Suzzy

"Put on a happy face, Paula being stage manager can't be that bad."

"The vote has been denied no one for reason of age, sex or political ..."

Mary bangs out the music on the old 88 keys.

Stage manager, Bill Lawrence, lays down the law to the cast.

"Barefoot in the Park" — Successful Senior Play

Corie and Paul are very much in love, even though at first glance you might not believe it. Corie (Meg Adams), a bride of a whole six days, is impulsive, vivacious, a bit scatter-brained, but full of life. Paul (Robert Archer), soon to be a successful lawyer, is practical, calm, thoughtful, and somewhat of a "stuffed shirt." Take the ingredients of these two personalities, add a widowed mother (Sandy Daniel), an intriguing eligible bachelor who lives in the upstairs attic (Roddy Edwards), and Corie's matchmaking mind, and you've got the hilarious idea behind "Barefoot in the Park", by Neil Simon. The whole thing is seasoned by a bottle of pink pills, a couch that is too short, a hole in the skylight, and, last, but not least, appearances of a telephone man (Bobby Coy) from the Bronx.

"Come on, just try a little harder, you can fit."

Really Meg, did you have to eat onions before rehearsal!

"As you can see I am a thoroughly nice fellow."

Paul can't believe he lifted the whole thing.

The telephone guy, alias Troy the man, added one of the high points to the Senior play.

"Mother, I didn't mean to drop the 'kinichi' down your back."

"It looked better on the girl in the magazine."

"A crossword puzzle with . . . dirty words?"

"Did you have a rough day at the office, Dear?"

Drama: The Art of Showing Expression

"Being a lizard isn't easy."

"See, I told you I could be popcorn."

"Here I am what do you want me to do."

"Little Boy Blue?"

You are on stage. The house lights have been dimmed and the spotlight is on you. You squint in the blinding light trying to convince yourself that you are not alone in the great auditorium. The heat from the lights start to bring out beads of sweat on your forehead. The silence is deafening.

Suddenly out of the blackness a voice booms at you. "You are a bubble gum machine!" So begins your great acting career at D.W.C. If you do good as a bubble gum machine, maybe next week they'll let you play something more complicated, say, for instance, sandpaper?

"Today is show and tell, we all brought our imaginary pets."

Sing Along With Doddie

The first performance of the year for Concert Choir is always filled with cheers for Uncle Sam, Mom, and Apple Pie, as the chorus sings patriotic songs for American Education Week. And of course, Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without an appearance by the Concert Choir. Full of Christmas spirit and good cheer, the chorus sings carols and begins the holidays on a joyful note.

The chorus was sad to see Mr. Vavroch leave, but curious and excited about the new director and the rest of the year. The new director from Atwell, Mr. Dodd, stepped in and began leading the way. The choir met engagements at both Hulcy and Atwell in a recruitment drive for next year, and began work on the musical "Bye Bye Birdie". Later, the choir sang for the NHS initiation and the annual spring program.

Basses try to learn new music.

Bill finds a new way to wear his choir robe.

"That's your cue, Sops."

The choir rehearses the "Beastie" song.

"Doddie"

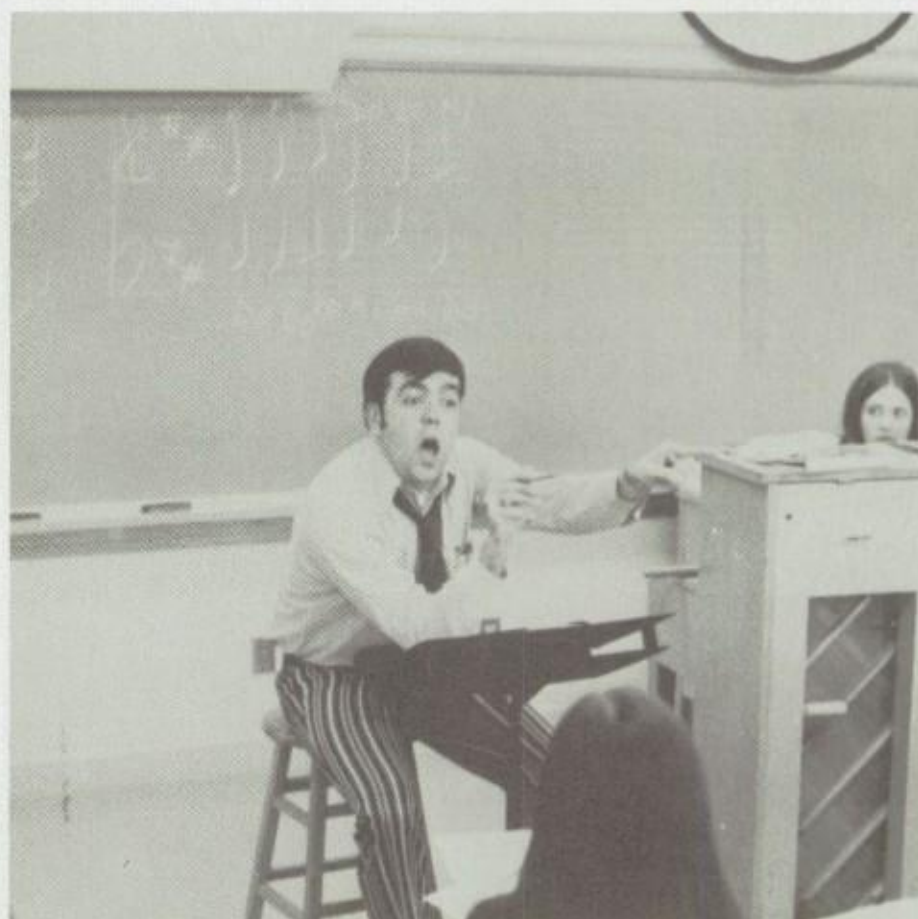

The choir just got their first look at the new director, Mr. Dodd.

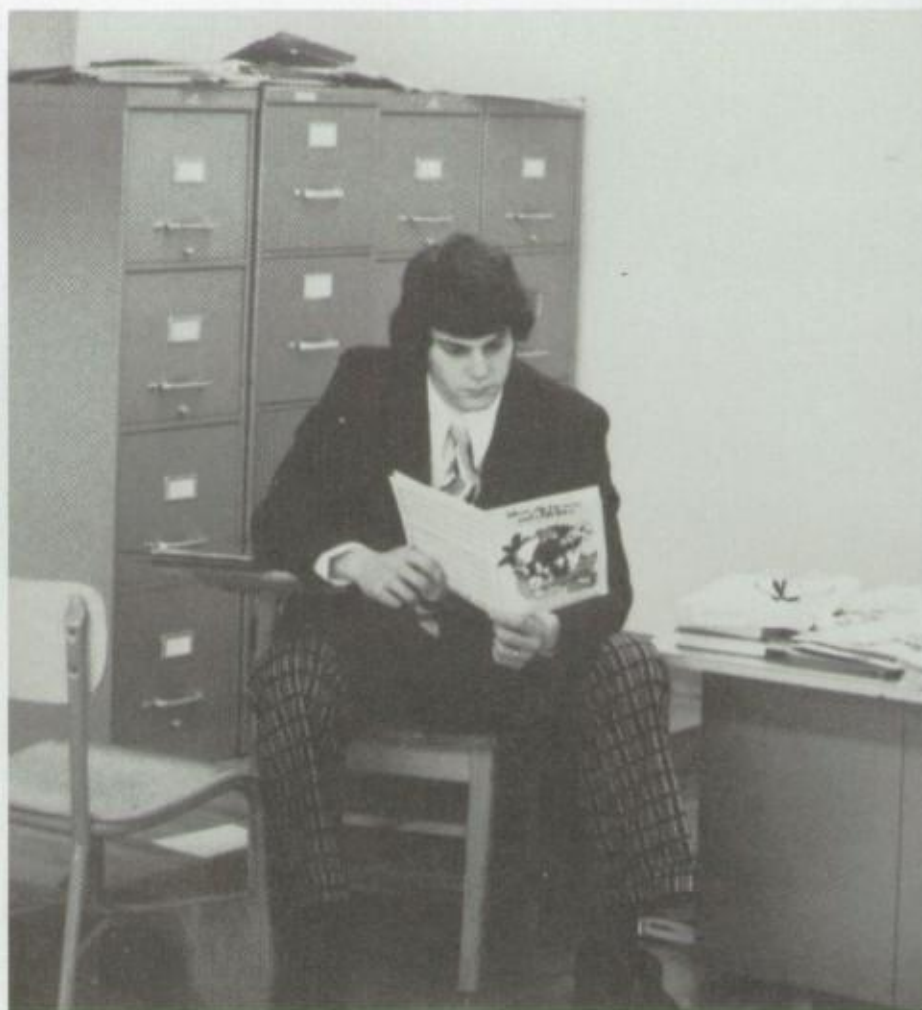

"Am I singing the right note?"

"One more comment about my toupee, and you're out."

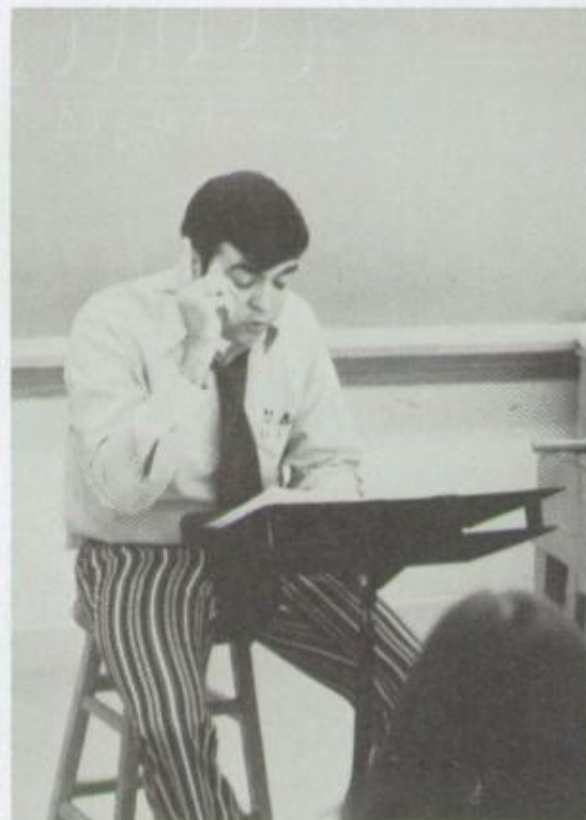

A good choral sound takes long hours of rehearsal.

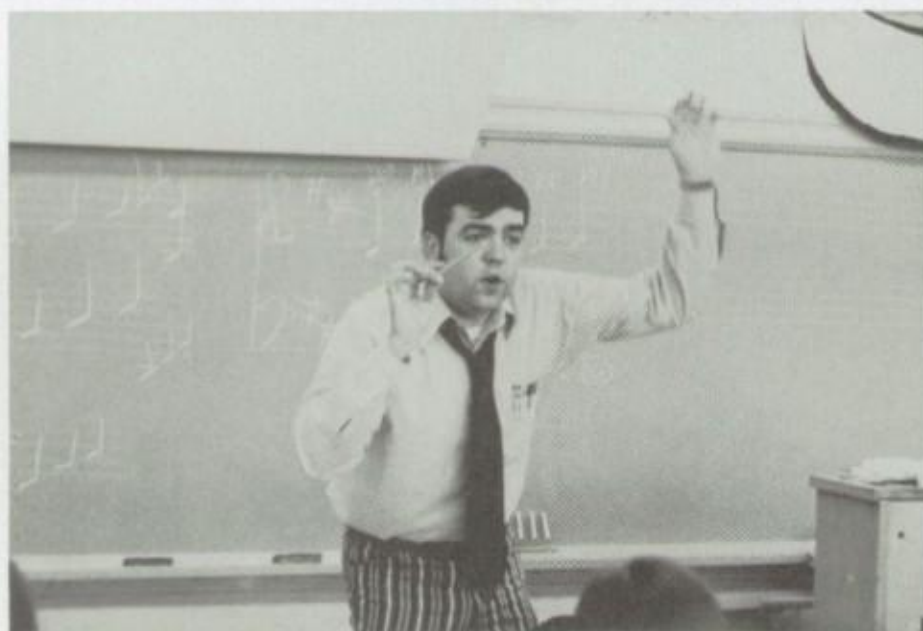

Mr. Allan, a student teacher, prepares to conduct the choir.

"Mary, are you sure that's the right note?"

"I think someone in the alto section is singing too loud."

"A one and a two and a . . ."

Orchestra — Symphonic Strings

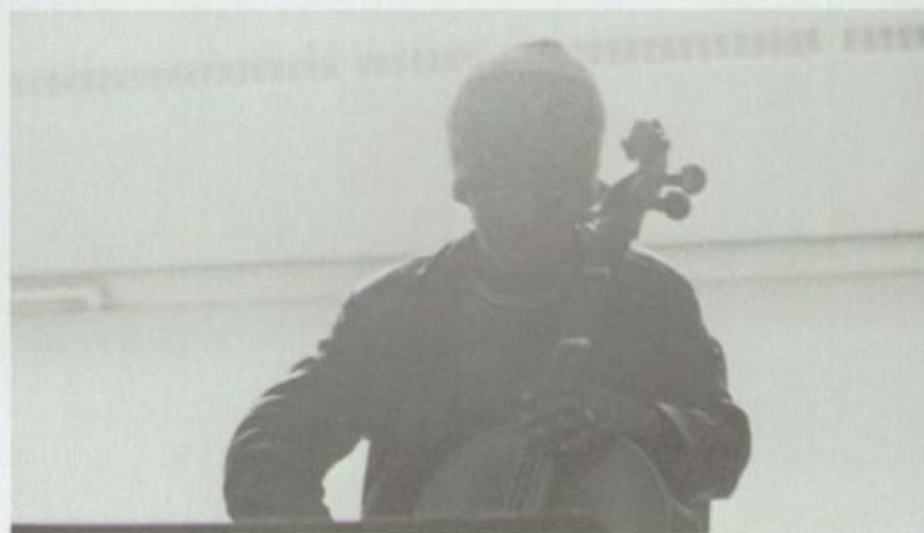

John Hall — a future Philharmonic member?

Believe it or not, there is still a little bit of culture left in Carter and you don't have to look too hard to find it! Just go behind stage some afternoon and you're bound to find a part of Carter's culture amidst violins, cellos, basses, and the like. Here is where the Carter orchestra hides out, rehearsing music, working on technique, and solos, studying the theory of music and musical acoustics, and getting a good background in music literature and the history of the music they play. Who knows — we could have new additions to the Boston Philharmonic in our own Carter orchestra . . .

"Say man, you want some Boggie Woggie music?"

The hall provides an open-air atmosphere.

"The Herd" — Carter's Stage Band

"The Herd" prepares for their Jazz concert.

"Hold, don't take my picture yet let me comb my hair."

"Ready one, two, three, four . . ."

"We told you Mark not to stay out so late."

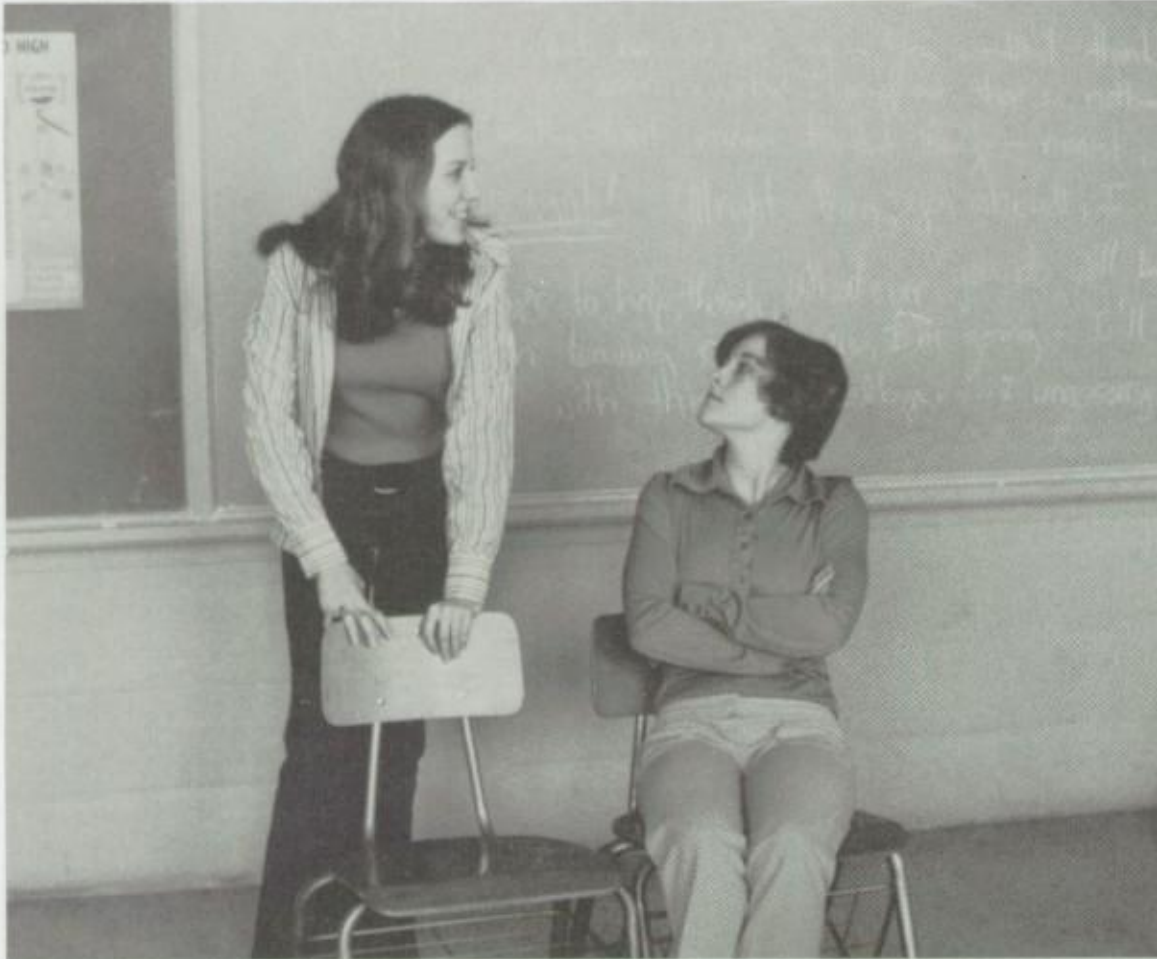

"The Three Freaks

There is a talented group of musicians at Carter that present an exciting show of jazz entertainment. You can find them everyday fifth period in the band hall going over new arrangements for their programs and contests. In case you haven't guessed yet, this great band is the "Herd." It's made up of a group of boys and two girls. (Women's Lib would be proud of you . . .) They have a lot of fun while, at the same time, they prepare the good jazz that has won the "Herd" so much recognition.

Speech Tournaments

"Debbie, I hate to tell you this but . . ."

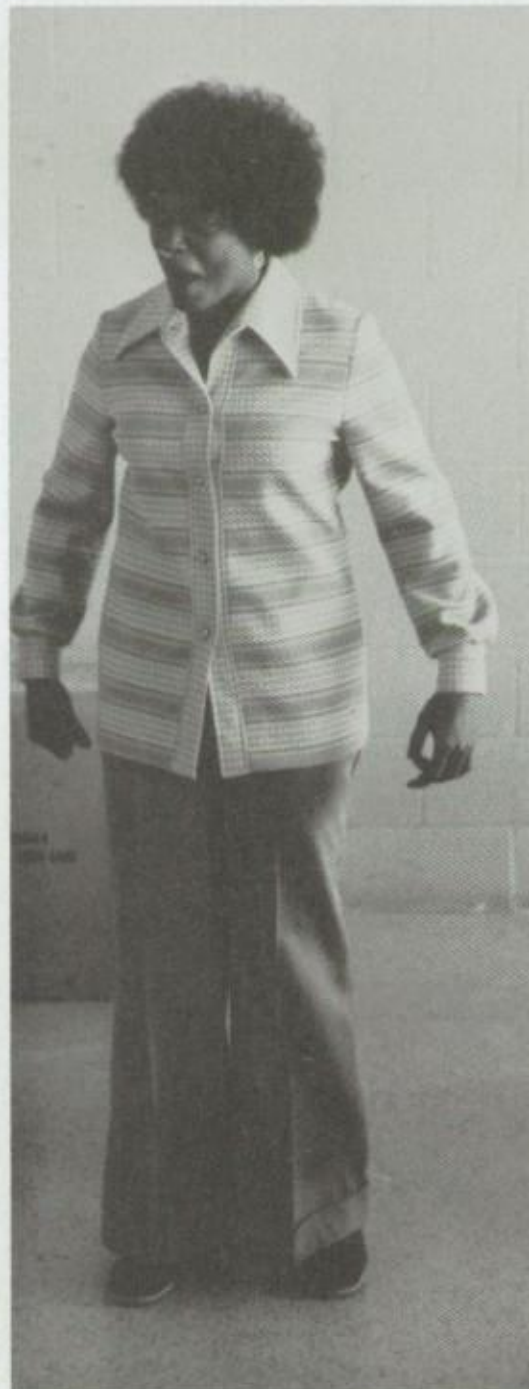

"I want to bite your neck."

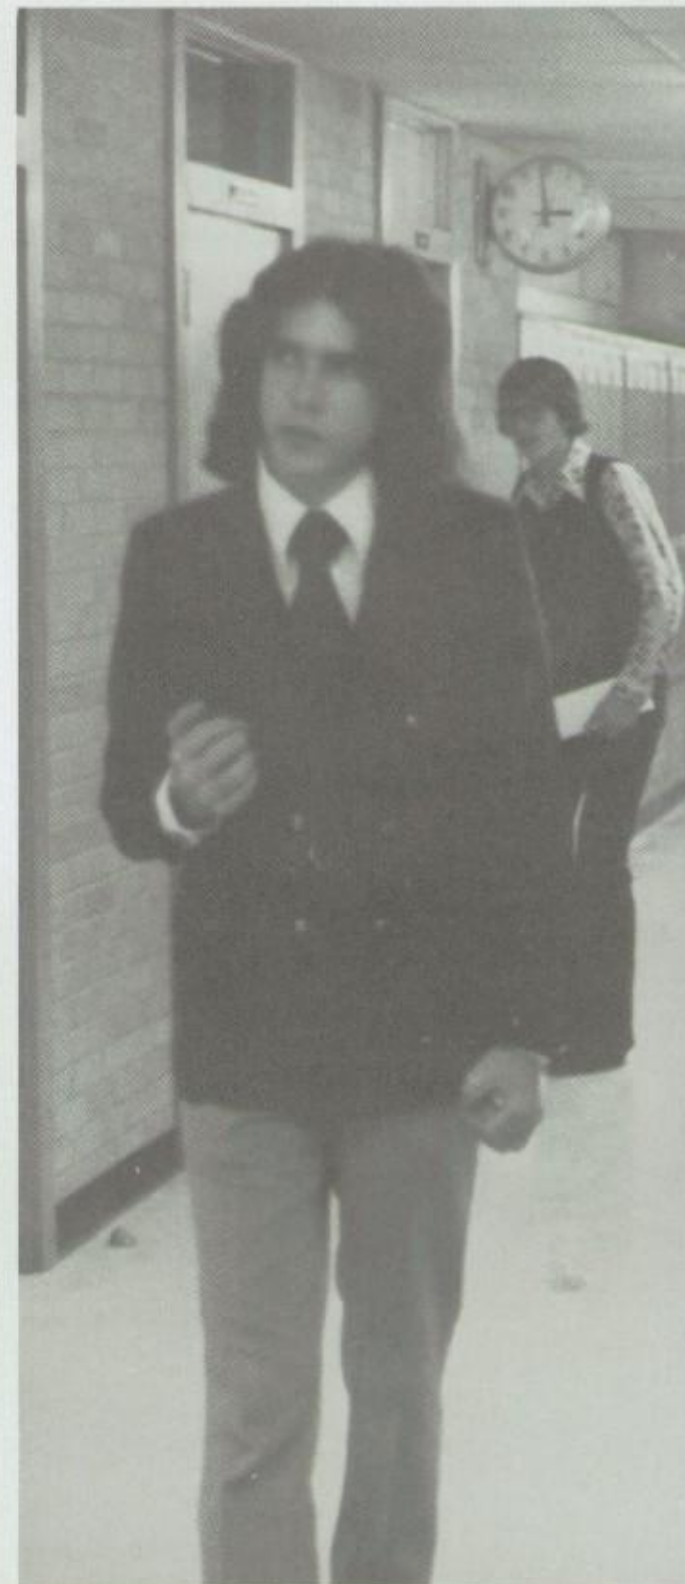

Vincent participates as a member of student Congress.

Whether participating in extemporaneous speaking, oratory, debate, dramatics, or student congress, speech tournaments are a nerve-racking but fun experience. Having the opportunity to leave school early, visiting other area high schools, and meeting new people are as much a part of a speech tournament as the competition itself. Many Carter students attend speech tournaments not only for personal experience, but also to represent their school in the competition of public speaking.

"Ms. Pate, I don't care if I messed up!"

"Now is that stated in Article B, Section 4, paragraph 12; or Section 2, paragraph 6, article?"

The Inventors of the Game — The 1973 Round-Up Staff

Contrary to popular belief this book was not put together by elves in the Black Forest, nor was it assembled by McGovern supporters on recycled campaign literature. Instead, it was designed and redesigned, written and rewritten, photographed, layed-out, worried, and slaved over by a group of fifteen hardworking, industrious students, otherwise known as "Your Friendly Neighborhood Round-Up Staff". The staff is sponsored by a kooky blonde with a home economics degree and a tall handsome pipe smoker, headed up by an actress and a debate freak, staffed by a few normal people, a couple of geniuses, Barbara Striesand's double, a fantastic photographer, and our very own "motivator agitator". From this information, we encourage you to draw your own conclusions about this book.

"It gets to be a real drag when people don't show up for their pictures!"

The staff gets to work (for once) rushing as always to meet a deadline.

"Mr. Truman, they didn't mean to beat up Steve Bayless . . ."

Rita Booker struggles to type on the excellent modern typewriter provided for the annual staff.

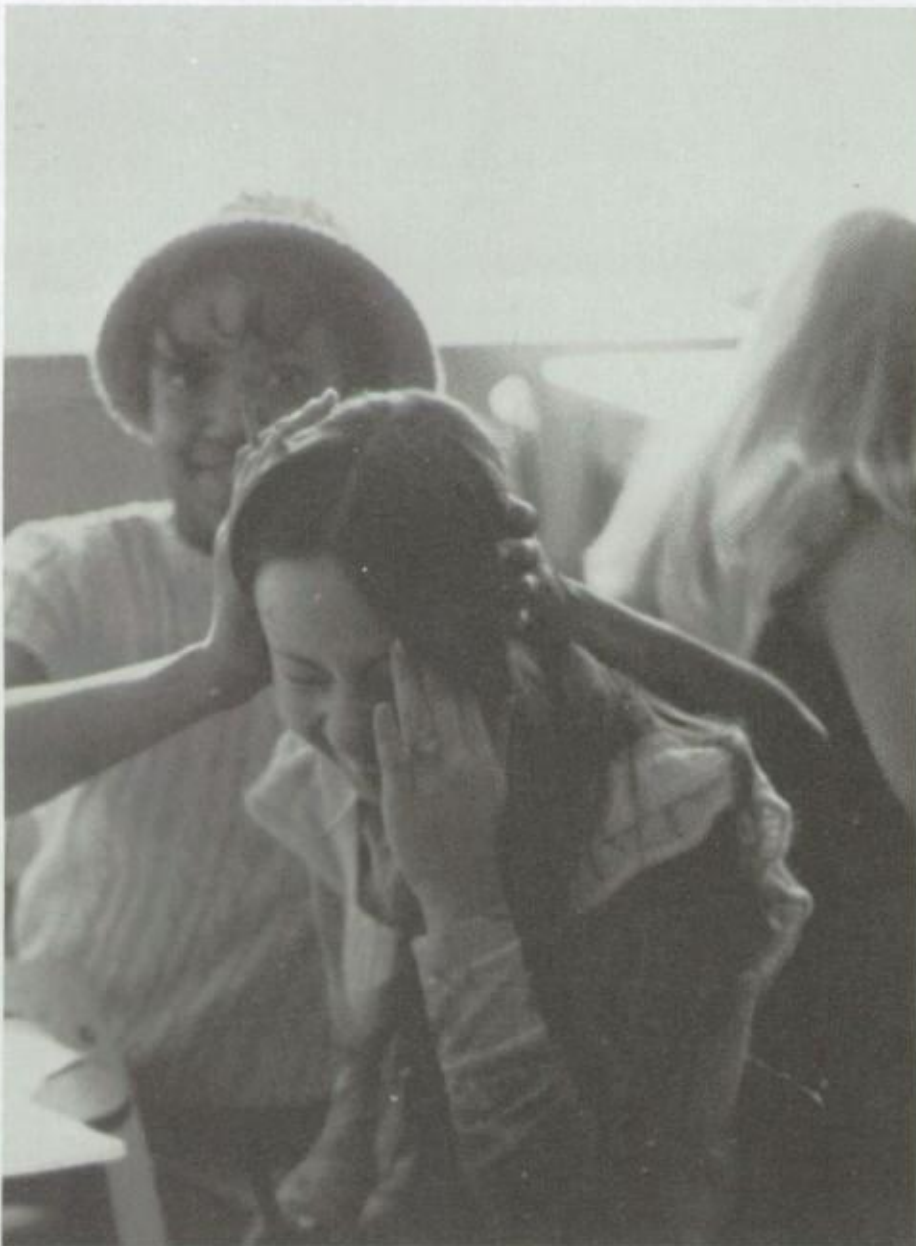

After an exhausting night of yearbook work, Mr. Truman wonders why Mrs. Flanagan had to leave.

Miss Barron and the Newspaper Staff work hard to put out the "Wrangler."

Journalism 3 and 4, otherwise known as the "Wrangler" Staff, can most often be found bustling back and forth between Room 216 and the Journalism Room busy with stories, layouts, paste ups, and headlines. Everything from editorials about ineffective teachers to features about Neiman-Marcus His and Her Christmas gifts can be found in the pages of the "Wrangler." The staff is continually gathering school news and news on a local and national level that would interest Carter students. The staff all but prints the "Wrangler" to get an interesting and informative paper.

"Now, Mark, you know we can't put words like that in the Wrangler."

Sometimes the pressures of being editor are just too much for Sherri Long.

"Big Tex", Arthur Cummings, supervises the Wrangler staff.

The staff all but prints the Wrangler

The staff and Miss Barron search for another lost article in their "tidy" section of the Journalism Room.

Three years. Gone; slowly for some, much too fast for others. Looking back, you wonder how, as a Sophomore you could have thought the Seniors looked so old! Somehow the time slipped by and maturity came without your noticing it. You stop and remember how small D.W.C. was when you first walked its halls. So much has changed since then! Carter has grown, and you have grown with it.

It's time now to leave the crowded halls and I.B.M. cards, pep assemblies and championship play-off games, the "riots", the hallpasses, the organizations, and all the other games of Carter High School. As the game of '73 nears the finish line, you turn towards a new game, a larger game, ready to play it with hope for the future.

Those typing mistakes get to you sometimes.

A strange thing happens to you when you reach the stage of the game labeled "Junior". All of a sudden, you're not the baby anymore. You don't have to endure the tortures and cuts like "What a Sophomore!" endlessly invoked by Seniors. You are now quite familiar with the tricks of the game, freeing you from your days of getting rooked into buying elevator tickets forever.

Now, it's your turn to give the Sophomores a bad time. You're a year older and with the age comes a growing feeling of superiority. It's amazing how quickly you can change from the timid, picked on Sophomore to the secure, outspoken Junior. You challenge everyone, especially the Seniors.

Your Junior year is unique. It prepares you to be the type of Senior that will go down in history!

At first there are unanswered questions, but as these questions are answered, they begin to realize what life at Carter is "all about", and become adjusted to the changes from Junior High. Their voices join in with chants of '73 and '74 (much to the Seniors irritation) and also contributing their efforts in other more constructive aspects of the game. As the year comes to close, Sophomores look forward to their Junior year, thankful that at least one year is behind them.

Different Kinds of Assemblies Provide Entertainment

The word "assembly" in years past brought one thing to mind from Carter students; "Oh, good, we're getting out of class!" But this year, things have been different. Everything from an exciting multi-media presentation by the yearbook of the past fifty years, to a drum concert sponsored by the Senior class was thoroughly enjoyed by faculty and students alike. A Student Council sponsored assembly, "The History of Rock" with Chuck Berry, Elvis, and the Beatles (to mention a few) also provided a delightful break in school routine. The Concert Choir Christmas program, a performance by the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, and the Herd with its big band jazz sound added a touch of culture for Carter music enthusiasts.

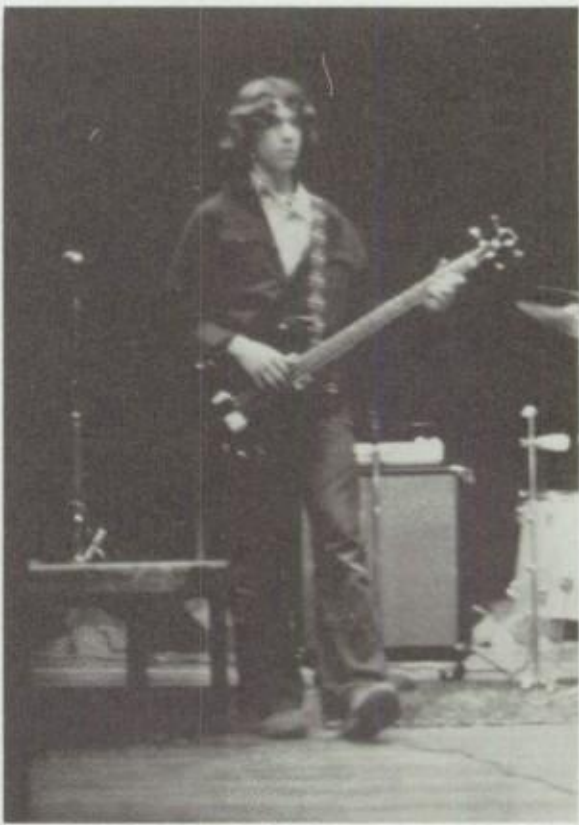

"We can make it happen!"

Mr. Spruiell prefaces the yearbook assembly.

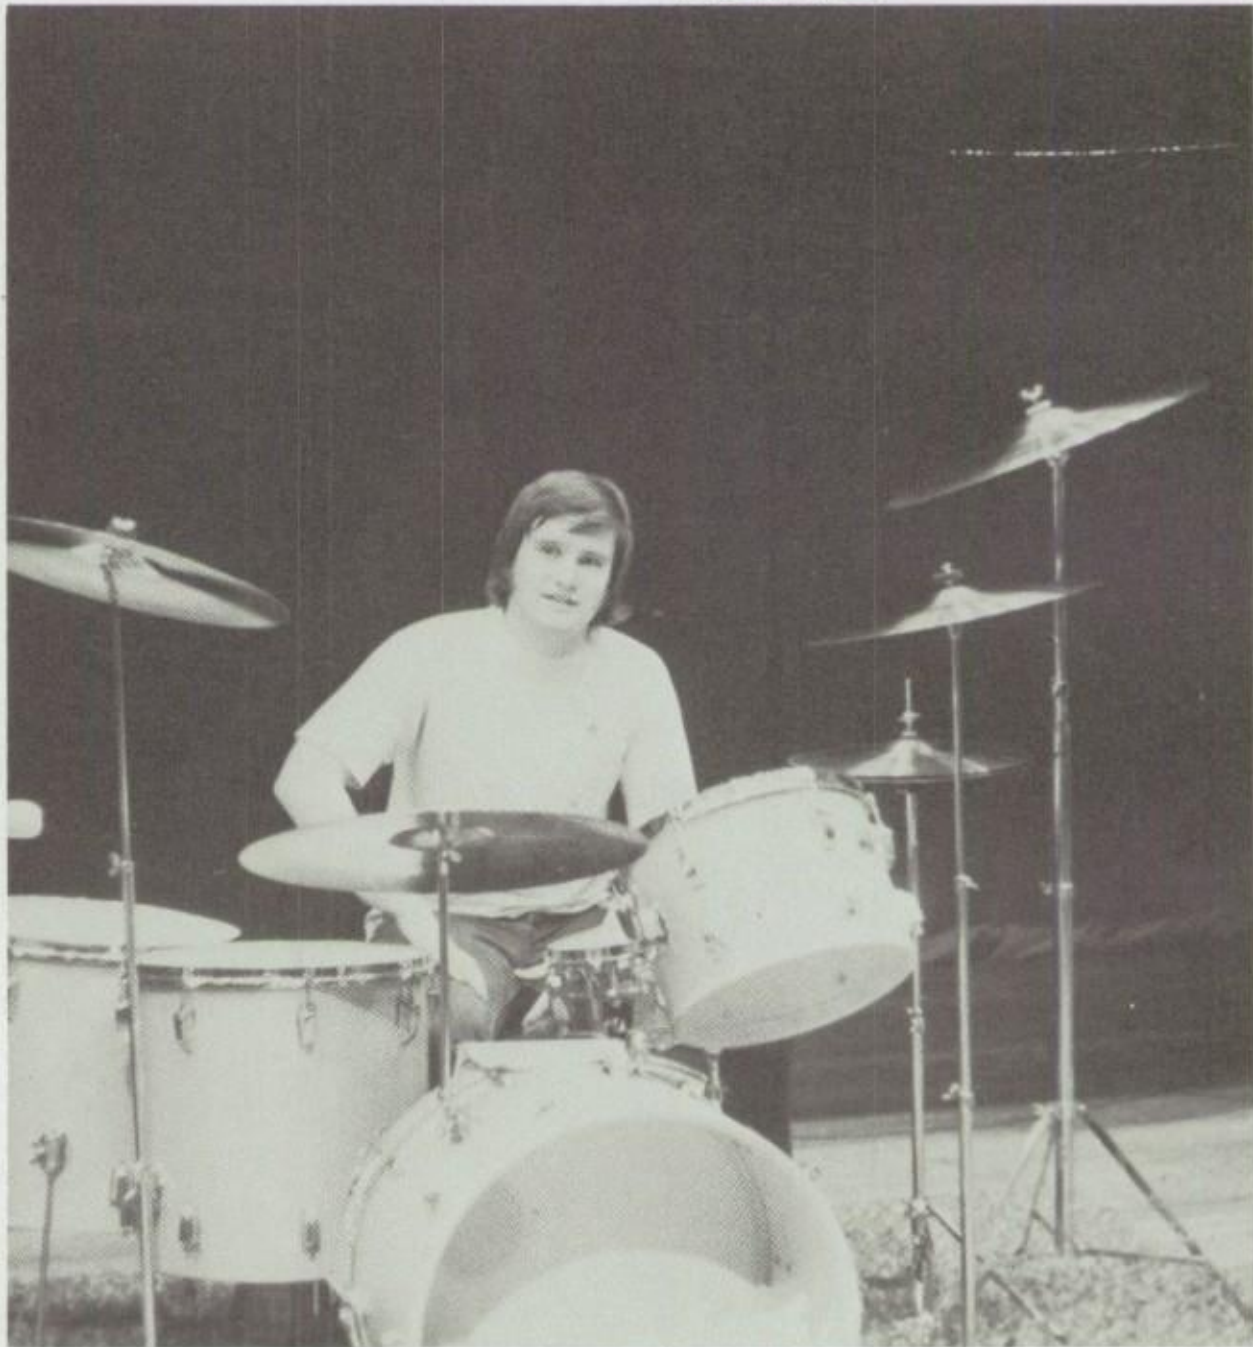

Nathan Williams sets up his drums for the Senior sponsored drum concert.

With help from Carter students the Sr. Class made over $300.

Matt Daffron shows his talented ability in the drum concert.

Richard Higgins watches as he receives a standing ovation after his performance.

D.B.C.'s "Collage" adds live music to the annual assembly.

Sr.'s '73 Sponsor Hamburger Eating Contest

"You deserve a break today. So get out and get away to McDonalds!" That's just what a group of Carter kids did on March sixth for the Second Annual Hamburger Eating Contest, sponsored by the Senior class of 1973. Everybody gets something out of the contest: McDonalds gets publicity, the Seniors build their bank account, and the winners get a humongous 3 week stomach ache.

After so many hamburgers, its really sickening to find a foreign object in your next bite.

Everybody looks so happy before they start eating . . . they don't know what they're in for!

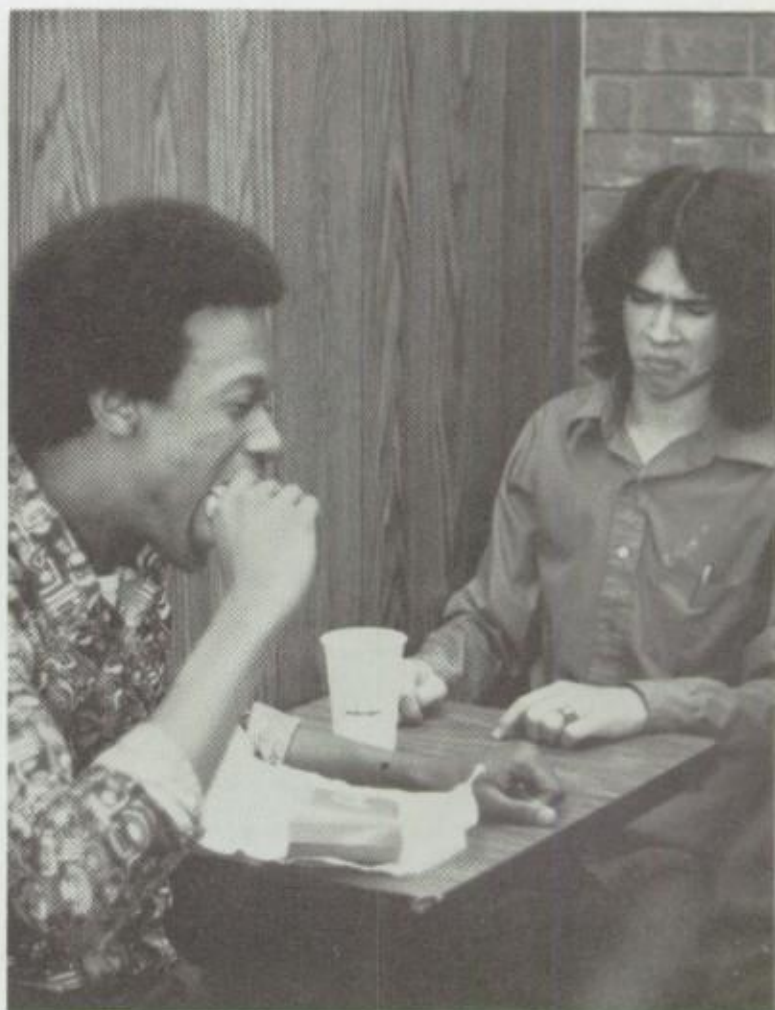

Bill digs into another scrumptious Big Mac.

No one can eat just one.

"So what if I don't go to Carter . . . I can eat more than my sister, and she's a Senior!"

"I think I'm gonna be sick!"

Jackie Grimes says she doesn't even like hamburgers!

Steve prays for a bigger stomach before starting the contest.

"If I eat enough, do you think they'll let me be Ronald McDonald?"

After a hamburger eating contest this menu sure doesn't look very appetizing . . .

Moto-cross — Excitement on Wheels

Often overlooked as physical endeavor in our game, motocross is one of the most strenuous sports. Before the actual contest bike riders spend long tedious hours repairing and tuning up their machines. The track is rugged and hard riding, and most of the riders who begin the race never see the finish line. Across hills and creeks with dirt and mud flying, motocross riders race to the finish where trophies or cash prizes await them.

Many times we play the Carter school game without giving a thought to the events taking place in the world outside. Sometimes, though, these events are of such great magnitude that they can't help but affect our lives. Some seem to burst into our game, while others subtly sneak in unnoticed, leaving their effects scattered throughout the game.

This year, the Carter game began along with some other games — the Olympics. Great excitement combined with even greater tragedy filled the 1972 Olympics in Munich, Germany. Americans were thrilled as they watched swimmer Mark Spitz grab seven gold medals for the United States. Later, their excitement was turned to shocked despair as Arab terrorists shot down Israeli athletes.

Back at home, campaigns were underway between liberal Democrat George McGovern and incumbent Republican Richard Nixon. The competition was a bit one sided as Nixon landslided his way into "four more years".

1972 saw the last of the Apollo moon missions. The moon had been conquered. Aeronautic pioneers were ready to delve deeper into the darkness.

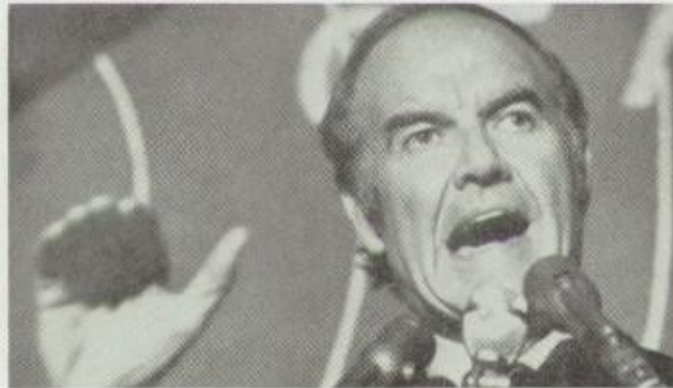

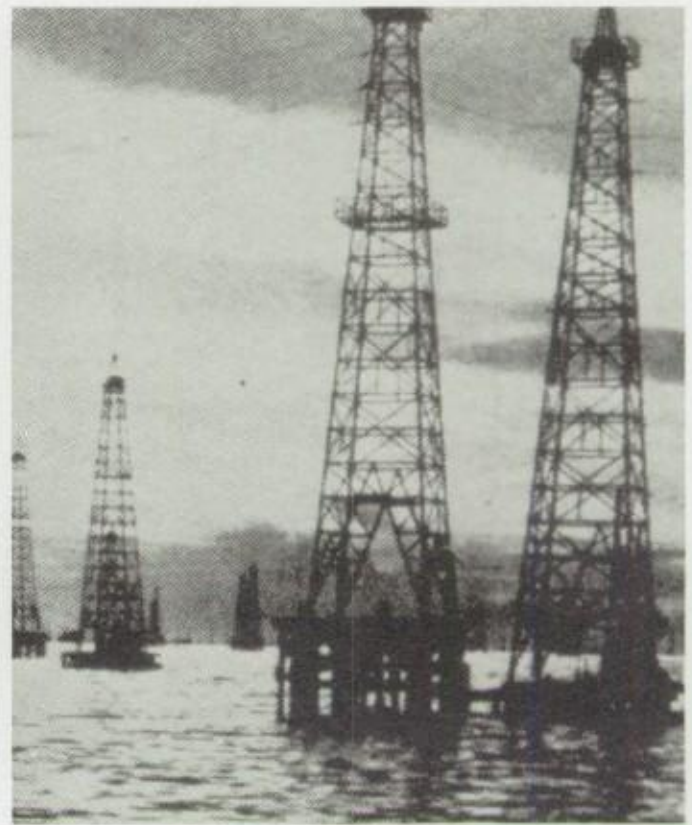

Christmas came with its usual abundance of unneeded luxuries while people in Managua, Nicaragua were deprived of such essentials as food and clothing. Their way of life tumbled down around them as an earthquake struck their city, demolishing their civilization. People from all over the world brought relief to the Nicaraguans showing that all men could work together in moments of crisis.

In the last days of December, our 33rd President, Harry S. Truman, died after a prolonged illness. Less than a month after Truman's death, we lost the last of our living, former Presidents, Lyndon Baines Johnson.

Games Nations Play

we'll have to ASK it for it

PEACE . . . For Some Anyway . . .
Today was our first day
to have PEACE throughout the land,
Our soliders that are now fighting
will shake each others hands,

But what about the solidier
who is lying in his grave,
His life is gone forever
he is one we cannot save,

We lift our heads and raise the flag and thank God for our good fate,

But for those who grieve in sadness
PEACE came a bit too late.

Warren Lee
1-28-73

One of Johnson's greatest dreams was to see the end of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam. On the day after his death, the long awaited peace was announced. Days later, after years of negotiations between diplomat Henry Kissinger and North Vietnamese officials, the Peace Treaty was signed in Paris. Plans were made for the release of the P.O.W.'s and an ineffective cease-fire came into being. Within two weeks, the first group of P.O.W.'s returned home. There were no celebrations, no ticker-tape parades, only sighs of relief and silent prayers thanking God that peace had finally come.

A renewed emphasis was placed on ecology in the early months of 1973 as Americans were brought face to face with the reality of a fuel shortage. The possibility of an energy crisis was nothing new, but people didn't pay much attention until the actual plans to ration gasoline were announced.

The 1972-73 school year was filled with historical events, both tragic and exciting. All of these things affected our lives and the way our game will be played in the future.

Cheryl, been loads of fun this year. Remember the girl who threw up one green bean? Larry Klosterman:
 "Asia! You've got a sense of humor like no one else, I can honestly say. (Like NO ONE) Come over sometime and we'll get inoperated together. Best wishes for the future. Be good, but have fun.
 Duff ya,
 Debbie Calder)

*Did you ever watch your kingdom crumble,
 And mute all your cries before they were heard
 Lest any know such things make you tumble,
 Then, fearing a label, spoke not a word?
 Did you ever watch one way processions
 Of saints once here, but now gone from your reach,
 Grieving your loss near point of possession
 Beseeching your Lord the reasons to teach?
 Did you ever take medicine that cured
 The body's worst ill, but destroyed the soul,
 And when great the need, love was not assured
 And there was none but one could make you whole?
 Well don't pity me, it shall be wasted,
 Pity those who have life never tasted.*

MOONSHADOW

*One night I stopped and watched the moon,
And stopped, I thought of men before:
Vagabonds, doctors, and tycoons
Who yearned to touch that shining floor.
How much they struggled in their mind,
How oft their gleaming eyes took heed,
Of treasures, land, and gold to find,
To the moon-quick — that is my deed!
And then I knew upon this place,
We've been there, and touched, and seen,
How little cares the human race
What's wrong mankind, where have we been?*

 Lord, it's been a long, long time
 Since life's been so kind.
 Watch the fallin' sands of time
 Slip away and pass me by
 Without so much as a smile
 I can see the mornin' sun
 Laugh at me, I ain't the one
 To ride with him awhile
 Look over yonder, there's a dime
 Lord, it's been a long, long time
 Since life's been so kind.*

FOREVER TILL DEATH

*My love, be brave in death,
We won't be forever apart,
Although away has been taken our breath,
Our love will keep our heart.
Ends so soon our time on Earth,
So short a space
To death from birth.
Life is just a wicked race.
We are birds of the night,
Soaring past the moon,
Our time has come to die,
Our endless forever came too soon.
To those that now live: forget your sorrow,
Your time to die could be tomorrow.*

*"We're the best now, and forever more."
Said the Seniors of '74,
"We're better than you, that's plain to see."
They said to the Seniors of '73.
But the Seniors just sat and smiled
And listened to the Juniors' jeers.
They knew they only had a few more weeks,
While the Juniors had ONE MORE YEAR.*

Describe love.

Why, that is like trying to describe yourself.

It is changeable,

it grows,

it hurts,

it rejoices,

it may be complete: someday,

if it is treated right.

Describe you,

Would that be like describing love?

You change,

You grow,

You hurt,

You rejoice,

You will be complete: someday.

But, somehow I can not see

the completeness of you,

or the completeness of me,

without total love

as our bind.

Without each other, we will never be complete.

Now describe love.

It is, "us."

To Karen: Because she is going away

*Hey, funny girl,
 butterfly girl.
 Hey, you
 with the weird red curls.
 Your basketfull
 of butterflies are fluttering by
 before your eyes,
 Their brightly colored
 lovely wings will disappear, be gone.
 Your brown eyes say, "Surprise?"
 I never knew.
 You must have the butterflies
 to reach out with laughter, make a rainbow of friendship, but
 "Butterflies are free",*

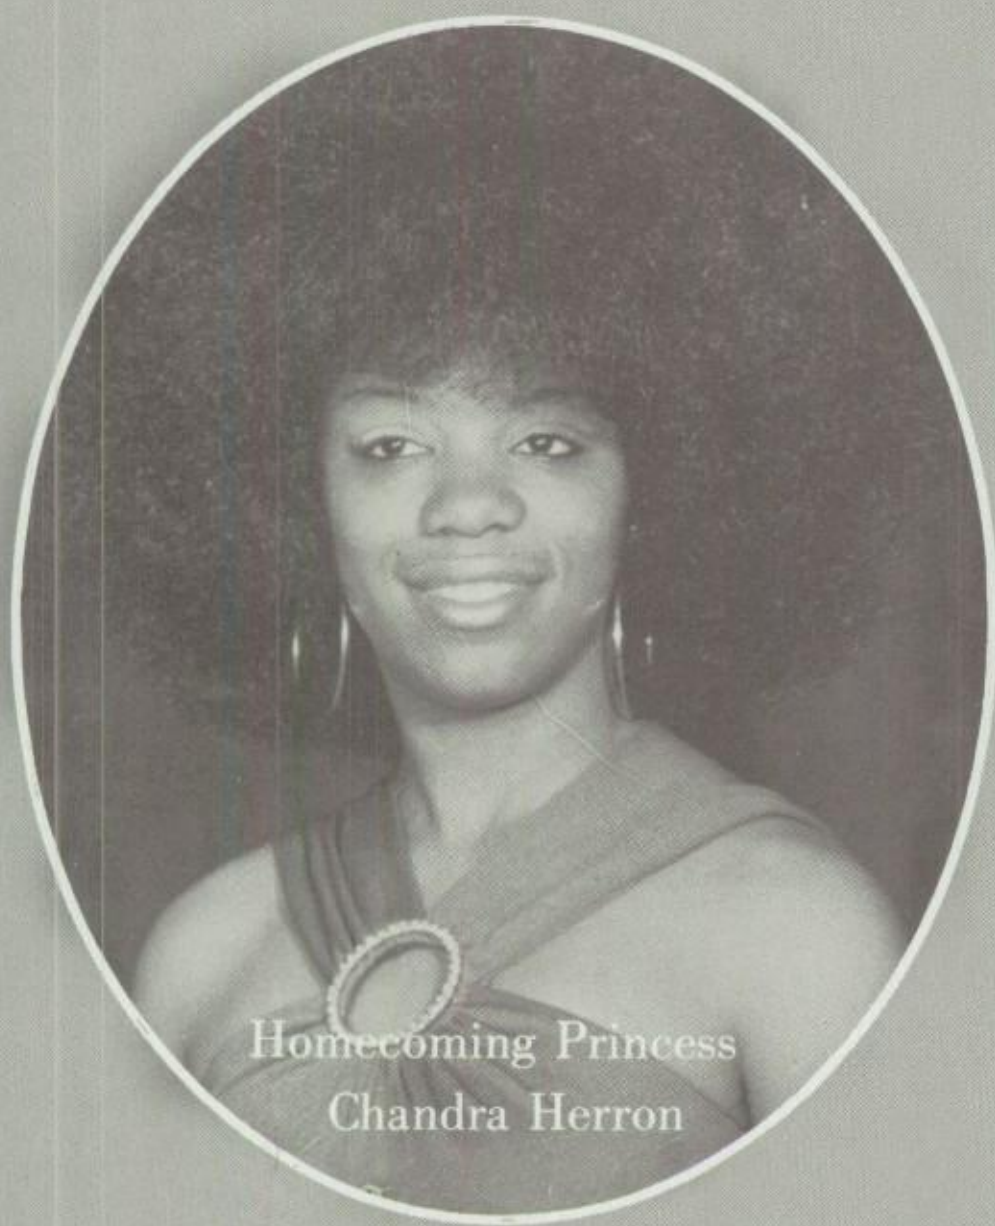

*So must you be.
 Hey, funny girl,
 butterfly girl.
 Hey, you with the weird red curls
 Since it is time for you to leave,
 do not grieve.
 Soon, the butterflies will be returning,
 and promise as before,
 to reach into your basketfull,
 and make a rainbow of friendship
 that will encircle you with love.
 But, remember that once,
 you made someone else happy with your beautiful butterflies,*

 Bill, Rita, and Elaine

As this school year opened the 1973 Carter annual staff was in doubts as to whether there would be a Round-Up. But to the thanks of a very special lady who was almost like a light in the storm there is a 1973 Round-Up. This remarkable, Mrs. Flanagan, stayed up all hours with us and then drove back across town to her husband who would have like to have shot the whole staff! When mid-term crept up on us we regretted seeing our Mrs. Flag leave. So we searched again to find an imaginative and understanding sponsor, but we didn't have to look far. We were on our way to the finish line, with the help of Mr. Truman, who wasn't quite sure what he had gotten himself into, but we're glad he did. So to you Mrs. Flanagan and Turman the 1973 Round-Up Staff gives you our deepest and most sincere thanks for guiding us, helping smooth ruffled feathers, and for just being the greatest sponsors a group of #10 individuals could have.

We would also like to express our thanks to Couch Ingram who came to the rescue with his encouragement and imagination; Bill Walters and Pete Rockett for their help with photography; Beth Wharton for providing technical skills; Bob Lynch our Taylor Representative; and all the faculty members who had (or didn't have) staff members in class.

As this school year comes to a close there are 15 people who could not have wished for anything more than the thought of "no more deadline!" But when you look back they don't seem so bad. Even more important is the fact that we have all profited from these experiences. We have learned to work, share ideas, change, improve, tolerate, laugh, and cry together for a common goal. You are all individuals, unique in a very special way. And together with your thought, imagination, wit, and own personalities you have created a work of art, with a little help from your friends. You have been the artists!

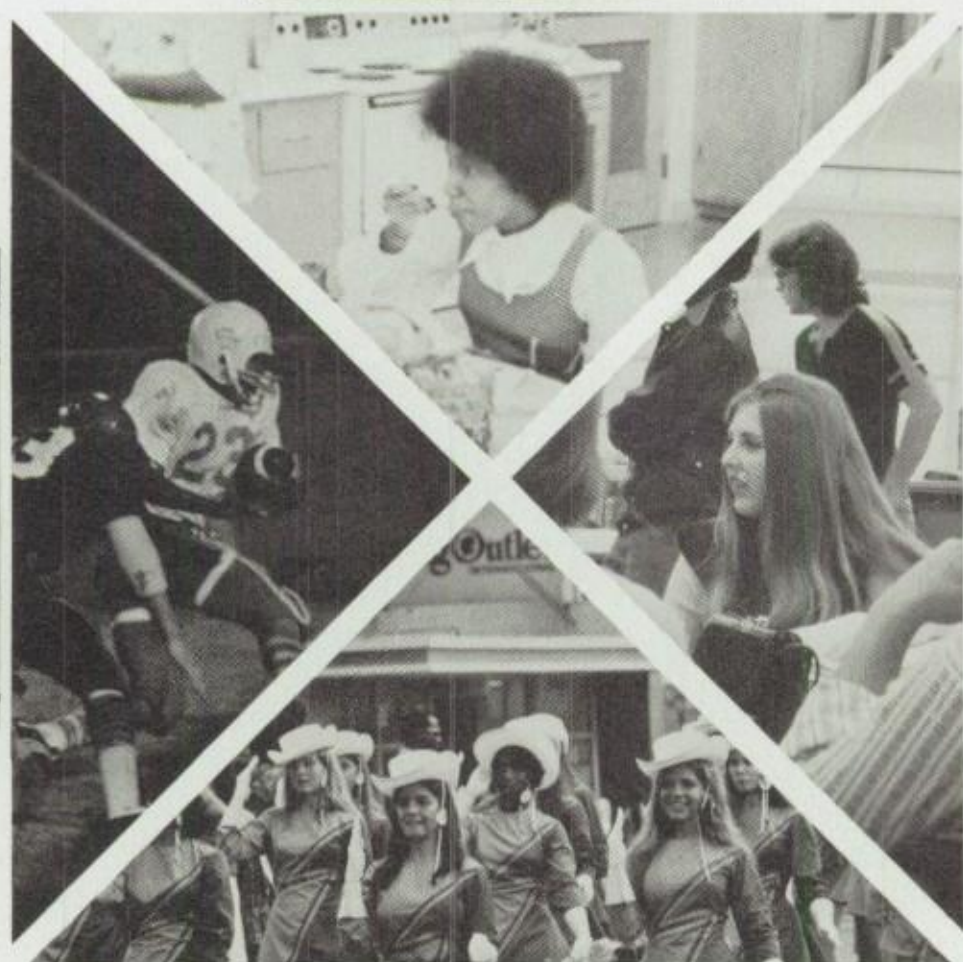

Thank you Dinah, Phyllis, Cathy, Anne, Matt, Rita, Debbie, Mary, Susie, Kathy, JoAnn, Elaine, and Patti.

Meg and Bill

As we look at the year's memories unfolding before us, we hope you have enjoyed playing the "Carter School Game". This book was written not only to capture your memories or to amuse you (although we hope it has) but also to help you understand each other better.

This book was prepared by fifteen totally different people who planned together, fought together, and laughed together. If you can learn to understand people as well as we have learned to understand each other your role in the game will be much happier.
